PROPOSAL MADE FOR REORGANIZING ST. LOUIS JOINT STOCK LAND BANK

Bondholders' Committee, Formed to Avoid Receivership, Says There Is Prospect It Will Default on Interest.

$18,000,000 IN BONDS NOW OUTSTANDING

President Martin Says Action Is Friendly—Heavy Losses Sustained Because of Slump in Agricultural Values.

Holders of $18,000,000 in bonds of St. Louis Joint Stock Land Bank and banks which it has absorbed have been notified of the organization of a bondholders' protective committee formed to effect a re-organization in an effort to avoid receivership.

The committee was formed, the announcement said, , by persons who own substantial amounts of the bonds outstanding because there is prospect that the bank will soon default in payment of interest.

With the decline in prices of farm products and farm lands bonds of joint stock land banks have depreciated greatly. Those of the St. Louis bank have been quoted recently in the over-the-counter market at $30 bid and $35 asked for a $100 bond.

The principal security back of the bonds are the first mortgage loans on farms made by the bank. The bonds, bearing interest at 5 per cent, were sold to the general investing public. They are not listed on any exchange.

Termed Friendly Move.

Mark Martin, president of the bank, termed the formation of a protective committee a friendly move, and added that the bank is faced with serious problems because of prevailing economic and agricultural conditions.

The bank made loans to farmers in Missouri, Arkansas, Illinois and Indiana, many of whom were hard hit by the drouth of 1930, by heavy drainage district taxes and by the general decline in prices of farm commodities which has brought the Department of Agriculture index of farm prices down to the lowest level reached since it was compiled first in 1909.

Many farmers were unable, under these conditions, to meet obligations contracted when their products commanded high prices and there were numerous foreclosures with the result that on the first of this month the bank owned, or was in the process of acquiring, farms in which it had invested $5,405,345, and had $4,180,243 in loans not in foreclosure although delinquent in payments. Against these there were $8,539,157 in loans on which installments were being paid as they became due.

The bank on that date owned 302 farms, and was about to acquire 393 more. Loans against 662 farms were delinquent, but not in foreclosure, and loans against 2581 farms were in good standing.

Charges Off $364,000.

Because of the accumulation of drainage district and other special taxes last year the bank found it advisable to charge off investments totaling $364,893, rather than pay the taxes and lost $435,815 in the sale of 148 farms on which it had lent $945,352, but which could be sold for only $466,694. It ended the year with an operating loss of $68,030 and a deficit of $951,826, which had been increased in its statement for April 1 to $1,177,638.

The profit account in last year's statement included $360,998 saved by buying back on the open market bonds of the bank of a par value of $689,500.

Bondholders' Committee.

St. Louis members of the Bondholders' Committee are E. D. Nims, chairman of the Executive Committee of Missouri State Life Insurance Co., and Davis Biggs, vice president of the St. Louis Union Trust Co. Other members are Frank C. Ball of Muncie, Ind., president of Ball Bros. Co.; George F. Hardie of Chicago, vice president of the Continental Illinois Co.; Reeve Schley of New York, vice president of Chase National Bank; G. A. Tomlinson of Cleveland, president of the Tomlinson Co. of Cleveland, and Arthur W. Brady of Anderson, Ind., attorney.

The committee has retained the firm of Bryan, Williams, Cave & McPheeters as counsel and William H. Humphrey of Humphrey, Jacques & Co. as secretary. Its

LAST OF FIVE KIDNAPERS OF BERG FOUND GUILTY; RECEIVES 25-YEAR TERM

JURY KNOCKS OUT $1,000,000 WILL OF MRS. BORDLEY

Decides Contest of Sister of Tobacco Man's Widow Who Left Fortune to Home for Incurables.

The will of Mrs. Blanche Bordley, who left the bulk of her $1,000,000 estate as a trust fund for chronic invalids, was set aside today by a jury in Circuit Judge Rutledge's court.

The jury sustained charges in the suit that she was of unsound mind and under undue influence of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co., which she named executor. The verdict was 11 to 1.

The case went to the jury at 10 a. m., following arguments by counsel late yesterday. An audience which packed the courtroom, including a number of beneficiaries under the will, elderly friends of Mrs. Bordley, who was a member of an old St. Louis family, and a number of attorneys, was present at the four-hour arguments. Testimony had been under way since March 16, with statements of more than 100 witnesses presented to the jury.

Referring to 'this grand will of this splendid woman," Frank A. Thompson of counsel for the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co., executor under the will, and the individuals and charities who were defendants, denied the charge that Mrs. Bordley was of unsound mind, as made by her 86-year-old-sister, Mrs. Adele L. Tatum of Los Angeles, who brought the suit.

"Of Superior Mentality."

"It takes only mind and memory sufficient to know what you're doing to make a valid will," Thompson said. "Beyond question, Mrs. Bordley had a very superior mentality and no one could unduly influence her."

The charge of undue influence on the part of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank formed a principal part of the plaintiff's case. In reading excerpts of letters written by Mrs. Bordley, Thompson pointed out to the jury she had not hesitated to criticise the conduct of the trust company in managing her affairs after the death of her husband, Daniel C. Bordley, a director of the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Thompson spoke of special bequests of $315,000 made by Mrs. Bordley, including $20,000 to Mrs. Tatum and $98,000 more to her relatives. He told of Mrs. Bordley's extensive gifts to charity during her lifetime and finally of the principal bequest of the will, the trust fund for incurables, to be administered by St. Louis University and the Sisters of St. Mary, a Catholic order.

"Would you take that away from the sick and poor and give most of it to the lawyers and Clifford Tatum?" the attorney asked. According to testimony, the law firm of Foristel, Mudd, Blair & Habenicht and a Kansas City law firm representing Mrs. Tatum have a contract to get 50 per cent of anything she may realize by the contest. Clifford Tatum, one of the five sons of the plaintiff, has a contract to get 50 per cent of his mother's estate at her death.

Thompson contended the charge that Mrs. Bordley suffered delusional insanity and believed she was a reincarnation of Mary, Queen of Scots, had been "exploded" by defense witnesses.

He denied Mrs. Tatum believed her sister insane and defended the conduct of her sons, Warren and Frank, in testifying for the bank on the ground that they had the interests of their mother at heart in "attempting to stop the litigation that is gnawing at her heart."

Harvey B. Cox's Argument.

Harvey B. Cox, a member of Foristel's law firm, began his argument for the plaintiff by denying a statement attributed to him in rebuttal testimony of Warren Tatum. Warren Tatum had told of a conference at Cox's office before the trial began, attended by himself, Clifford Tatum, their brother Robert, another attorney and Cox. He quoted Cox as saying, "We'll win this litigation. We'll prove our charges. We elect the judges in this court and they do what we want them to do."

Cox pointed out the number of persons present at the conference and asked the jury, "Do you think

With the verdict "guilty" and 25-year prison term voted last night by a jury against George Peak, "finger man," who pointed out Alexander Berg to his kidnapers as a desirable victim, all five of the actual kidnapers have been convicted.

Only one prisoner remains to be tried. He is Paul A. Richards, attorney, charged with being the agent of the kidnapers in their unsuccessful effort to collect $50,000 ransom. Important new evidence against him was disclosed in the Peak trial. His first trial ended in a jury disagreement and the second is set for May 9.

Disposition of Other Cases.

In the five months since Berg was kidnaped the State, in addition to Peak's conviction, has the following record:

Charles Heuer, ex-convict leader of the kidnapers, convicted by a jury which fixed his punishment at 99 years in prison.

Edward Barcume, also a former convict, and his first lieutenant, convicted and ordered sentenced to 25 years in prison.

Curtis Medlock, third of the actual kidnapers, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 25 years in the penitentiary.

Charles Tucker, former juvenile delinquent, hired by the kidnapers as a guard over Berg in the flat at 5084A Easton avenue, pleaded guilty with sentence deferred.

The new evidence against Richards was given by Medlock, who testified in the Peak case that Richards was in direct contact with the kidnapers as their agent for more than 36 hours before he met Berg's attorney, Morris G. Levinson, and accepted $1000 from him to arrange for the release of the wealthy fur dealer.

Accuses Attorney Richards.

The high points in Medlock's testimony as it affects the Richards case were:

That Heuer and Barcume left the kidnapers' flat on Sunday, Nov. 8, saying they were going to see Richards to try to induce him to act as their agent;

That upon their return they told Medlock Richards had agreed to act;

That they then forced Berg to write a $50,000 promissory note payable to Richards;

That Berg was ordered to address the note from a business card of Richards handed him by Heuer;

That the drafts of the note and of a letter Berg wrote to his lawyer, instructing him to hire Richards as a go-between were furnished to Heuer by Richards;

That Medlock himself met Richards on the following day, Nov. 9, in Fairground Park, more than 24 hours before Berg was released, and on the day before Richards was hired by Berg's lawyer as go-between. Medlock was not asked to detail the conversation that took place there between him and Richards, the State reserving it for presentation as evidence in the Richards trial.

Contradicts Richards.

Medlock's testimony was in direct contradiction to the defense given on the witness stand by Richards in his first trial. Richards testified he had not heard from the kidnapers when he was requested by Levinson to visit his office in conformity with Berg's letter asking that Richards be hired: that it was only after that he heard from Heuer for the first time: that he did not see Heuer but talked to him on the telephone, and then only when Heuer called; that he neither talked with nor knew any of the other kidnapers.

Peak's trial reached a swift conclusion at 11:30 o'clock last night, two hours and 15 minutes after the case had been given to the jury. Testimony had been concluded shortly before 6 o'clock, and the night session was devoted to instructions by the Court and arguments of counsel.

Peak, 43-year-old former bartender who was paroled from the Missouri penitentiary a year and a half ago after serving 10 years of a life term for the murder of a Negro in a holdup, showed no emotion as the jury announced its verdict. Under the prevailing practice of the State Penal Board his parole will be revoked, so that both the old life sentence and the new 25-year term are confronting him now.

Jurors Keep Silence.

After the jury had been discharged the foreman, Edward E. Dorenbach of 911 Marcus avenue, a salesman for the Ward Baking Co., told reporters the jury had agreed not to discuss its deliberations "even in our own families."

The State had shown by Medlock that Heuer and Peak were in contact for several weeks before the kidnaping, and that Heuer

CASHIER OF GRAND NATIONAL BANK COMMITS SUICIDE

'CAN'T STAND THIS LONGER,' HE WROTE

President Ed Mays Attributes Act to Illness, Saying His Affairs Were in Good Shape.

Flavel G. Redwine, cashier of the Grand National Bank, shot and killed himself today in his automobile, on a road between New Haven and Washington, Mo., at a point about 60 miles west of St. Louis.

Illness was the cause of the suicide, in the opinion of Ed Mays, president of the bank, who said that Redwine's affairs at the bank were in good shape.

The body was found in the car, a sedan, parked beside the highway, with the gasoline tank empty. The revolver with which Redwine had shot himself in the right temple was in the car. A note, evidently meant for his wife and daughter, read:

Dear Mother and Mary Lucy: I can't stand this any longer: I love you all. I guess it's in my blood. DADDY.

An inquest, held by Coroner Shaffer of Franklin County, resulted in a verdict of suicide. The body was taken to the undertaking establishment of Otto & Co., in Washington.

Redwine, 50 years old, lived at 6601 Enright avenue, University City, and had been with the Grand National three years, formerly as vice president and lately as cashier. He previously lived in Marshall, Ark., and was a State bank examiner in Arkansas. He is survived by his widow and two daughters, one of whom is married and lives in California.

Mays said Redwine left St. Louis in his automobile a week ago Tuesday and drove to Harrison, Ark., where he testified in a court case. It had been understood that he would take a few days' outing before returning to his work here. He was on his way back to St. Louis when he ended his life.

SEVEN JOBS IN NOLTE'S OFFICE ABOLISHED AS ECONOMY MOVE

Six Men Clerks and Woman Stenographer to Be Let Out April 30.

Seven employes in Comptroller Nolte's office were notified today that their positions would be discontinued after April 30, as an economy measure.

The seven include six men clerks with monthly salaries of $130 each and a woman stenographer who receives $100 a month. Comptroller Nolte pointed out that street widening work and care of special tax benefit bills, which they handled, nearly had been completed. He announced they would be in line for re-employment "when times are again normal."

Nolte has sent a notice to all city departments to cut their expenses by 10 per cent to meet a $2,500,000 curtailment of revenues for the fiscal year.

17,000 TAKE CUT OF $2 A DAY IN BUILDING TRADES

Plasterers, Steamfitters and Plumbers Reject Proposal —Bricklayers Acted Previously.

New wage scales about $2 a day below those paid heretofore will become effective in the building industry here tomorrow.

An agreement to this effect was signed today by representatives of contractors and the building trades unions.

The percentage of reduction ranges from 8 per cent in the lower scales to 17 per cent in the more skilled trades.

An official statement issued by the joint wage committee stated that approximately 17,000 of the 20,000 union workmen agreed to accept the cut for one year. Those rejecting the proposal were plasterers, steamfitters, plumbers and sprinkler fitters.

Bricklayers, who are not members of the Building Trades Council, agreed last week to accept a cut of $2 a day, from $14 to $12, whereas the joint committee had recommended that the reduction for bricklayers be $2.25 a day.

Committee Statement.

The committee's statement in part follows:

"This movement is to be regarded as a voluntary agreement, reducing wages in this industry for a period of one year, thereby reducing the cost of construction. This reduction in wages places the value of the efforts of building trades workmen commensurate with the value of efforts of workmen in other lines, and it is hoped that it will stimulate building and tend toward relieving unemployment."

Regarding the four unions which rejected the reduction proposal, representatives of contractors stated that they would pay the scale prescribed under the new agreement, and no more. Contracting plumbers are planning to meet soon to discuss means of handling the situation in their end of the industry. The new wage scales vary from 56½ cents an hour for wreckers to $1.67½ hourly for electricians.

Arguments of employers in demanding a reduction included the large number of unemployed union men, estimated variously up to 75 per cent at this time, and the charge that many union men were working below the wage scale.

FEWER FINNISH LIQUOR CASES

HELSINGFORS, Finland, April 14.—Police statistics released today noted a slight falling off in the number of cases arising from alcoholic liquor since the abandonment of prohibition last month.

The figures of the police for the last week of the prohibition law showed 524 arrests for drunkenness. Under the new liquor laws during the first week of their enforcement 411 persons were arrested for the same offense.

WOMAN HELD FOR KILLING IN QUARREL OVER BRIDGE

Death of Husband Due to Injury Which Resulted From Throwing Scissors.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Mrs. Sadie Oster, 35 years old, was arraigned in Brooklyn today on a charge of manslaughter which resulted fro ma quarrel over a bridge game. It is charged she caused the death of her husband, Sam Oster, 45, by throwing a pair of scissors at him.

Oster died on April 4 of meningitis of the brain, due to infection. Mrs. Oster was released in bail of $2500 and ordered to appear for examination on April 29.

The bridge game was played on the night of March 29. Mrs. Oster bid no-trump and was set. Oster upbraided her because, police said, she did not hold the proper cards to warrant the bid.

The guests left. The dispute continued and finally, police said, Oster began to beat his wife, whereupon she threw the scissors which struck him in the eye. He was taken to a hospital, where the infection developed. Shortly before he died, Oster called detectives and told them one of the guests threw the scissors. However, the detectives said, Mrs. Oster told them that was an attempt on the part of her husband to shield her.

GIRL LEARNS ENGLISH IN YEAR, TEACHES OTHERS AT AGE OF 7

Child of Immigrants, Unfamiliar With Language in First Grade, Now in Eighth at Chicago.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 14.—A 7-year-old girl whose immigrant parents can neither read nor write English, is teaching school in Chicago. She is Joanna Xenos, who prefers American newspapers and French history to fairy tales.

Joanna was unable to read or write English when she entered the first grade. Within 10 months she was advanced to the fourth grade. Within the past month she passed into the eighth grade.

The advanced studies were so easy for her that she was put in charge of a room of 40 pupils from 8 to 11 years of age to help them with their reading and writing. She spends half of each school day teaching and the other half looking after her own studies.

Her father and mother are of Greek and Polish nationality, respectively.

MICHIGAN DEMOCRATS PLEDGE DELEGATION FOR ROOSEVELT

38 Votes Will Go to New York Governor as Long as "Best Judgment Dictates."

By the Associated Press.

SAGINAW, Mich., April 14.—Michigan's 36 votes in the Democratic national convention were pledged by the party's State convention today to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York for the presidential nomination.

The instructions to the Michigan delegation direct that it vote for Roosevelt "as long as in the best judgment of the delegation party welfare so dictates." The convention vote was practically unanimous.

The convention also adopted resolutions calling for the repeal of the national and State prohibition laws.

Shouts of "We want beer" drowned out attempts to modify the prohibition repeal resolutions.

Los Angeles Specialists Summoned at Trial of Mrs. Fortescue and Three Others.

By the Associated Press.

HONOLULU, April 14.—The prosecution closed its testimony today against Mrs. Granville Fortescue and three navy men charged with the murder of Joseph Kahahawai. Mrs. Fortescue's co-defendants are her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones, seamen. At the time of the killing Kahahawai was awaiting retrial with four other men on a charge of attacking Mrs. Fortescue's daughter, who is Lieut. Massie's wife.

Spectators sat up all night to obtain seats and the courtroom was crowded.

The first inkling of Darrow's line of defense came when Dr. Edward Huntington Williams and Dr. James Orbison, Los Angeles alienists, appeared as defense witnesses.

Prosecutor John C. Kelley said he would probably rely on the testimony of Dr. Stanley Proteus, professor of psychology of the University of Hawaii, and Dr. Robert Faus, city and county physician, if the defense introduced the insanity issue.

Resumption of testimony was delayed half an hour by an argument among counsel in the Judge's chambers as to whether Mrs. Joseph Kahahawai Sr., mother of the slain athlete, would testify.

Darrow opposed placing her on the stand. He said the defense was prepared to admit that the cap found in the Fortescue home, alleged scene of the killing, was Kahahawai's. The mother had been called by the prosecution with the intention of having her identify the cap as her son's.

Judge Davis overruled Darrow's objection to the prosecution's plans and allowed Kelley to proceed as he saw fit. Mrs. Kahahawai was listed as the last prosecution witness.

Kelley, however, called to the stand Lono McCallum, a policeman who described experiments with a pistol similar to that with which Kahahawai was killed. McCallum testified such a weapon could be fired as close as two feet away from an object without making powder burns on cloth. He also testified he found no evidence of a struggle in the Fortescue house on the day of the killing and no sign of powder burns on Kahahawai's clothing.

Concluding the prosecution's case Kelley read into the record today contradictory statements made by Mrs. Fortescue and another defendant the day of the killing.

A stenographic transcript read by Miss Mapuana Peters, stenographer, covering statements made by Mrs. Fortescue and Albert O. Jones within two hours after the killing, showed Mrs. Fortescue answered "I don't know," to most

SMITH OPENS ATTACK ON ROOSEVELT'S NOMINATION

In Jefferson Day Banquet Speech, He Assails Former Friend's Latest Address as That of a 'Demagogue.'

DEPLORES 'SETTING RICH AGAINST POOR'

Suggests War Debts Be Forgotten 20 Years and 25 Pct. Allowed on U. S. Purchases—Byrd Offers Prohibition Compromise.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York, an angry warrior, was out in the open today—with his coat and vest off, as he would say—against the nomination of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York for the presidency.

Any doubt that may have existed as to Smith's attitude toward Roosevelt was removed by the slashing and sensational attack made by the former Democratic standard-bearer at a Jefferson day dinner attended by 1500 Democrats her last night. Smith did not name Roosevelt, but there was no mistaking what or whom he meant.

His pointed remarks on at least three occasions in his speech, which went out over the country on a radio hook-up, were directed straight at Roosevelt, and everybody at the dinner knew it. Roosevelt was not present. He had declined an invitation to the dinner on the ground of pressing public business in New York.

Two Other Surprises.

Smith's shots at the New York Governor diverted attention, for the moment, from his novel scheme for settling the war debts and they were even more provocative of comment than the surprising advocacy of a prohibition referendum by the dry former Gov. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia.

The first shot was a contemptuous reference to the statement by Roosevelt in a radio speech last week that "we must restore the purchasing power of the farmer." He quoted Roosevelt's words in substance and added:

"Fine. Of course we must, but how are we going to do it? I would sooner have a short hand-shake with the fellow that knows how to do it than listen for a week to the fellow who knows how to tell you what the trouble is."

As was his custom in the 1928 campaign, Smith departed from the text of his speech as given out in advance for publication, but adhered to the prepared line of thought.

In his next allusion to Roosevelt, he "pulled his punch" slightly, but the wallop was still there. He was dealing with the radio remarks of Roosevelt about a great bond issue for public works.

His prepared text read: "Exception to this has recently been taken in a nation-wide speech by a prominent Democrat on the theory that it is a stop gap. Whoever said that it was anything else? It is at least better than nothing."

He Tones Down Remark.

Smith in delivery merely said that "somebody" had made the remark about the "stop-gap," but again it was clear that he was firing at Roosevelt. The latter had said that large appropriations for construction—something that Smith has been strongly advocating—would be only a "stop-gap" and would not give employment to the seven or 10 million people out of work.

Smith went ahead with his championship of a bond issue, declaring that it would be "infinitely better than a continuance of the disguised dole in states municipalities encouraged by the Federal Government.

But Smith threw his biggest bombshell when he came to a denunciation of "demagoguery." No one could doubt that he was assailing the remarks in which Roosevelt had condemned the Hoover relief proposals as designed to benefit the big banks and corporations while neglecting "the forgotten man at the bottom of the economic pyramid." Smith did not directly quote these remarks, but it was evident that they supplied him with his case.

"No Time for Demagogues."

"This is no time for demagogues," he shouted. "At a time like this when millions of men and women and children are starving throughout the land, there is al-

RECEIVERSHIP FOR BIG INSULL FIRM REPORTED LIKELY

Chicago Newspapers Say Move to Reorganize Middle West Utilities Is Virtually Abandoned.

$10,000,000 IN NOTES ARE DUE IN JUNE

Central Concern Has Subsidiaries in 4741 Communities in 30 States as Well as in Canada.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Morning newspapers said today a receivership appeared likely for Middle West Utilities, the holding company for Samuel Insull's interests, and reported the virtual abandonment of efforts bankers have been making to reorganize it.

The Tribune quoted unnamed bankers as saying there was little likelihood the concern would be able to make arrangements to meet its pressing financial problems, the foremost of which is a $10,000,000 note due June 1. It said inasmuch as it appeared the company would also be unable to meet similar funded maturities in the next few years, the probable outcome was a receivership.

The Middle West Utilities controls a group of public utility properties serving 4741 communities in 30 Central, Southwestern and Eastern states and in Canada. Its receivership would be the largest in the nation's history.

The subsidiaries have in operation 302 steam electric generating stations, 196 hydro-electric stations, 81 gas manufacturing plants, 328 ice plants, one sheeting plant, 232 gas holders of 25,011,960 cubic feet capacity, gas mains totaling 4897 miles, and electric transmission lines totaling 89,969 miles.

The company has outstanding $40,000,000 of serial notes of an original issue of $50,000,000. Of this issue $10,000,000 will mature June 1. It has bank loans also aggregating $27,000,000.

Under present conditions, the Chicago papers say it is impossible to "refinance" the company's requirements due to the existing market and to sell off any of its properties at present prices is regarded as not feasible.

Samuel Insull issued a statement today saying that the three large operating companies of the Insull group — Commonwealth Edison, People's Gas Light & Coke, and Public Service of Northern Illinois —were not involved in any troubles that might beset Middle West Utilities Co., the Insull Utility Investments and Corporation Securities Co.

The figures of the three operating companies for the first quarter of 1932, Insull said, would show:

Net earnings of Commonwealth Edison within $98,000 of what they were for the first quarter of 1931.

Net earnings of People's Gas, Light & Coke within $80,000 of what they were for the first quarter of 1931.

Net earnings of Public Service of Northern Illinois $382,000 in excess of the first 1931 quarter.

Insull said:

"In view of rumors, reports and misinformation widely circulated, I wish to emphasize these facts:

"Whatever may be the troubles of Middle West Utilities Co., Insull Utility Investments and Corporation Securities, such troubles are not the troubles of the three large operating companies in and around Chicago—Commonwealth Edison, People's Gas, Light & Coke Co., and the Public Service Co. of Northern Illinois—and do not involve the financial status or stability of such operating companies.

"These three companies are as they always have been, separate and independent concerns with consistent records of efficient operation and sustained earning power, and are free from entanglements which might hamper their ability to earn their own way or finance themselves."

As Insull gave out his statement quotations of the three stocks rose several points.

STATE LIQUOR CONTROL AMENDMENT INTRODUCED

Constitutional Action Is Proposed by Senators Bingham and Tydings.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—A state liquor control constitutional amendment was introduced yesterday by Senators Bingham of Connecticut and Tydings of Maryland, Republican and Democratic antiprohibition leaders, respectively.

The amendment would permit states either to remain under the control of the eighteenth amendment or by a popular vote to set up their own system.

Bingham and Tydings will go before a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee today at the opening of hearings on prohibition repeal to press their proposal.

"This is an effort," Bingham said in a statement, "to permit states which desire to recover their rights to control the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages and at the same time to protect those states which do not wish to have any different system than that to which they are now subjected."

had said Peak was laying the groundwork for the kidnaping of Berg. Through the testimony of Arthur Bateman, former convict and associate of Heuer in the retail fish business, it was shown that on one occasion during the preliminary conferences Peak remarked to Heuer: "Berg will go for some easy money."

Medlock also testified that Peak was to have been the "contact man" to collect the ransom, but that he was discarded in favor of Richards when he "got gummed up with the law." Tucker and Medlock both told of the activities of the kidnapers before and during Berg's captivity, and Levinson, John T. Rogers, Post-Dispatch reporter, Berg and other witnesses gave the testimony forming the background of the abduction conspiracy.

Three Defense Witnesses.

Peak did not take the witness stand. His attorney, Joseph Linder, former Detective-Sergeant, called three defense witnesses. They were the convicted kidnaper, Barcume, and two convicted robbers, Oral Ellis and Charles Goodman.

All of them declared they had heard Medlock say in city jail that he would have to serve only four years of his 25-year term for testifying against Richards and Peak "if he could think up anything to say."

Goodman and Ellis were excused after brief cross-examination. But the swarthy Barcume, cocky and defiant, refused to answer many questions on cross-examination, even when told to do so by the Court.

"The Court can't send him to jail," Judge Ossing remarked after Barcume had been particularly surly in refusing to answer a question, "because that's where he is already."

"He ought to be shot," Peak muttered in an undertone, glaring at the erstwhile friend on whom he had relied for helpful testimony. After Barcume was excused the defense rested without calling Heuer, who also had been summoned from the city jail to testify.

Instructions of the Court followed the line of those given in previous trials in the kidnaping case. In his closing argument, Assistant Circuit Attorney Flynn did not ask for the death penalty. Linder devoted most of his brief address to an attack on the character of Medlock and other State's witnesses.

He is suffering from an intestinal ailment and his heart has shown signs of weakening under a long siege of illness.

MOSCOW, April 14.—A dispatch to Izvestia from Baku says five persons were killed and nearly 20 injured in a volcanic eruption on the Island of Svinoi.

The Soviet steamer Yakov-Zevin sped to the scene, the dispatch said, and took abroad 18 persons who were suffering from burns. Svinoi is one of a number of small islands in the Caspian Sea south of Baku.

PEORIA KIDNAPING CLEARED UP WITH SIX UNDER ARREST

Farmer and Wife, Son and Three Other Men Held in Abduction of Dr. James W. Parker.

By the Associated Press.

PEORIA, Ill., April 14. — Six men arrested in a farmhouse today were said to have cleared up the kidnaping of Dr. James W. Parker. The police said some of the prisoners confessed, implicating James W. Betson and Joseph H. Pursiful, who have been held in jail for three weeks.

The prisoners are Raymond Stoops, a farmer, his wife, Bessie; Dan Stoops, their son; Orlo Stoops, bond salesman; Cecil Menninger, 31 years old; a nephew of Betson; and Ed Woodford, a hired hand on the Stoops farm.

Dr. Parker, a prominent surgeon, was kidnaped and held for 18 days for ransom. He was released April 1 near Peoria. It was said the $10,000 ransom demanded was not paid. The day before agents of Chicago's "Secret Six" had seized Betson and Pursifull.

Police said Mr. and Mrs. Stoops confessed that Dr. Parker was held in their home.

Betson admitted acting as a go-between for the kidnapers and engaging Pursiful to deal with the Parker family for him. Pursiful also confessed that much of the transaction.

Sergt. Harry Trausch of the State Highway police and Detectives Charles Welty found the Stoops farm yesterday. Trausch had been investigating near Banner, Ill., since the "secret six" left the case upon the return of Dr. Parker.

Trausch and Welty found young Dean Stoops alone on the farm yesterday. He said his parents were in Pekin. They tore a strip of wall paper out of an upstairs room and took it to Peoria. Dr. Parker identified it as similar to the paper on the wall he sat facing for 18 days.

The arrests followed today. Arlo, a brother of Raymond Stoops, was arrested in Bloomington, where he was visiting relatives. Woodford was with him. The hired hand left the Stoops farm two weeks ago.

Police said Dean told them Menninger had been Dr. Parker's guard and that Arlo Stoops drove the kidnapers' car. Menninger, when confronted with Dean, admitted the accusation, police said.

Mrs. Stoops said neither she, her husband nor her son had anything to do with the plot. She alone was not booked, but all were held in jail here.

I'd be capable of such foolishness as to say a thing like that?"

He admitted that Mrs. Bordley was a widely-traveled woman and well-informed but insisted that delusional insanity which he charged she suffered would not be observed in her ordinary actions. He reviewed testimony of her supposed vision of being Queen Mary, her supposed accounts of visiting an ethereal city on the Mexican border, and her "roving disposition."

Cox stated that provisions of the will gave the trust company power to use the trust fund "for an institution in Shanghai if it so desired."

Edward W. Foristel, who also argued for the plaintiff, attacked the "copper-riveted instrument" which the trust fund had in the will.

Foristel defended the 50 per cent contract for the lawyers on the ground they originally had believed the estate to be only a little more than $200,000. He defended the payment by the attorneys of $85 a month to Mrs. Tatum, $85 a month to her invalid daughter, and a like amount to Mrs. Adele Donovan Chambers, another beneficiary. Foristel spoke of "high-powered salesmanship" by the trust company in solicitation of business.

Sharp attacks were made by attorneys of both sides on opposing counsel, with Thompson speaking of the "champerty" of lawyers "who know how to fix things up." Cox referred to "skulduggery" on the part of the defense and viciously attacked Warren Tatum, who he charged with soliciting money from both sides in the case and finally attempting to "convince his mother that her attorneys were not representing her."

Bank Sues Tatums on Notes for $12,500.

Mercantile Commerce Bank & Trust Co., as executor of Mrs. Bordley's estate, brought suit in Circuit Court today against Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tatum on notes for $12,500 they signed in 1927 and 1928. The bank asks for interest at the rate of 8 per cent and $1250 in attorney fees.

Robert Tatum, a witness in the trial over the will, testified the notes acknowledged advances made by his aunt, Mrs. Bordley, to help him in an oil venture which proved unprofitable. Mrs. Bordley, he said, regarded the failure of the venture as cancelling the obligation.

The Rev. Dr. C. Oscar Johnson, pastor of the Third Baptist Church, conducted funeral services today at Morristown, Tenn., for his father-in-law, John J. Long, who died Tuesday at the age of 76 years. The Rev. Mr. Johnson will return with Mrs. Johnson tomorrow.

U. S. IMMIGRATION OFFICE IN ST. LOUIS IS UNDER INQUIRY

Investigator Says He Has Made 'Serious Recommendation' Concerning James T. H. Nash.

The office of James T. H. Nash, inspector in charge of the Federal immigration office here, is under investigation by Murray W. Garsson, special Assistant Secretary of Labor, who was sent to St. Louis from Washington several days ago.

Garsson said today he had "made a serious recommendation to Washington," but declined to discuss the case further. At Washington, the Department of Labor announced that "Nash has not been discharged or suspended."

Nash is seriously ill at St. Mary's Hospital, suffering from peritonitis and a gall bladder disease, and could not be seen.

The duties of the immigration inspector chiefly concern the investigation and deportation of aliens, and the decision to deport usually rests with the inspector in charge. Last year Nash's office investigated between 1000 and 1500 cases, many of which resulted in deportation.

Nash, whose salary is $3300 a year, has been in charge of the St. Louis office since 1923, and for many years prior to that had been a member of the immigration office staff.

REORGANIZATION SOUGHT FOR JOINT STOCK LAND BANK

headquarters are in the Railway Exchange Building.

The bank was organized in 1922 by William R. Compton, St. Louis investment dealer, under the provision of the Federal farm loan act. Joint stock land banks are private concerns, subject to regulation by the Federal Farm Loan Board, and not, as is sometimes supposed, subsidized in any way by the Government. They were formed to provide capital for agricultural development and standardize investments in farm mortgages. Their bonds, are tax exempt.

Organized with a capital of $250,000, the St. Louis Joint Stock Land Bank expanded and now has a paid in capital of $1,430,000. After three years it acquired the Southeast Missouri Joint Stock Land Bank of Cape Girardeau and the Illinois Joint Stock Land Bank of Greenville.

Business at Peak in 1927.

Its business reached a peak in the summer of 1927 when it had loans of $22,204,508 in good standing and only $168,291 delinquent. Against these there were $21,249,000 in bonds. Last April 1, loans in good standing totaled $8,689,804, and delinquent loans $6,249,745. Bonds outstanding then totaled $18,208,500.

Compton and his associates are no longer connected with the management of the bank. The original officers, besides Compton, who was board chairman, were L. L. Beavers, president; Thomas N. Dysart and Henry H. Hopkins, vice presidents; Charles P. Pettus, treasurer, and David M. Hardy, secretary. William H. Danforth, chairman of the board of Ralston Purina Co., resigned recently as chairman of the board of the bank.

Stockholders of joint stock land banks, as are those of national banks, are liable for additional assessments equal to the par value of their stock holdings.

The present officers, besides Martin, are William E. Rhea, vice president; G. K. Hughey, treasurer, and G. E. Davis, secretary. The bank has offices in the American Trust Building, 315 North Seventh street.

Smith Opens Attack on Roosevelt

ways the temptation to some men to stir up the bitterness of the rich against the poor, and of the poor against the rich. I protest against the endeavor to delude the poor people of this country to their ruin by trying to make them believe that they can get employment before the people who would ordinarily employ them are also again restored to conditions of normal prosperity.

"I have recently stated that while I would accept a nomination for the Presidency if it were tendered me by the Chicago convention, that until the convention assembled I would not be for or against any candidate. I announce tonight one exception to that statement. I will take off my coat and vest and fight to the end against any candidate who persists in any demogogic appeal to the masses of the working people of this country to destroy themselves by setting class or rich against poor."

Smith's speech was heard by James A. Farley, the Roosevelt campaign manager, but he declined last night to make any comment upon it.

Smith began by urging the party at Chicago to write a short, easily understandable platform instead of the usual verbose document. There was no use to waste space in denouncing the Hoover administration, he said, since that office had already been adequately performed by Republican newspapers.

"A Minority Party."

It needed to be kept in mind, he went on, that the Democratic party was a minority party, as shown by the fact that it had elected only two Presidents since the Civil War. Too often, he said, the party had tried to ride into power on the mistakes of its opponents rather than any constructive program of its own.

The present depression in the United States, he continued, was different from others in that we were now in the same boat with all the rest of the world. This brought him to the subject of the war debts. It was clear, he said, that our foreign debtors lacked the money with which to pay us. We could no more expect to get the money out of them than we could expect to get "blood from a stone." Because of the war debts and our tariff wall, our exports had fallen off in the last year more than 50 per cent.

If our buying power was to be restored, Smith continued, we must not only stimulate business at home but must sell American goods abroad. We should "cut through red tape" and deal with the war debts and related problems "on a business basis."

20-Year Debt Suspension.

He suggested that we should forget all about the war debts for 20 years, and, in addition, inform Europe that we would write off the debt during that period 25 per cent of the gross value of the goods purchased from us by the debtor nations.

For example, he explained, if a debtor nation took $100,000,000 of our wheat, cotton or other products, agricultural or manufactured, we would remit $25,000,000 of that nation's indebtedness. Smith said his plan offered a better method than "sitting idly by, clamoring for the payment of debts which we know cannot be paid and thereby losing for the farmers and manufacturers and workingmen of the United States more billions of dollars than the whole European debt."

Repeating what he said in the last campaign, Smith declared the party should stand for the "determination of tariff schedules by an expert commission free from political influence and pressure." The Hawley-Smoot bill, he said, had made drastic and unnecessary increases, resulting in the strangulation of American foreign trade and the erection of tariff barriers by the European nations against the United States and against one another.

He advocated an issue of Federal bonds for public improvements, as a means of stimulating industry and promoting employment.

Virginia "the Prodigal Son."

The question of prohibition, he said, should be returned to the states. He pointed to the Government's present great need of new money—an emergency which, he said, had increased the clamor of the people for relief from the eighteenth amendment. Yet some members of Congress were "too cowardly" to meet the situation with the "sound Jeffersonian doctrine" of states' rights. He was glad to note, he said, that Virginia, a prodigal son, had returned home. This reference to Byrd's speech aroused great applause.

There should also be in the Democratic platform, Smith went on, a declaration for a thoroughgoing reorganization of the Government departments to prevent waste and inefficiency. He was sorry that the House of Representatives, under its Democratic control, had not offered such a program.

Smith then delivered his attack on "demagogues" and closed with an appeal to the party not to sacrifice principle to harmony.

"It would be better," he said, "that the convention remain in session all summer and give to the people a vigorous, strong, clearly defined platform, and candidates capable of fighting for it, than to hurry away from Chicago with a half-baked proposal to offer to the people of the country."

After a political roll call of the states during which predictions were made for a virtually clean sweep for the Democratic party in November, Chairman Raskob charged extravagance to the Hoover administration.

"In 1927," he said, "the year before the present administration was elected, the Federal budget, exclusive of interest and debt retirement, was approximately $1,250,000,000 less than the present budget.

"If the Republican administration had been able to keep expenses down they would be approximately $1,200,000,000 less than what they are."

Raskob brought laughter and applause when he said the Republican slogan "is to be 'don't change toboggans while going down the slide.'"

Speeches by Other Democratic Leaders.

The other main speeches of the evening were by former Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio, who presided; former Gov. Byrd of Virginia and Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland. Cox struck at the prevalence of crime in the United States and at the mounting costs of government.

Byrd proposed that the prohibition question be dealt with initially through a constitutional amendment that would permit a direct vote on prohibition. If this amendment were adopted, then the way would be paved for the people to vote directly on a proposal for repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment. The Byrd proposal was immediately assailed by the wets as too involved and requiring too long a time to get relief from prohibition. It was regarded, however, as a significant straw in the wind. Only a year ago Byrd was a leader in the fight at the Democratic National Committee meeting against recommending to the national convention the Raskob home-rule liquor plank.

Gov. Ritchie, possibly because of the large delegation of Marylanders at the dinner, got the greatest ovation of the evening. Ritchie praised the Democratic House, denounced Republican "ineptitude" and called for a straight-out return of the prohibition question to the states.

On the subject of the war debts there was striking disagreement between Ritchie and Smith. The Maryland Governor denounced efforts "to cancel our foreign debts and shift them from the shoulders of the foreign nations which owe them to the shoulders of the American people who do not."

Robinson Talks on "Harmful Results of New Economics."

Taking the "harmful results of 'new economics'" as his text, Senator Robinson termed the Hoover relief proposals as "palliatives, not cures," and said financial institutions had been slow to avail themselves of the privileges afforded by the "Glass-Steagall act, a Democratic measure," due to "fear which seems to have paralyzed the brains of those who control the sources of credit."

After saying a "nation-wide propaganda (in 1928) built up the myth that a letter mailed, anywhere to the 'Miracle Man' would be promptly delivered to Mr. Hoover," the Arkansas Senator, vice presidential nominee in that campaign, said every policy advanced by the President then "is now generally regarded as unsound, and by many regarded as a direct cause of the depression."

"The record of the last three years," he said, "establishes the conclusion that the economic policy of the United States as reflected in extravagant Government expenditures, in loans to bankrupt foreign Governments, and in the enactment of tariffs which have well-nigh destroyed our commerce, have been the controlling factors in producing depression in this country, and in causing it to extend to other spheres. 'The new economics' must be cast into the limbo of exploded heresies."

Baker's Tribute to Wilson.

Most of the Democrats went to Woodrow Wilson's tomb at the Washington Cathedral to listen to a fervent tribute to the War President from Newton D. Baker, who served in his Cabinet.

Baker said under Wilson "the White House became the lecture desk and the Princeton class in the theory of government became the whole people of the United States," he added: "The net result of all this was the passage of a great series of constructive economic measures, any of which would have been impossible under any other kind of leadership, each of which was possible because of his leadership."

RECEIVER APPOINTED FOR KREUGER FIRM

Irving Trust to Administer Affairs of International Match Corporation.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 14.—Federal Judge Caffey yesterday appointed the Irving Trust Co. equity receiver for the International Match Corporation, one of the interests of the late Ivar Kreuger.

The appointment was made on motion of Morris Bernhard as assignee of a claim for $3100 against the corporation by the Hudson County National Bank of Jersey City, N. J., registrar of the company's capital stock in that State.

Bernhard's petition said the corporation had been bereft of its income in large part by reason of the operation of Kreuger, and his subsequent suicide in Paris, and that his death had resulted in a condition of chaos among its various subsidiaries.

"It is estimated that the total loss to the defendant corporation and affiliated corporations through his mismanagement,' the petition said, "will exceed $250,000,000. Of this amount the defendant has lost a considerable part."

Frederick W. Allen, president of International Match, in an answering affidavit admitted "all the averments in the bill of complaint" and consented to the appointment of a receiver. Judge Caffey directed creditors and stockholders to show cause on May 16 why the receivership should not be made permanent or terminated.

ROOSEVELT ADMINISTRATION UNDER G. O. P. INVESTIGATION

Inquiry Opens Today and Republicans Say They Hope to Save State $50,000,000.

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 14.—The Republican investigation of Gov. Roosevelt's Democratic administration opens today with the investigators professing a sincere desire to effect economies in New York's governmental machinery and the Governor and his department heads promising full co-operation.

The investigation, a surprising development of the last session of the State Legislature, will explore the working of 18 departments with their 30,000 employes.

State Senator George R. Fearon of Syracuse, Republican leader and ex-officio member of the Investigating Committee, declared the legislators hoped to trim up to $50,000,000 out of the State's expenses. The budget of the last Legislature was $307,000,000.

CHECKING ON 3000 FOR ONE WHO HAD $20 RANSOM BILL

All Who Visited Bank Where Money Paid by Lindbergh Was Deposited to Be Questioned.

'JAFSIE' INDICATES CHILD IS NEARBY

Asked About European Leads, Dr. John F. Condon Tells Story of 'Bluebird of Happiness.'

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 14.—At the suggestion of Col. Henry Breckinridge, legal adviser to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, New York police will make a check of every one of the 3000 depositors who on April 4 and 5, visited the uptown branch of the East River Savings Bank where a depositor handed in a $20 bill, subsequently identified as part of the $50,000 ransom paid by Lindbergh in an attempt to recover his kidnaped son.

Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney said detectives would be assigned to the task of visiting the homes or places of business of all the depositors and asking them about the bill.

The bill turned up yesterday and was found to have been paid out by the bank to a customer. Officers of the bank were able to say only that the bill came to them April 4 or 5 in a deposit.

Mulrooney disclosed today that Inspector Henry Bruckman, in charge of Bronx detectives, was questioning a man named Robert Reo, who had gone forward with the information that he had overheard one of the conversations between a representative of the kidnapers and Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jafsie" of the negotions, who turned over the $50,000 ransom money to the kidnapers.

Notes by Same Person.

Mulrooney said he had not seen the original ransom note left in the Lindbergh nursery the night of the kidnaping, but said experts had compared the handwriting and other features of the original note with those of other notes sent to Dr. Condon and were convinced they were written by the same person.

Dr. J. F. Condon, who handed over a $50,000 ransom to the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby, walked from his Bronx home to a nearby drug store at noon today and bought 100 stamps which he said were for replies to letters he received about the kidnaping. He was asked whether he thought the kidnapers were Bronx men because they seemed so familiar with the neighborhood.

"I can't answer that 'yes' or 'no!'" he replied, "but I want to tell you we are fighting against the shrewdest band ever organized in the United States."

Asked about the possible value of the leads from abroad he told the story of the "Blue Bird of Happiness," which was sought far and wide by two children who at length returned discouraged to their home, only to find the Blue Bird awaiting them on their own doorstep.

Dr. Condon, retired Bronx school master who still hopes to get the baby back from the kidnapers—continued his mysterious movements. Returning home after one of several unexplained trips, he found a crowd around his stoop.

"Get off my property," he said. "I don't know you. You might be the kidnapers."

Schoeffel in Vienna.

In Norfolk Dean H. Dobson-Peacock disclosed he had had secret messages from two other Norfolk men acting with him in attempts to recover the baby. The other two, John H. Curtis and Rear Admiral Guy Burrage, are away from home, apparently trying to arrange a contact with the kidnapers, the dean is hopeful.

Maj. Charles H. Schoeffel, New Jersey State police official who went abroad in connection with the kidnaping, arrived in Vienna, and police there were searching for clews in the case.

Dr. Condon rode on elevated train and a motor car in quest of new contacts with the kidnapers yesterday. He frequently appeared at and disappeared from his New York home.

Dr. Condon said he both "had and has" means of reaching the kidnapers.

He said he knew nothing of an advertisement signed "Jafsie" appearing in a Washington newspaper.

"Ato yes will work with you alone and tell nobody. Jafsie," read the advertisement.

"Probably somebody is using my name," said Dr. Condon.

Schoeffel Finds No New Clews in Vienna, He Says.

By the Associated Press.

VIENNA, April 14.—Maj. Charles H. Schoeffel of the New Jersey police, who came here yesterday, presumably in connection with the search for the Lindbergh baby, said today that he had found no new clews.

He spent the morning examining the rogues' gallery and the fingerprint files, and discussing the Lindbergh case with Vienna detectives. He said he was leaving tonight.

Maj. Shoeffel declined to reveal his destination, but a source whose information usually is accurate had it that he would proceed to Milan, Italy.

"Get off my property," he said. "I don't know you. You might be the kidnapers."

Schoeffel in Vienna.

In Norfolk Dean H. Dobson-Peacock disclosed he had had secret messages from two other Norfolk men acting with him in attempts to recover the baby. The other two, John H. Curtis and Rear Admiral Guy Burrage, are away from home, apparently trying to arrange a contact with the kidnapers, the dean is hopeful.

Maj. Charles H. Schoeffel, New Jersey State police official who went abroad in connection with the kidnaping, arrived in Vienna, and police there were searching for clews in the case.

Dr. Condon rode on elevated train and a motor car in quest of new contacts with the kidnapers yesterday. He frequently appeared at and disappeared from his New York home.

Dr. Condon said he both "had and has" means of reaching the kidnapers.

He said he knew nothing of an advertisement signed "Jafsie" appearing in a Washington newspaper.

"Ato yes will work with you alone and tell nobody. Jafsie," read the advertisement.

"Probably somebody is using my name," said Dr. Condon.

By the Associated Press.

VIENNA, April 14.—Maj. Charles H. Schoeffel of the New Jersey police, who came here yesterday, presumably in connection with the search for the Lindbergh baby, said today that he had found no new clews.

He spent the morning examining the rogues' gallery and the fingerprint files, and discussing the Lindbergh case with Vienna detectives. He said he was leaving tonight.

Maj. Shoeffel declined to reveal his destination, but a source whose information usually is accurate had it that he would proceed to Milan, Italy.

HOME OF DR. JOHN F. CONDON.

NEW YORK, April 14.—A woman, seen twice in daylight by Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jafsie" of the Lindbergh baby ransom negotiations, is an important and mysterious figure in the attempt of the elderly Bronx educator to return the infant to its parents.

The woman's part in the strange and still uncompleted drama is described in the story of "Jafsie's" undertakings and adventures, told in the Bronx Home News, evening daily of neighborhood circulation, which relates that it has had inside knowledge of "Jafsie's" movements since he entered the case more than a month ago.

The Home News, as shown by its news narratives of the past two days, had full inside knowledge of the developments which Col. Lindbergh and his lawyer considered of prime importance, at a time when the leading New York and Philadelphia papers were trying vainly to find such sources of information. By permission of the Home News, the Post-Dispatch here gives important parts of its "Jafsie" story, printed by the Home News only after other papers had published the fact of his identity. The story covers the same ground as that published in yesterday's Post-Dispatch, but it goes into more detail on some points, particularly "Jafsie's" meetings with a woman emissary.

Meets Woman in Store.

Saturday, March 19, the Home News relates, while Dr. Condon was in the midst of his advertising campaign to get in touch with the kidnapers, he went to a store building near his home in the Bronx, where he has been conducting a bazar for the benefit of a new chapel.

"While he was there," the Home News says, "a woman entered and expressed interest in one of several violins which were displayed for sale. It became evident that she was not particularly interested in Dr. Condon's description of the instrument—and then she delivered herself of a comment that indicated her true purpose. She said: 'Nothing can be done until the excitement is over. There is too much publicity. Meet me at the depot at Tuckahoe on Wednesday at 5 o'clock. I will have a message for you.' Dr. Condon sought more information then, but the woman hastened away.

"Wednesday evening, March 23, Dr. Condon and Al Reich, the former prize fighter who acted as his chauffeur, went to the Tuckahoe depot of the New York Central Railroad to keep the appointment with the 'violin prospect' of the bazar. The woman was waiting there, but she announced merely, 'You will get a message later. Keep advertising until you hear more,' and she hastened away. No attempt was made to follow her. As always, the safety of the child was the first consideration and even the slightest action that might arouse the distrust of the kidnapers was avoided meticulously."

No Description Given.

No description has been given of this woman, or of the man whom Dr. Condon met twice after dark at a cemetery, paying the $50,000 ransom money to him at the second meeting, the night of April 2, while Col. Lindbergh sat in his automobile hardly a city block away. Although Dr. Condon talked with him, his words are not quoted, except "Here I am, doctor."

The Home News begins its chronological story with the article which it printed March 8, and which was reprinted in yesterday's Post-Dispatch, telling of Dr. Condon's willingness to serve as go-between. He offered, in this article, to add $1000, the cash part of his own savings, to the $50,000 ransom demanded from Col. Lindbergh. This appeared one week after the kidnaping.

"In receiving and printing the article," the paper now says, "the Home News cannot say that it had any expectation of worthwhile results, but it always has respected the doctor's sincerity, and the publication of his story was evidence of that regard.

"The response was immediate. Amid the volume of communications that could be disregarded immediately, there was one that bore the stamp of authenticity, a stamp apparent at once to Dr. Condon, although he had absolutely no knowledge of what was contained in the first ransom note, left on the window-sill of the baby's nursery. He was unfamiliar both with its contents and it sappearance.

"Inclosed with the letter to Dr. Condon was one addressed to Col. Lindbergh himself. Condon was asked to carry the inclosed missive to Hopewell and to secure Col. Lindbergh's authorization for him to act as 'go-between' and to pay over the ransom money.

"Dr. Condon communicated by telephone with Col. Lindbergh at Hopewell, N. J., and informed him of the contents of this letter. Col. Lindbergh expressed interest, noted Dr. Condon's telephone number, and said he would communicate with the teacher later. That night, March 9, the doctor was in a restaurant when he received word from his home at midnight that Col. Lindbergh wished to talk with him. The Colonel asked that he go to Hopewell immediately and take the kidnapers' letter with him.

"Milton Gaglio, a young clothier of the neighborhood, was present and he offered to drive Dr. Condon to the Lindbergh home. Condon, the restaurant owner and Gaglio soon were speeding over the roads to Hopewell, which they reached at 3:15 a. m. After arguing themselves past the State Troopers who were under strict instructions to bar out the idle curious, they reached the door of the house and were greeted by Col. Lindbergh himself.

Sleeps in Nursery.

"The memory of that night's visit to Hopewell probably will remain with the doctor through all the rest of his life. He was introduced to Col. Breckinridge and after a conference lasting almost until daybreak, Col. Lindbergh himself prepared a bed for Dr. Condon in the nursery—the very room from which the child had been stolen.

"Alone in the room, Dr. Condon knelt beside the baby's crib and with his right hand resting on the pillow upon which the little head had lain, took a most solemn oath that he never would rest until he had done everything within his power to bring about the return of the child, and he prayed for guidance in the harrowing task which he had elected for himself.

"He slept briefly, and then Col. Lindbergh appeared and took him to the room in which Anne Morrow Lindbergh, the sorrowing mother, was trying vainly to rest.

"She greeted Dr. Condon warmly, but there were tears in her eyes. In the kindly manner that has soothed countless heartaches during more than half-a-century, Dr. Condon asked, gently:

"'What are you crying for? I'm going to bring your baby back!'

"The tears continued, and Dr. Condon added:

"'Look at the Colonel here; I think he's jealous of an old fellow like me!'

"A smile broke over Mrs. Lindbergh's wan face. The tension was broken for the moment; she laughed—perhaps for the first time since the abduction.

Authorized to Draw Money.

"Dr. Condon remained at the Lindbergh home until late afternoon. The restaurant keeper and Gaglio had departed for the Bronx hours before. When the instructor started for home, he had in his pocket a letter composed by Col. Lindbergh setting forth that $50,000 had been deposited in the Fordham Branch of the Corn Exchange Bank at Fordham road and Decatur avenue, and that Dr. Condon was authorized to withdraw that sum 'if he sees my child.'"

Also, before he left Hopewell, the question of how the Doctor could be positive of the identity of any child the kidnapers might produce was discussed at length. He was shown photographs until the child's features were indelibly imprinted upon his mind, and certain other means of identification (which may not be disclosed at this time) were worked out."

The story continues with Dr. Condon's preparation of the first of the "Jafsie" advertisements, signed with a word coined from his initials, J. F. C. After its publication, Dr. Condon got a telephone message telling him to be ready to receive another message Saturday night, March 12, between 8 and 9 o'clock. The message, in an envelope left by a taxicab driver at the house at 8:30 p. m., March 12, told him to go within 45 minutes to a refreshment stand beyond the last subway station on the Jerome avenue line.

Finds Note Under Stone.

Dr. Condon got Al Reich to drive him to the place designated and, as promised in the note, he found another note under a stone. This note directed him to go to Jerome avenue and 233d street, and wait there. Reich drove him to the place, and parked his car in the shadow of Woodlawn Cemetery wall. Dr. Condon went to pacing the sidewalk, some distance away.

After some little time, Dr. Condon saw a man behind the picket fence of the cemetery, waving a handkerchief at him. Condon went into the cemetery with his hands outstretched, palms up. He began by telling the man that a chauffeur had driven him to the place, as he does not drive a car himself. At this point, the approach of a cemetery watchman frightened the man, who scaled the eight-foot fence and disappeared.

Dr. Condon went out and paced the sidewalk until the man appeared again. They then walked into a wooded section of Van Cortlandt Park, and sitting down at a deserted work shack, talked for more than an hour. The weather was chilly, and Dr. Condon, who was warmly clad, noticed that the man wore a very thin overcoat.

Condon insisted that he be taken to see the baby, but the man told him this could not be arranged. He said the baby was "on a boat," six hours distant, and agreed to furnish a token to prove possession of the child, but said the return of the child and payment of the money could not be simultaneous—payment must be first.

More Notices Printed.

By an understanding reached at this meeting, further "Jafsie" advertisements followed, being published in the Home News and the New York American. The advertisement of Wednesday, March 16, showed that the promised token had been received. With it was a note stating that the $50,000 must be paid without seeing the baby first, and that eight hours thereafter, directions for finding the baby would be given. It gave the form for the next advertisement, "I accept; money is ready," and this form was followed, but with an important addition.

Dr. Condon, still trying to effect a direct exchange of the money for the baby, worded the advertisement:

"'I accept. Money is ready. You know they won't let me deliver without getting the package. Please make it some sort of C. O. D. transaction. Come. You know you can trust Jafsie.'"

"Arrival of the all-important token," the Home News says, "was communicated to Col. Lindbergh by telephone, and he immediately made known his intention of coming to the Bronx to inspect it.

"It was no easy task for him to leave the house at Hopewell and to start for the Bronx unobserved. Nevertheless, he succeeded in getting away shortly before 11 o'clock Wednesday night, March 16.

"It was about 1:30 on Thursday morning when Lindbergh, accompanied by a single associate, drove up to the Condon house at 2974 Decatur avenue.

"The token was produced immediately for his inspection as he recognized its authenticity. Almost diffidently, the Colonel asked Dr. Condon whether he might take the bit of evidence home with him. The doctor assured him that he might have not only that, but everything that the house contained.

Takes Symbol to Wife.

"Col. Lindbergh remained at the Condon home until 4 a. m. Soon after dawn, he slipped into his home and bore the eloquent symbol of the baby's whereabouts to his wife's room."

No message was received Thursday, the 17th, and the advertisement was repeated. About this time, the negotiators were perturbed by newspaper stories to the effect that $250,000 had been raised by J. P. Morgan & Co. to ransom the child. They feared that this unfounded story might cause the kidnapers to "hold out" for a greater sum.

Dr. Condon was irritated, also, by various published reports that underworld characters were negotiating for the infant's return.

Wears Dress to Avoid Reporters.

On the 17th, a morning newspaper made inquiries about Dr. Condon's activities in the case, this being the first indication that any paper but the Home News had traced the "Jafsie" advertisements to their author. Dr. Condon avoided the report until Friday afternoon, when, with the reporter waiting, he left the house wearing a dress belonging to Mrs. Condon, and was escorted by Reich to the coupe waiting in front of the house. Reich took him to the bazaar building, where he discarded the dress. It was at this bazaar, next day, Saturday, the 19th, as already related, that the mysterious woman spoke with him, and arranged their meeting of four days later.

Advertising, including the argumentative lines "Can I pay without seeing the goods?" continued for several days, while the kidnapers were unresponsive. Tuesday, March 29, a letter from the kidnapers came, in arrogant tone, stating that there would be no "C. O. D. transaction," and that if payment was not made before April 8, the demand would rise to $100,000. "The child is safe," the letter said. To this Dr. Condon replied with his advertisement of March 31, "I accept; money is ready."

When the letter of March 29 was received, Col. Lindbergh went to the Condon home. He remained there until 3:30 a. m. the 30th, and before leaving, gave Dr. Condon another note authorizing him to deliver the ransom money to whomsoever in his judgment, he believed to be the kidnapers.

At 10:30 a. m., Friday, April 1, the letter-carrier brought Dr. Condon the expected letter, saying that the kidnapers were ready to conclude the transaction. Col. Lindbergh and his lawyer, Col. Breckenridge, were summoned to the house. It was then that Lindbergh insisted, because of the evident danger to Dr. Condon, and because of his own intense anxiety in the case, that he, and not Reich, should act as chauffeur in what it was

GROCER ATTACKS WIFE, THEN KILLS SELF WITH KNIFE

Louis Everding Slashes Wrist After Choking Mate and Beating Her on the Head.

After choking his wife and knocking her down, Louis Everding, 59 years old, a grocer, ended his life by slashing his wrist at his home, 4350A Chouteau avenue, last night.

Mrs. Everding's screams at 10:30 o'clock attracted the attention of her brother, Fred Reimler, who was getting out of his automobile with his wife in front of their home, 4344A Chouteau avenue. Reimler, who summoned police, found Everding's body on the kitchen floor, a butcher knife near at hand. The grocer had died of loss of blood from a severed artery.

Mrs. Everding, who is 49 years old, was taken to St. John's Hospital, where it was found she was suffering from scalp wounds and a skull injury.

She related that she was standing at the sink in her kitchen when her husband, without warning, seized her by the throat. She struggled, she said, and he struck her on the head with a blunt instrument, which police think was the handle of the heavy butcher knife. She lost consciousness, she said, and, when she revived her husband was lying on the floor beside her. She made her way to a window and called for help.

A son, Lester Everding, turned over to police a note written on wrapping paper, which he said he found on a counter in his father's store below the flat. The note read in part: "All records and what little money is left put in the safety. You will find it after it is all over."

Everding had conducted a grocery at the Chouteau avenue address for about 20 years. Relatives declined to comment on his act.

EXPLOSION KILLS SIX, INJURES 20, AT COLUMBUS, O.

Fire Follows—Others Reported Buried in State Office Building Under Construction.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., April 14. — Six men were killed, more thatn 20 were in hospitals, and others are reported buried in debris as a result of an explosion in Ohio's new $6,000,000 State office building late today.

Assistant Safety Director Darrell Jones of the Columbus Police Department, said he thought that at least 30 men had been caught under the falling debris.

Fire swept through the basement and lower floor of the structure, and firemen said there was little hope for any men trapped by the debris.

Estimates of the damage range up to $1,000,000.

A large section of the west wall, 35 feet high and 200 feet long, was blown out and the entire interior of the structure, which was in the last stages of construction, was damaged.

F. O. Everett of the Ohio Inspection Bureau, advanced the theory that sewer gas, seeping into the building, had accumulated in the basement and in some undetermined manner had been ignited.

Among those reported missing are three Government building inspectors, who were said to have been on the ninth floor at the time of the explosion.

The explosion blew blocks of marble into the yard of Central High School, 300 yards away.

Firemen, while trying to quench the blaze and reach any who had been trapped by the debris, were hampered by the great crowds of spectators and the families of men who were working in the structure.

There were 126 men working in the building or nearby at the time of the explosion. Many of these escaped.

hoped would be the final contact with the kidnapers.

So that no curiosity might be aroused by the withdrawal of the ransom money from the Fordham Branch of the Corn Exchange Bank at an unseasonable hour, it was decided to remove the cash at once, place it in the special box constructed in accordance with the specifications of the kidnapers and deposit it in a safe in a downtown office where access might be had to it at any time without observation.

Dr. Condon felt confident that by dusk Saturday he would receive from the kidnapers the final directions. Throughout Saturday, April 2, Col. Breckenridge remained at the Condon home and late in the afternoon, Col. Lindbergh arrived, carrying with him the cash.

At 7:45 Saturday evening the doctor's bell was rung by a taxicab driver who presented a note. The letter directed Dr. Condon to go to "Bergen's Flower Nursery," at 3225 East Tremont avenue, and to be there within a half-hour. In front of the nursery, the note stated, further directions would be found under a stone placed beneath a table.

Reich's coupe was at the curb. Col. Lindbergh and Dr. Condon got in, the Colonel carrying the box of money, and the Colonel drove to the given address at top speed.

No loitering was possible if the journey was to be accomplished in the stipulated 30 minutes. The kidnapers had seen to it that if "Jafsie" were not acting in good faith with them, he would have little or no time to arrange a trap. As they drove along Tremont avenue, St. Raymond's Cemetery came into view and it was discovered that Bergen's Nursery was almost directly opposite an entrance to the burial-ground.

"The Colonel," says the Home News," halted the car in front of the nursery and remained at the wheel while the doctor stepped out, located the table and found the note under the stone. The doctor carried the note back to the Colonel and together they deciphered it. It directed the doctor to cross the street and walk one block south on Whittemore avenue.

Meets Man and Woman.

"Leaving the box of money in the car with the Colonel, Dr. Condon crossed the street and on the opposite corner, he encountered a man and woman who appeared to be aware that he might be puzzled about his destination, for the woman remarked 'This is Whittemore avenue,' and then the couple walked away. Whittemore avenue turns through a portion of the cemetery.

"Dr. Condon walked along Whittemore avenue, through the darkness, for a distance equivalent to a short city block. No one was in sight. He halted for a few moments and then turned. A voice halted him. He turned around again but could see no one. He discerned a movement in a bush, and approached it cautiously. 'Here I am, doctor,' a voice said, and the doctor was face to face with the abductor, but separated from him by a considerable expanse of evergreen.

"He was asked if he had the money and he responded that he had, but that he would require a receipt to indicate to the Colonel that he had paid it.

Delivers the Cash.

"The abductors' agent then directed the doctor to wait where he was for a moment or two, promising to return immediately with the directions to the place where the baby was being held. The man walked some distance away and was shielded from the doctor's view by the tombstones. Whether he had the note concealed there, or retired to confer with others, is not known.

"He returned almost immediately, bearing an envelope which he said he would deliver when he received the money.

Dr. Condon asked the messenger to wait, saying that he would return immediately with the money. He hurried to the automobile and received the box of cash from Lindbergh.

"As Dr. Condon handed the box to the abductor, he reminded the man that he had played fair and that he expected fair play in return. He made it plain that all he wanted was the baby.

"Dr. Condon's verbal appeal was not unsupported, for in the cash-box he had placed a long note urging the kidnapers to carry out their part of the bargain to the letter.

"He received in return the note of directions, with which he walked back to the car and Col. Lindbergh, while the new possessor of the cash faded away into the darkness.

"The note stated that the child would be found on board a 28-foot boat, the name of which was furnished, anchored off Gayhead, a point at the southerly end of Martha's Vineyard, an island off the lower Massachusetts coast. It was specified that two hours must be permitted to elapse before any start was made for the designated place and it was stated that, on the boat, two women would be found in charge of the baby; that they must not be molested in any way because they were innocent of any knowing connection with the kidnaping."

The narrative as to Col. Lindbergh's flight to the designated place then proceeds, with the statement that Dr. Condon accompanied the Colonel on the flight, and was mistaken by newspaper correspondents, who saw the party at Cuttyhunk, for one of the Norfolk negotiators, John Hughes Curtis.

ROBBERS SEIZE DRIVER, USE HIS AUTO IN HOLDUP

Maplewood Man Put Out of Car After Abductors Obtain $12 in Raid on Cafe.

Shortly after a $12 holdup at Thompson's restaurant at 604 Market street early today, police were informed by Allen J. Grommet, 3236 Walter avenue, Maplewood, that he had been abducted by two robbers and his automobile used in the robbery.

Grommet said he was entering his machine in front of his home when the robbers ordered him into the rear seat and drove about St. Louis for more than an hour before the holdup.

The driver, who was armed, left the machine in the 4700 block of Delmar boulevard with the announced intention of robbing a restaurant, according to Grommet, but returned several minutes later with the information there were "two cops in the place." Although they passed six policemen during the ride, Grommet said he was watched closely by one man sitting with him and could give no signal.

Arriving at Thompson's, Grommet said he was ordered to remain in the automobile with one man while the driver entered and robbed Hiram B. Miller, the cashier.

After the robbery, he said they drove to Clayton road and Big Bend boulevard, Richmond Heights, bought gasoline and went to Maplewood, where he was ordered out of the machine. The automobile later was found abandoned in Maplewood.

Robbers Get $25, Abandon Stolen Auto in Flight.

Rolla E. Mackle, attendant at a gasoline station at Kingshighway and Wells avenue, was robbed of $25 by two young men who, in their haste to escape, abandoned a stolen automobile they had been using.

Police cruising in the neighborhood in a radio car arrested a young man who is said to have admitted taking part in the holdup, although Mackle could not identify him. The prisoner, who said he arrived from Kansas City yesterday afternoon, related that he and his accomplice divided the money and separated a block from the scene of the robbery. He turned over to police $8 which he said was part of the loot. The automobile had been stolen from Milton F. Landau, 4732 Westminster place, who had parked it in front of his home.

BROADWAY SAVINGS TRUST STOCKHOLDERS TO GET 3 PCT.

Between $6000 and $7000 Left After Payment of $2,300,000 to Depositors.

Holders of the $200,000 in stock of the Broadway Savings Trust Co., which went out of business in 1926, will receive possibly 3 per cent of their investment in the pending dissolution of the corporation. Lambert E. Walther, attorney for the corporation, said assets, in cash, are about $6000 to $7000. The stockholders, numbering about 70, have received nothing heretofore.

At a meeting in Walther's office yesterday, attended by several persons, with proxies for all the rest of the stock, it was voted to dissolve the corporation. Because the representative of a holder of five shares failed to vote it will be necessary to file an action in Circuit Court to get the dissolution approved. The costs will be taken from the assets. L. G. Desobry, first vice president, presided. E. E. Magill, who was president, no longer is a stockholder. Harry F. Hoener was secretary.

Depositors were paid their full claims of about $2,300,000. The bank, at Broadway and Lucas avenue, was closed on demand of the State Finance Commission.

CHECKING $679,482 SHORTAGE

CLEVELAND, April 14.—All operations of the Cuyahoga County Treasury were at a stand-still today as State examiners hurried checking of its present financial status. The special audit and the closing were arranged as the result of disclosures that discrepancies amounting to $679,482 existed as of last Dec. 18.

"Some of the money was stolen," said A. B. Peckinpaugh, chief deputy examiner. Closing of the office was ordered by County Prosecutor Lieghley yesterday, acting under authority of a grand jury subpena. The treasurer, L. G. Collister, previously had said he was not involved.

UNION MOVING MEN TAKE PAY CUT OF 10C AN HOUR

Strike Halted After Compromise; Employers Had Asked for 25-Cent Slash.

Union moving men, who have been on strike since April 1 in resistance of a wage cut, returned to work today after accepting a reduction of 10 cents an hour.

The new wage scale, affecting about 400 members of Furniture and Van Drivers' Local 751, is 60 cents an hour for movers and 65 cents for chauffeurs. The new agreement calls for time and a half for overtime after 5:30 p. m., and on Sundays and holidays. Employers originally asked for a cut of 25 cents an hour.

FRAUDS CHARGED BY OPPONENT OF SENATOR GLENN

Pluralities of Small and Horner in Illinois Primary Continue to Grow in Late Returns.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 14.—A charge of widespread voting irregularities in Chicago was made today as returns from Tuesday's primary election continued to pile up pluralities for favored candidates of both parties.

Although trailing United States Senator Otis F. Glenn by about 157,000 votes, Newton W. Jenkins of Chicago, candidate for the Republican nomination for Senator, issued a statement predicting ultimate victory for himself by 50,000 votes and charging fraud in the election.

Judge Henry Horner's plurality for the Democratic nomination for Governor mounted with additional returns today on a party vote which promised to reach 850,000, a record number for the State.

Republican returns totaled 1,129,207 with 6329 of the 7230 precincts heard from. The total vote promised to reach 1,300,000, with Len Small increasing his plurality over Omer N. Custer for the governorship nomination. Small had 409,529 votes to Custer's 321,720, and 250,830 for Oscar Carlstrom.

Horner's total with 5678 precincts reported was 361,856 votes, a margin of 145,165 over Michael L. Igoe, national committeeman and House minority leader. The total vote was 656,782, including 78,235 for Bruce Campbell of East St. Louis.

The huge vote, apparently about 2,200,000 for both parties, made compilation slow, and appeared to have necessitated the postponement of party State convention for a month. They were to have been held April 22. The Board of Elections will be unable to certify the election of members of the County Central Committees until after May 1, due to the terrific outpouring at polls.

The Democratic total vote compared with only 250,000 which the party mustered in the primary election of the last presidential year, 1928. This time the vote was 500,000 in Cook County and 300,000 downstate, as compared with 155,000 in Cook County and 95,000 downstate four years ago.

With but few exceptions, incumbent Congressmen were renominated.

One of the exceptions was Congressman Carl R. Chindbloom of Evanston, Republican. James Simpson Jr., 27, appeared to have won the nomination. Another was Congressman William E. Hull, Republican, of Peoria, defeated by Everett M. Dirksen. Among the Democratic congressional losers was James T. Igoe of Chicago, whom Thomas J. O'Brien, a veteran of the State Legislature, defeated.

Among the pluralities that gained with counting of downstate votes was that of William H. Dieterich for the Democratic nomination for Senator. His plurality over Scott Lucas was expected to reach 200,000.

Illinois elected 50 delegates to each national convention, all of them uninstructed. The sweeping victory of the State Democratic organization supporting Horner assured Senator Lewis the State's support for President. Supporters of Roosevelt have said they could swing most of Illinois' votes after the first ballot.

James Simpson Jr., 27 years old, is the son of one of Chicago's wealthiest merchants. Complete but unofficial returns from the Tenth Illinois District gave the young Harvard graduate 28,853 votes in Tuesday's primary election. Ralph E. Church had 28,424, while the incumbent, Chindbloom, member of the House Ways and Means Committee and a Congressman since 1919, had 23,222. Simpson's plurality was only 429, but Church's office conceded his margin of victory.

The young son of the head of Marshall Field & Co. won his victory on a platform which included amendment of the Volstead act and submission to the states of an amendment to the eighteenth amendment which would place control of the liquor question in the people and Congress.

In his district, if elected in November over Charles H. Thomas Weber, the Democratic nominee, will be the national headquarters of the Women's Christian Temperance Union in Evanston. The dry organization supported Church. Chindbloom suggested a return to 4 per cent beer.

MISSOURI STATE LIFE FILES REPLY IN RECEIVERSHIP SUIT

Insurance Company in Supreme Court Brief Attacks Judge's Jurisdiction to Make Appointment.

A brief has been filed with the State Supreme Court by the Missouri State Life Insurance Co. in reply to Circuit Judge Hall's answer in receivership litigation. Judge Hall recently appointed receivers for the company on petition of Jerome F. Duggan, a small stockholder. The company has obtained a temporary order from the Supreme Court suspending the receivership.

The company's brief asserts that Judge Hall had no jurisdiction to appoint receivers at the request of a stockholder, but only upon petition of the State Superintendent of Insurance. Supt. Thompson and Montague Lyon, a lawyer, were named receivers. In separate answers to the Supreme Court, Thompson has agreed that the Circuit Judge was powerless to appoint receivers in this case, and Lyon has said he has not attempted to act.

Originally, Duggan's suit sought only an accounting and removal of eight of the directors. He amended the action to call for receivers the day before the receivership was granted. The company's brief said the accounting would enrich it and that it was joined in the proceeding only as a nominal defendant.

EX-CONVICT'S CHARGES BEFORE GRAND JURY

Investigation of J. W. Green's Accusations Against Officials Is Begun.

The St. Louis County grand jury today began an investigation of the confession of James W. Green, 23-year-old bank robber and former convict, as told in Tuesday's Post-Dispatch. Green has implicated in his criminal activities a former petty official of the county, the chief of police of a municipality in the county, a private watchman and a policeman.

Prosecuting Attorney Castlen, who has been studying Green's confession and other statements which corroborate details in Green's account, announced after a conference with Sheriff Lill that the grand jury would go into the matter immediately.

Green is under sentence of 20 years in the penitentiary for the robbery of a furniture store in St. Charles, one of the crimes mentioned in his confession which was made soon after his arrest by St. Louis police last Jan. 30, and later amplified.

He related that the business establishment of the former petty official was a rendezvous for robbers. The former official, he said, supplied them with weapons, acted as a "fence" in disposing of loot, recruited new members of the gang and helped them to plan robberies.

The police chief, Green said, helped them plan the robbery of a bank in his community, which never took place because Green's fellow conspirator, John W. Behm, was killed last December by a posse after a bank robbery at Edwards, Miss., in which Green and William Livingstone escaped.

The private watchman, Green said, had access to the bank which was to have been robbed, and escorted him through it about 2 o'clock one morning, pointing out the location of burglar alarms and suggesting methods of procedure.

From the policeman, Green said, he received a police badge which was to be used in the holdup of a gambling establishment, and information which helped him in holding up a restaurant.

A message slipped under the door of the office of Callahan Construction Co., in the Arcade Building, yesterday, directed that $1500 be paid to a Mr. Ward, who would call there, and that the transaction "be held in strictest confidence."

The message purported to be a cablegram from W. E. Callahan, president of the company, who is in the Panama Canal Zone on business.

Callahan's secretary, Miss Beatrice Stameisen, doubted the authenticity of the message, and confirmed her suspicions by inquiry at the Western Union office. No such message had passed through there.

Miss Stameisen notified police and waited for "Mr. Ward," but he did not appear.

That, perhaps, was because an hour or so before police had arrested two men at a downtown hotel, acting on information that they had in their possession cablegram forms, tape upon which the messages are printed, and a special typewriter of the sort used by telegraph companies.

The men under arrest described themselves as New York salesmen and pleaded ignorance of the cablegram swindle scheme which has been worked recently in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and other cities.

Fingerprints and pictures of the men, however, will be sent to police in the cities where such swindles have been worked. Meantime, the men were held for investigation. No trace was found of the equipment the suspects were supposed to have but police learned that shortly before their arrest they had shipped a box by express to Minneapolis. Efforts are being made to intercept the box on the theory that it contains the equipment.

Miss Stameisen reported receiving a telephone call yesterday from a man who asked if she had any word for Mr. Ward. This was shortly before the faked cablegram was found. The day before, she said, the same voice over the telephone had asked her where Callahan was, and she had replied that he was in the Panama Canal Zone.

$515 FOR FILLY COLT SETS TOP AT MEXICO HORSE SHOW

Purchase Made by Oklahoma Woman; More Than 200 Horses Sold During Annual Event.

MEXICO, Mo., April 14.—Miss Mary Fiers, Oklahoma City, Ok., horsewoman, paid $515 for Highland Roxy, chestnut filly colt, owned by Jim Hamilton of Mexico, to set the top for the annual spring saddle horse sale at noon yesterday.

Highland Roxy, a Lord Highland colt, with Linnie, by Dr. Hockaday, for a dam, is a half-sister of Roxie Highland, the champion chestnut mare, owned by Miss Fiers, and first sold as a filly colt at the horse sale here five years ago.

More than 200 saddle and pleasure horses and colts and brood mares were sold at the two-day event here, which brought entries from leading stables throughout Missouri, and buyers from the entire Midwest.

SAYS HUSBAND REFUSED HER MONEY, SPENT IT ON CANARIES

Bird Raising Hobby of Dr. Arthur Sternfels Cited in Divorce Petition.

Her husband's hobby of raising canary birds is cited in a petition for divorce filed today in Circuit Court by Mrs. Leona Sternfels, 5431 North Kingshighway, against Dr. Arthur Sternfels, a physician, with offices at 3403 North Fourteenth street.

Mrs. Sternfels, who alleged general indignities, stated he kept about 150 canary birds and would refuse her money for clothing but spend it freely on the canaries. She said he reprimanded their 8-year-old daughter because the child's noise disturbed the canaries. She requested maintenance and custody of the child.

Dr. Sternfels said he raised canary birds as a hobby but did not go to extremes in the matter. The Sternfels were married in 1922 and separated last Friday.

BITTEN BY SNAKE, SAVES SELF

FORT PEARCE, Fla., April 14.—Bill Henderson, Negro, was struck on the leg by a big rattlesnake as he gathered wood yesterday. Henderson dispatched it with a club and then killed another that attacked him.

With a dull pocketknife he cut out the part of his leg where the snake's fangs injected the venom and started for a doctor. He took the dead snakes with him. Motorists found him at the roadside where he had fainted from loss of blood. The two snakes were draped beside him. He was hurried to a physician and today was little the worse for his experience. Henderson explained he took the snakes along to attract the attention of passersby in event of the loss of consciousness, which occurred.

A message slipped under the door of the office of Callahan Construction Co., in the Arcade Building, yesterday, directed that $1500 be paid to a Mr. Ward, who would call there, and that the transaction "be held in strictest confidence."

The message purported to be a cablegram from W. E. Callahan, president of the company, who is in the Panama Canal Zone on business.

Callahan's secretary, Miss Beatrice Stameisen, doubted the authenticity of the message, and confirmed her suspicions by inquiry at the Western Union office. No such message had passed through there.

Miss Stameisen notified police and waited for "Mr. Ward," but he did not appear.

That, perhaps, was because an hour or so before police had arrested two men at a downtown hotel, acting on information that they had in their possession cablegram forms, tape upon which the messages are printed, and a special typewriter of the sort used by telegraph companies.

The men under arrest described themselves as New York salesmen and pleaded ignorance of the cablegram swindle scheme which has been worked recently in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and other cities.

THREE-ALARM FIRE DAMAGES WAREHOUSE

Fireman Hurt in $15,000 Blaze in 6-Story Building at First and Madison Sts.

A fireman was injured at a three-alarm fire which caused $15,000 damage at the Madison Street Terminal Warehouse, First and Madison streets, at 8 o'clock this morning. The warehouse is used as storage space for rags, old wool, and other waste materials.

Ladderman George Brettman, Truck Company No. 7, suffered injuries of the shoulder, face and hands, when a fire escape he was climbing collapsed, causing him to fall 15 feet to the ground.

The fire, of undetermined cause, started on the third floor of a six-story building in the center of a group of three connected structures. The inflammable contents blazed fiercely, and the first firemen on the scene sent in two more alarms. With the arrival of reinforcements, the fire was prevented from spreading to the adjoining buildings. The bales of waste material continued to smolder for several hours.

Water-soaked contents caused several floors to show signs of collapse, and firemen remained out of the lower portion of the building.

Hose lines stretched across nearby railroad tracks temporarily interrupted train service over Merchants Bridge. Eastbound trains leaving Union Station between 8 and 9 o'clock were routed over Eads Bridge through East St. Louis.

The warehouse is operated by Aaron Ferer & Sons. The building group occupies an entire block.

AUSTIN, Tex.—Tests conducted by the State Department of Agriculture show that faulty scales more often favor the buyer than the seller. Gasoline pumps, on the other hand, usually work the opposite way. Nearly 75 per cent of the pumps declared faulty by the State inspectors favor the seller and not the buyer, M. S. Fraze, chief of the Weights and Measures Division, reported.

TARIFF BOARD URGED TO CUT SUGAR DUTY

Cuban Says This Will Restore Purchasing Power of Island.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Rather than increase the sugar import duty, the Tariff Commission was asked yesterday to recommend a reduction.

This, it was stated, would stimulate employment in the United States by restoring Cuban purchasing power.

Carlos Garcia, president of the Garcia Sugar Corporation, New York, told the Commission that Cuba, now suffering from low prices and declining sugar markets, once was America's fourth largest customer and could be so again.

"Cuba's purchases from the United States," he said, "now are less than $50,000,000. This has affected American labor more than any good accomplished by the tariff."

The Commission is hearing the application of American sugar refiners and producers for an increase in the duty on refined sugar to protect the domestic industry from "inevitable destruction" which they say is threatened by growing Cuban competition.

The domestic refiners seek an adjustment of the differential which allows Cuban shippers to send refined sugar to the United States at a rate of $2.12 per 100 pounds while they must pay $2,14 on the 107 pounds of the raw product needed to make 100 pounds of refined.

Donald K. Luke, treasurer of the Sugar Process Corporation, Brooklyn, told the commission this differential was the precise one sought by domestic refiners when the 1930 tariff law was being framed.

He charged the refiners had asked this duty to restrict the importations of sugar syrups, chiefly those of his corporation.

Answering the refiners' argument that American labor needs added protection, Luke testified that a higher sugar levy would afford little help to labor. He estimated that labor gets only three cents of every dollar spent in this country for sugar, and offered figures to show that in 1930 only 13,000 persons were employed in the American cane sugar industry.

Lee G. Camp, Havana consulting engineer, testified that he knew of no instance in which a Cuban mill had closed because operations were unprofitable. Luke, on the other hand, submitted figures to show that the net income of 65 per cent of domestic refiners in 1931 was off only 18.1 per cent as compared with 1930. During the same period, he added, incomes of other industries were off 7 to 77 per cent. Under cross-examination, it was brought out by counsel for the higher tariff advocates that two of the 15 American refining companies failed in 1931.

Domestic refiners submitted confidential information, seeking to show Cuba's production costs are low due to low wages and living costs.

DROUTH REDUCES SHEIKS TO POVERTY

Bedouins of Hedjaz Cross Into Transjordania, Starving and in Rags.

By the Associated Press.

AMMON, Transjordania, April 14.—Bedouins are crossing the frontier into Transjordania in a state of pitiable distress. Sheiks whose names have been famous throughout Northern Arabia are arriving from the Hedjaz clothed in rags, their faces haggard from hunger.

"Bread," is the request all make.

For weeks these visitors have been keeping themselves alive chiefly by eating edible roots. Some bring their flocks of sheep and goats with them, the animals at almost their last gasp.

A series of lean years and unusually low rainfall has reduced these Bedouins to poverty. Food and fodder have become increasingly scarce. What once were green valleys are now sandy wastes, with shriveled herbage and dried twigs, on which neither man nor beast can exist.

The tribes of this area, the Beni Atia, Billi, Aneiza and the Omran, are by nature lawless, ready to defy any authority from the security of crags. The failure of their grazing, strangely enough, has come at the same time as the economic depression which has surged over the rest of the world.

The officials and troops of Ibn Saud, ruler of the Nejd and Hedjaz, are now nine or 10 months in arrears of pay. Their patrol cars are laid up through lack of fuel and spare parts. The garrisons of the Government centers are restless to the point of mutiny.

Raiding and robbery have broken out. Stronger tribes have plundered the weak. Troops sent on punitive expeditions have seized their opportunity and treated their operations as "official raids," the results of which have accrued to officials and soldiers in lieu of pay.

Ibn Saud lives in the center of the Nejd, far from the unsettled areas, hundreds of miles away from the scenes of such confusion and despair.

PICKET IS KILLED IN DISORDER NEAR OHIO COAL MINE

Crowd, Said to Have Threatened Group on Way to Work, Is Dispersed With Tear Gas.

By the Associated Press.

STEUBENVILLE, O., April 14.—One man was killed in a strike disorder near Adens, O., today.

Several hundred persons who were alleged to have threatened miners and National Guard officers on the way to the Somers mine of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. were dispersed with tear gas.

Walter Kimbel, 50 years old, one of the men who is alleged to have attempted to persuade miners not to go to work was killed.

Pickets lined the road and stoned automobiles carrying National Guard officers and deputies to the mine. Another crowd met workers and guards at the mine, a shot was fired from an automobile by an unidentified person, fatally wounding Kimbell when Kimbel pointed a pistol at a Sheriff.

Sheriff Maurice Wooster and his deputies hurled tear gas bombs into the crowd and it dispersed.

Before the disorder, the alleged pickets went from house to house warning miners who had not heeded a strike call not to show up for work.

John Moreland told callers that he did not intend to heed their order. He was taken from home and thrown into a nearby creek. He returned home.

After the disorder was quelled, Col. Caldwell of the Adjutant-General's office called a conference with leaders of the pickets and told them that at the first sign of further disorder National Guard would be sent into the field.

The Third Batallion of the 145th Infantry, National Guard, with headquarters at Akron, has been ordered to hold itself in readiness for hisduty.

GERLING'S PLAN FOR NEGRO VOCATIONAL SCHOOL INDORSED

League of Women Voters' Directors Approve Proposed Use of Franklin Building.

Directors of the League of Women Voters have recommended that the Board of Education carry out Supt. Gerling's suggestion to open Franklin School as a Negro vocational school. The proposal has been in abeyance because of the urgent requests of organizations and property owners in the vicinity of the Franklin, which is at 814 North Nineteenth street, that it be made a white elementary school.

The league directors asserted that the Negro population in this neighborhood was increasing and that it was unlikely the white population would grow enough to justify changing the plan. They also called attention to an increasing demand for vocational instruction and to objections to some of the arrangements necessary at present in conducting vocational training for Negroes.

Bank Robbers Pose as Deputies.

By the Associated Press.

KENOSHA, Wis., April 14.—The Silver Lake State Bank, about 15 miles west of here, was robbed of approximately $5000 today by two men, posing as deputy sheriffs, who escaped after locking Clifford Janke, assistant cashier, in the bank vault.

ROOSEVELT WELCOMES EXPENDITURES INQUIRY

"If There Is Anything to Investigate, Let Them Go Ahead," He Says.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The creation of a special committee to investigate 1932 campaign expenditures was urged yesterday in the Senate by Senator Robinson (Rep.), Indiana, who gave as one of his reasons reports that $50,000 had been sent into Nebraska to carry the primary for Gov. Roosevelt.

Gov. Roosevelt from Albany answered with the assertion "If there is anything to investigate, let them go ahead and investigate."

Robinson told the Senate that according to press reports Gov. Murray of Oklahoma had charged that Arthur Mullen, Democratic National Committeeman from Nebraska, had taken $50,000 into the State in behalf of Roosevelt's candidacy. This charge, he said, was "sufficiently grave to justify being brought to the attention of the Senate."

Senator Thomas (Dem.), Oklahoma, informed the Senate that Gov. Murray had denied making that statement, while Senator Dill (Dem.), Washington, a strong Roosevelt supporter, said he had been advised by Roosevelt's campaign manager not a cent had been sent into the State.

Chairman Shortridge today called a meeting of the Senate Elections Committee for Saturday to consider the Dickinson resolution to create a committee to investigate 1932 campaign expenditures.

Gov. Murray Says He Did Not Speak for Publication.

DENVER, Colo., April 14.—Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma, in Denver yesterday, said he had made statements of vote buying in private conversations, but that "I did not intend them to be made public at the moment. I did say money was being spent in North Dakota to buy the State's delegation for Roosevelt, and I said, also in private conversations, that some money was being spent for this purpose in Iowa."

Murray said he would take up the charges later, but that for himself he would "rather go down to defeat in a righteous cause than ride the band wagon into Wall street."

Murray was quoted last Friday as saying in a speech at Norfolk, Neb., that $50,000 in Eastern money had been sent into Nebraska to win delegates for Roosevelt. He explained the next day he had not intended to convey that idea, but realized later the audience had misunderstood him. "I intended to convey," he said, "that Arthur Mullen of Omaha, Democratic National Committeeman, had $50,000 for the Al Smith campaign four years ago, and I was wondering if he had the same amount for Roosevelt." Mullen stated at the time that less than $200 had been spent in Nebraska for Roosevelt and that he had paid it personally.

Denies Money Is Being Spent for Roosevelt in Iowa.

DES MOINES, Ia., April 14.—J. S. Wolfe, Des Moines, one of the managers of the Roosevelt campaign, last night denied any money was being spent in Iowa in behalf of the New York Governor. "There hasn't been any money come into Iowa from the New York headquarters," Wolfe said, "and there have been no contributions collected in the State."

Wolfe said that both he and John Sullivan of Waterloo, State campaign manager for Roosevelt, were serving without salary.

4 DROWN WHEN BOAT UPSETS

NATCHEZ, Miss., April 14.—Four persons, two of them school girls, drowned yesterday in Little River, near Jonesville, La., after their rowboat overturned. The dead: Larouje McCarty, 23 years old, of Tallulah, La., and Cooley McClure, 18, and his sisters, Bertha, 16, and Dairy, 14, of Jonesville.

The youths were rowing across the river with the girls, who were returning home from school, when the boat began to leak. The party became excited and upset the craft.

MAYOR SIGNS SERVICE CAR INSURANCE AMENDMENT

Mayor Miller signed an amendment to the service car ordinance today, requiring that insurance of service cars shall be subject to the Comptroller's approval. It is effective immediately.

The Comptroller will pass on the form of policies and solvency of the companies issuing them. Each car must have liability insurance of $5000 for injury to one person and $10,000 for injury to two or more, and $5000 property damage insurance.

The Legislation Committee of the Board of Aldermen has been told the required insurance would cost about $540 annually on each car. On the basis of a six-day week at the present service car fare of 15 cents, it would take slightly more than 11 fares daily to pay the premium on each car at this rate. At the office of the United Service Car Co., which operates the 340 vehicles here, it was said the cost was expected to be lower.

Formerly the law provided only for the $5000 and $10,000 liability on personal injuries in companies licensed to do business in Missouri. Some companies which have insured St. Louis service cars have failed to pay claims.

ATTORNEY REPORTS NO WORD FROM MRS. HUGH THOMASSON

No word has been received from Mrs. Grace Carolyn Thomasson, who disappeared Tuesday night from her home at 56 Broadview drive, Clayton, according to her attorney, Wilfred Jones.

The young wife of Hugh W. Thomasson, elderly capitalist, has not been seen since she left her home to shop downtown Tuesday morning. A houseman and a cook at the Thomasson home said they heard her scream at 8:30 that evening and upon investigating, found the front door open with her key in it, her scarf on the floor and her hat and other belongings scattered on the walk and lawn outside.

Jones said she was convalsescing from an operation several weeks ago and had been home from a hospital about two weeks. He requested that any persons knowing of her whereabouts get in touch with him.

POLICE CALLED TO PRESERVE ORDER AT BONUS HEARING

Delegation Attempts to Force Appearance Ahead of Regular Order Before Committee.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Police were called to keep order force the Ways and Means Committee to hear it out of regular order. A man who identified himself as Samuel J. Stenber, a representative of the Workers' Ex-Service Men's League, asked when his delegation would be heard.

Acting Chairman Crisp said it would not be heard at all unless it observed the rules of the committee.

Stenber persisted: "We have been waiting here several days and want to know when we'll be heard?" Crisp then instructed the committee clerk to call a police guard.

Economics Instructor Heard.

Willford I. King, an instructor in economics at New York University, was called before the committee today to give his views of the economics involved in the two billion dollar inflation of currency proposed by the bonus advocates. King reviewed recent economic developments, beginning with the stock market crash of 1929.

Patman introduced King after first exhibiting to the committee "several thousand telegrams I have received since yesterday morning favoring payment of the bonus. These come from both veterans and business men, especially small business men."

"There is a shortage in the world's gold supply," King said. "Production of gold has not been keeping pace with the growth of business and industry. The downward trend of prices has made it impossible for business to prosper. We have had a three-year fall of prices which has not yet stopped. The gold shortage has been an important cause.

"People have thought that nothing could be done about it. I feel we can put the price level where we want it. It is up to Congress, if it wants to. Congress can fix the price level because Congress has the right to fix the weight of gold in dollars."

"To pay the bonus in new currency would increase the purchasing power of the public and stimulate business," he said. "The amount required for the bonus would just about start us on the way back.

"Issuing bonds is like taking money out of one pocket and putting into another. We should substitute a circulating debt for a non-circulating debt."

Robert M. Harriss, New York cotton broker, said payment of the bonus would enhance values of all kinds.

"It will probably promptly lead to an embargo against the exportation of gold and to the temporary suspension of gold payments," he said. "This embargo against the export of gold will be of the greatest assistance in enabling our foreign debtors to pay us."

With little expectation of obtaining approval of the Ways and Means Committee, the bonus men plan, as soon as the current hearings end, to petition for a vote in the House. They are confident of success and of passing a bill. Just what form this will take still is undecided, but there is developing sentiment for the plan of former Senator Robert I. Owen of Oklahoma for issuing 4 per cent Government bonds, which, in turn, would be made the basis for Federal Reserve notes. These would be paid to the veterans.

What Coxey Would Do.

Jacob S. Coxey, Mayor of Massillon, O., and one-time general of the famous march of the unemployed in the 1890s, was the day's last witness for the bonus. Exhibiting various kinds of money, both paper and metal, to the committee as he testified, Coxey said the country has been doing business on 97 per cent of checks and 3 per ecnt of currency.

"We have been on a credit system," he said. "We should get off that and go on a currency system by printing 25 or 30 billions in currency.

"I urge the committee to recommend that Germany print $11,500,000,000 in currency. Then she could pay the four billions she owes England, the four billion she owes France and the three and a half billion she owes other nations.

"These countries then could pay the United States in this currency and the United States could use it to pay the veterans' bonus, reduce taxes and balance the budget."

Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, told the subcommittee today he thought issuance of $2,400,000,000 in currency to pay the soldiers' bonus would be "unwise" and "harm the Government's credit, not only abroad, but at home."

FORMER CIRCUS STAR DIES

NEW YORK, April 14. — William (Billy) O'Dale, a circus headliner of 35 years ago, died of pneumonia today at Bellevue Hospital. Seventy-three years old, O'Dale performed with such figures as Orrin Hollis, Homer Hobson, Charlie Fish and William Scholles. He was a bareback rider in the days when the horses jumpe dthrough huge paper covered hoops and dived through rings of fire.

He was with the old Barnum show, the Sells-Floto, and Forepaugh-Sells. He was outstanding for his act with four horses and a somersault from one to another.

Happiness that is born of social success. Self confidence. Attention. Admiring friends. A clean skin has a great deal to do with such happiness, yet only one skin out of a hundred is really clean!

Dirt clings tenaciously to the tiny openings of the skin, stretching them, inviting infection, robbing the skin of its loveliness, and its youth. Keep clean, really clean with Daggett & Ramsdell's two creams. Their price is within reach of every purse, and there are none better at any price.

● EVERY NIGHT use Perfect Cold Cream liberally to get rid of below-the-surface dirt. This marvelous cream provides the essentials every skin must have—lubrication, moisture, protection. Three groups of special ingredients supply them, all balanced properly of course. Famous for more than forty years.

● DURING THE DAY whenever your skin needs freshening, cleanse it quickly with the new Perfect Cleansing Cream (liquefying). Melts instantly upon application, its fine oils cleanse in half the usual time.

POSES AS DEALER, TRAPS FIVE AS JEWELRY ROBBERS

Detective Carries on "Negotiations" for Purchase of $300,000 Loot in New York.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 14.—A major share of the $305,105 in jewelry taken in a holdup at the East Sixty-seventh street home of Mrs. Harry Glemby on Jan. 20 was recovered yesterday and three men and two women were arrested.

All but four pieces were turned up together with the loot of several other robberies. The prisoners described themselves as Helen Smith, 36 years old; Ruby Goelet, 32; Sam Appolito, 28; Anthony Indelicato, 32, and his brother, Joseph.

A detective, posing as "Joseph Rothstein, a wealthy dealer of Seattle," made contact with the robbers three weeks ago and agreed to pay $50,000 for the loot. He gathered enough information about the gang during his meetings with them to bring about the capture.

RESERVE BOARD ADVISES BANKS TO WIDEN CREDIT

Tells Depositories They Are Expected to Use Facilities Established by Recent Legislation.

TO EXTEND BUYING OF U. S. SECURITIES

House Committee to Approve Bill Directing Fiscal Agencies to Re-Establish Prices.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 14. — The Federal Reserve Board has informed member banks that they are expected to increase their use of the broadened credit facilities provided by recent legislation.

It has decided to stimulate its own purchase of Government securities.

George L. Harrison, Governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, testifying yesterday before the House Banking Committee, said the decision on Government security buying was reached at a meeting of the reserve board Tuesday.

His statement had a prompt reaction in the New York money market. Coincident with it came a reduction of one-half of one per cent in bankers' acceptance yield rates. This was regarded as an attempt to increase the market supply of such paper by attracting offers from bank portfolios.

Resentment has been aroused in Congressional and administration circles by reports that strong banks throughout the country have refrained from rediscounting under the provisions of the Glass-Steagall bill, but have continued their policy of remaining as liquid as possible.

The effort toward complete liquidity, it was said in an official quarter, has caused banks to call well-secured loans instead of extending them. This has been irritating to Federal banking authorities in view of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation's policy of extending assistance to banks that are in difficulty because of depressed security prices.

The view was expressed that with the corporation taking care of small banks, the large and strong banks should stop calling good loans.

Harrison told the committee that since the passage of the Glass-Steagall bill the banks had bought $245,000,000 in Government securities at the rate of about $25,000,000 a week.

House Democratic leaders intend to force action on the Goldsborough bill which would direct the Federal Reserve Board and banks to re-establish and maintain commodity prices.

Representative Bankhead of Alabama, one of the Democratic leaders, said the measure would be approved shortly by the Banking Committee. Harrison expressed his opposition to the measure.

Bankhead said a restoration of pre-deflation prices was necessary to bring economic recovery, and that party leaders thought the Goldsborough bill would achieve that result even though the administration was not anxious to have the legislation enacted.

Reserve System May Increase Buying to $75,000,000 Weekly.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 14.—News that the Federal Reserve System was planning active expansion of banking credit through larger purchases of United States securities received close attention in Wall street today, particularly in circles which had been advocating such a policy as a means of stopping deflation.

How far the central banking system intends to go in this direction was not disclosed, but recent reports in the financial district have said that the authorities might decide to increase weekly purchases to $75,000,000.

By freeing credit, reserve banks have enabled commercial member banks to reduce their borrowings, or rediscounts, by some $200,000,000, cutting the total for the country to $635,000,000. Whether the Central banks plan to facilitate not only complete retirement of this indebtedness but the building up of surplus reserves, thus encouraging more liberal lending policies by members of the system, was not divulged.

The Federal Reserve's easy money policy in recent months has twice been interrupted by outgoing gold movements or unfavorable developments abroad. Last autumn the system's efforts were checked by financial disturbances on an international scale which had their repercussions in the "gold run" of America. There was a similar but milder movement early this year when Europe turned bearish on the dollar.

At present foreign balances are greatly reduced. The Glass-Steagall bill provides machinery for preventing emergencies by replenishing the free gold supply.

BROWNS 3, WHITE SOX 0; PIRATES 5, CARDINALS 4

KRESS HITS HOMER WITH ONE ON BASE; GRAY IN FINE FORM

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, April 14.—The Browns defeated the Chicago White Sox this afternoon in the third game of the series of four, after losing the first two contests.

The score was 3 to 0.

Manager Bill Killefer rearranged his batting order, with Melillo hitting third and Goslin fourth. He figures the "Goose" is the power of his team.

The game:

FIRST INNING — BROWNS—Schulte lined to Anderson. Burns flied to Anderson. Melillo was called out on strikes.

WHITE SOX—Levey went into center field for Anderson's fly. Hayes flied to Goslin. Watwood was called out on strikes.

SECOND — BROWNS — Goslin was hit by a pitched ball. Goslin was out stealing, Grube to Cissell. Cissell threw out Ferrell. Kress popped to Hayes.

WHITE SOX—Jolley singled to right. It was his fourth hit in a row. Blue grounded to Burns, and Jolley was doubled, Burns to Levey. Selph singled to right but was out trying to stretch it, Jenkins to Levey.

THIRD — BROWNS — Jenkins flied to Watwood. Frasier knocked down Levey's grounder and recovered in time to throw him out. Gray was called out on strikes.

WHITE SOX—Cissell fouled to Ferrell. Gray threw out Grube. Frasier flied to Jenkins.

FOURTH—BROWNS — Schulte flied to Anderson. Hayes tossed out Burns. Melillo flied to Jolley.

WHITE SOX—Anderson flied to Jenkins. So did Hayes. Watwood fell away from a wild pitch but the ball hit his hat and rolled toward third for a single. Jolley flied to Levey.

FIFTH — BROWNS — Goslin walked. Ferrell sacrificed, Frasier to Blue. Kress lined a home run into the lower deck of the left field stands, scoring behind Goslin. Jenkins doubled to left. Levey fouled to Selph. Gray popped to Hayes. TWO RUNS.

WHITE SOX—Blue flied to Schulte. Selph lifted to Jenkins. Cissell lined to Schulte.

SIXTH — BROWNS — Schulte flied to Jolley. Burns walked. On the hit and run, Melillo singled to right, putting Burns on third. Goslin tapped to Frasier and Burns was out at the plate, Frasier to Grube. Melillo stopped at second. Ferrell forced Goslin, Cissell to Hayes.

WHITE SOX—Kress threw out Grube. Gray tossed out Frasier. Anderson popped to Melillo.

SEVENTH—BROWNS — Kress popped to Hayes. Jenkins singled to right. Jenkins took second on a balk. Levey tripled to center, scoring Jenkins. A squeeze play failed and when Gray bunted, Levey was out at the plate, Frasier to Grube. Schulte flied to Watwood. ONE RUN.

WHITE SOX—Hayes flied to Jenkins. Watwood beat out a slow bounder to Melillo. Jolley walked. Gray tossed out Blue. Selph flied to Schulte.

EIGHTH — BROWNS — Selph drew an error when he dropped Burns' foul. Then Burns flied to Watwood. Melillo lined to Selph. Goslin beat out a slow roller to Blue. Goslin was out stealing, Grube to Hayes.

WHITE SOX—Cissell popped a single back of second. Grube fanned. Fothergill batted for Frasier and grounded to Burns. Simons batted for Anderson and struck out.

NINTH — BROWNS — Faber went in to pitch and Simons to center field for the White Sox. Cissell threw out Ferrell. Kress singled to right. Jenkins grounded into a double play, Cissell to Blue.

The White Sox failed to score.

TWO HELENS TO BEAR BRUNT OF CUP DEFENSE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 14.—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, who was just beginning to win international tennis laurels in 1923 when she helped inaugurate the Wightman Cup matches against the leading women players of Great Britain, will engage in her eighth international team struggle this year as captain of the American team.

Mrs. Moody has only missed two of the nine matches and has suffered only two singles defeats in the international series.

"Queen Helen" will lead a veteran team against the British stars June 10 and 11. The other three players named were Mrs. Anna Harper of San Francisco, Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Cal., and Sarah Palfrey of Boston. With Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, donor of the Cup, this quartet made up last year's team which defeated Great Britain to take a 5-4 lead in the series.

Helens to Carry Chief Burden.

Mrs. Moody and Miss Jacobs already have planned extensive European tours leading up to the matches.

The California Helens probably will carry the chief Wightman Cup burden, as they did last year, each playing two singles and pairing for a doubles match. Mrs. Harper probably will play the other singles match and pair with Miss Palfrey in the doubles.

The Wightman Cup contests were started in 1923 with the United States winning 7-0. Other victories were scored in 1926, 1927, 1929 and 1931. England won in 1924, 1925, 1928 and 1930.

Both of Mrs. Moody's defeats occurred in the 1924 series, when she lost to Kitty McKane Godfree and Mrs. Phillis Covell.

Ryerson Eliminated.

MILWAUKEE WOMAN BOWLS 277 IN TOURNEY

Mrs. C. Vogel of Wilwaukee went into third place in the singles event of the Women's International Bowling Congress meet at Rogers Recreation alleys today with a three-game score of 624 which included an unusually high game of 277.

After starting out with the good total of 205 for her first game Mrs. Vogel had miserable luck in the second and shot only 142 due to some bad breaks. Then she came back with her 277 which she started with three strikes, got a spare, followed with seven straight strikes and got eight pins with her final ball.

A milwaukee pair took twelfth place in the doubles when Mrs. Bucholitz and Mrs. Weisenberger totaled 1066.

Wray's COLUMN

A Posthumous Victory.

IF the late Charles Ebbets, lying in his cold bier, could hear John Heydler declare that May 1 is the time to open the major league races, he might arise in his large white cravat and exclaim: "What's that?"

For Heydler's declaration, which in fact was made yesterday, would be a great surprise to the Squire, who fought for this very idea for many years. If it is put into effect next year it can be counted as a posthumous victory for the late Mr. Ebbets.

Almost 20 years ago Ebbets put forward the theory that April was too frivolous a month for baseball to flirt with—a gusty, rainy, fickle period, with nothing more certain about it than that it would land a meteorological jolt on the box office.

He demanded that the season open in May and be carried into October, if necessary. He declared that October was uniformly a far better month in all cities of the two circuits than was April. He exhumed the meteorological reports of all big league cities for 75 years past in support of his theory.

But although the dead hand evidence was clear, his pleas fell on deaf ears. Now, after the good Squire has checked out, his idea seems to be cashing in.

The few interruptions to world series games in October because of inclement weather seem to bear out the Ebbets theory.

In all probability, however, if such a plan is adopted, it will be effected by scheduling more double-headers, rather than by extending the season later into October.

Passing the Buck.

MR. P. VISH handed his caddy the dollar-a-round fee. Then, emitting rumbling but inarticulate chest tones, he chased a quarter to its lair and slipped it to the caddy by way of a tip.

"I'm through," he snorted as he walked to the shower. "A dollar a round is too much. And we have to give a tip on top of it. My business is shot, prices have been cut to the quick. A T-bone steak is as scarce with me as a hole in one. I'm for cutting the caddy's pay to 60 cents a round."

Mr. P. Vish's voice, like the turtle's, is heard in the land. He is broadcasting over a national hookup. And he is creating a following. P. Vish believes in releiving the financial situation by putting it up squarely to the caddy. "It is unfair," he tells the mike, "that we be expected to bear the burden alone. Let the caddy do his bit."

Well, Mr. P. Vish may be right. This is a free country and two of our inalienable rights are passing the burden and passing the buck.

He Does His Bit.

BUT what of the caddy? Small a target as he is, depression has not missed him. Mr. P. Vish perhaps had not thought that where formerly 600 members flourished and patronized him, only 400 now remain. That's 33 1-3 per cent off the caddy fees, right there.

Nor did Mr. P. Vish seem to consider that of the 400 (hypothetical) remaining members a great number now play twice a week instead of three times or

ONLY TWO MUNY LEAGUES LISTED; 1 DAY TO ENTER

By Damon Kerby.

Only two of the 30 leagues expected to affiliate with the Municipal Baseball Association this season had filed their entries at noon today, it was reported at the office of the Park Department. The entry list will close tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Thirty-two leagues were in the association last year and at a preseason organization meeting recently only two leagues, Y. M. C. A. Industrial No. 1 and No. 2, said they would not affiliate this season. However, entries of the leagues have not been forthcoming thus far, and the opinion prevails that many of the leagues and teams are having a hard time in locating backers for the season.

Park Department employes told the Post-Dispatch that in previous years a majority of entries were filed on the day that the entry list was opened. There was no such "stampede," however, when this year's entry list was opened Monday.

The entry fee has been reduced from $45 a league to $6 a team, this season, with the maximum at $40 a league. The reduction has been put in force for this season only.

The leagues that had filed their entries by noon today are the Mid-City League, a new organization of four teams, and the Y. M. H. A. League, also a four-club circuit.

Referees for Practice Bouts Would Help Boxers, Kaiser Says

Fighters Learn Illegal Habits and Carry Them Into the Ring, Veteran Featherweight Declares.

By W. J. McGoogan.

"You know, if I were manager of a fighter," Johnny Kaiser mused while watching his stablemate, Jackie Horner, boxing with Joe Parks, preparing for his bout with Duke Trammel at the Coliseum next Monday night, "I would always have a referee in the ring when my boxer was working out in a gymnasium.

"Notice the way both Horner and Parks get in close, hang on and hold. They learn bad habits that way, things they are not allowed to do in a fight, so why do them in the gynasium?"

That's pretty good logic and Johnny, after 15 years in the ring, should know whereof he speaks. Boxers undoubtedly acquire a lot of bad habits in the gymnasium and some of them, it would appear, work too hard in a gymnasium. Horner is one of the latter.

It used to be said around the National at Sixth and Pine streets that you could see more of a fight for a quarter, when Jackie Horner and Eddie Goldberg worked out, than you could see at the Coliseum or The Arena for $3.

Waste Energy in Practice.

Those two boys were accustomed to tearing into each other as though a championship depended upon their efforts with the result that they left much of their energy in the gymnasium. And that's the way Horner works now.

Jack doesn't know anything but sail in and hit. He works that way in practice for a bout and he works that way in a fight. With the result that he has been knocked out a good many times and has also flattened several boys.

Horner's most noted knockout was scored in a gymnasium where it did him no good. That was when he flattened King Tut in a Detroit gymnasium last winter, while acting as a sparring mate for Tut, who was training for a scrap with Jackie Fields, just before Fields took the welterweight championship away from Lou Brouillard.

Jack will need that knockout punch with him against Trammel, who defeated Roy Mitchell at the Coliseum recently. Trammell has been to the wars many times and knows what it's all about. He can hit hard, but he can also be hit, so Horner should have a chance with him.

Horner has had some tough luck at home. For it was here that Jackie Fields stopped him, a few years ago, after Horner had just about set the East on fire with a string of victories. Then he went away again and built up something of a reputaftion only to have My Sullivan knock him out in a round at The Arena.

Tippett Plans Outdoor Bouts.

Jack Tippett is planning to run his outdoor shows again this summer, and has applied for three dates, June 1, June 15 and June 29. He is negotiating for a lease on Battery A or the Delmar stadium. Jack hasn't given up the idea of holding a championship bout here. He fell down on his plan to pit Jackie Brady against Jackie Fields for the welterweight title, after Brady lost to Jackie Purvis.

WATKINS AND MARTIN HIT TWO-BAGGERS IN THREE-RUN INNING

By J. Roy Stockton.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, April 14.—The world champion Cardinals lost to the Pittsburg Pirates this afternoon in the third game of a series of four.

The score was 5 to 4.

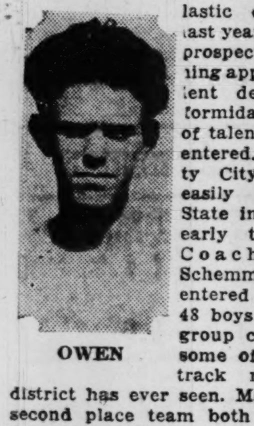
VISITING TEAMS LIKELY TO GIVE LOCAL ATHLETES HARD STRUGGLE

What should prove one of the finest interscholastic track and field meets in the history of St. Louis will be begun tomorrow afternoon at Maplewood High School field where, at 4 o'clock, the preliminaries of the third annual invitation relay meet sponsored by Maplewood High School will be held. The event, which has grown in importance with each year, this season will see two national champions competing, together with several record holders as well as stars from Chicago, Joliet and other schools.

Events scheduled on tomorrow's program are to determine the qualifiers in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, the 140-yard low hurdles, and all field events. Semifinals in all events will be held Saturday morning and the finals Saturday afternoon. All relays will be held the day of the meet and the winners of these will be determined by the fastest time.

University City Seeks Third Title.

University City, winner of the relays both times it has been held, this year faces serious opposition from Maine Township High, national interscholastic champions last year. U. City's prospects of winning appear excellent despite the formidable array of talent that has entered. University City athletes easily won the State indoor title early this year. Coach Henry Schemmer has entered a team of 48 boys and that group consists of some of the best track men this district has ever seen. Maplewood, second place team both years, is favored to repeat, its dash men and relay teams constituting its chief strength.



OWEN

Competition will be enhanced by the fact that, in addition to the meet trophy, there will also be a "traveling," trophy donated by the Maplewood Lions Club, for the team scoring the most points in the relay events.

Points will be scored for the first four places in the relays and special events, the places in the relays counting 10, 6, 4 and 2, while in the special events they will count 5, 3, 2 and 1.

A group of brilliant dash men will meet in the feature races of the day, the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Jimmy Owen of Maplewood, national interscholastic 100-yard dash champion, and George Kennicott of Maine Township High, Des Plaines, Ill., 220-yard national interscholastic champion, are outstanding men.

Robert McClure of University City, who recently tied the interscholastic record for the 60-yard dash, will also be watched closely. McClure beat Owen last year in the century, and is a favorite to repeat, although outside competition may supply the winner. In addition to Kennicott, who placed third in the national hundred, there are Sammy Light of Soldan and George Quinlan of New Trier, Chicago, who gained second place in the national century. These five will also compete in the 220, where Kennicott will be the outstanding favorite.

Stephan Leads Shot-Putters.

Robert Stephan of Joliet, Ill., with a throw of 53 feet 8¼ inches, is the leading shot-put candidate, with Joe Lockhart of U. City and Victor Barnes of Maplewood the local athletes who are expected to place. V. Burnett of Libertyville, Ill., has tossed the discus 128 feet 4½ inches, and is a heavy favorite for that event, with John Flynn of C. B. C. and Vic Barnes of Maplewood his closest rivals.

McCLURE

Arthur de Salme of Webster, who easily leads the javelin throwers, is defending his title in that event. His record of 165 feet will hardly survive his assault this year, as he has hurled the spear over 170 feet in early season meets.

Warren Kelly of Webster and Jimmy Johnson of University City are the leading high jumpers of the district, and clear the bar at 5 feet 10 inches or better. Leonard Hinson of East St. Louis High, Bob Ehrhardt, sensational sophomore of Clayton, and R. Nichkels of Soldan are other jumpers who come near that mark.

The pole vault will bring together some of the outstanding vaulters of the country, with August Beltzner of Joliet, Ill., national interscholastic champion (record 11 feet 8 inches), Jimmy Johnson of U. City, class "A" champion of the State indoor meet (11 feet 9 inches), and Robert Mudd of St. Charles, class "B" State indoor champion (11 feet 6 inches).

Is There No Justice?

Umpire Geisel, thinking that Goose Goslin's striped bat was laminated, took the "lam" out of it by refusing to let him use it.

He wouldn't even give the Goose a chance to strike out with it a couple of times to prove that it wasn't as bad as it was painted.

HOLMES AND GAROFALO BOWL RECORD SCORE

Bowling what is believed to be a record score for two-man competition, Ray Holmes and Sam Garofalo of the Dave Brown Oils, swamped Ervin Brunsmann and Buzz Tonkovic of the Say-It-With-Flowers five, by a margin of 551 pins in the first 10 games of a 20-game home-and-home match bowled last night on Charley Peterson's drives, 4545 to 3994.

Holmes led all scorers with a total of 2325, followed by Garofalo with 2220. Brunsmann totaled 2136, while Tonkovic, present Missouri State singles and all events champion, could muster only 1858.

Garofalo started the fourth game with 11 in a row, then hit a little high, leaving the 6 and 10 pins standing, for a total of 298.

The final half of this match will be bowled at the Gardenville Arcade, Thursday, April 21, at 10 p. m.

SOLDAN TRACK TEAM WINS FROM CENTRAL

Winning first place in 10 of the 12 events, Soldan High defeated Central High, 65 points to 43, in a senior track and field meet yesterday afternoon at the Public School Stadium. Last Friday, the Soldan juniors trounced Central, 59 to 36.

Light of Soldan was the individual star of the senior meet. He accounted for firsts in the 100 and 220 yard dashes and in the broad jump, in addition to running the last lap in the 880-yard relay.

Liberty Limited, Backed to 8-1, in Derby Future Book, Won But One Race in 1931

Waggoner Colt, Half-Brother to Gallant Fox, 1931 Champion, Only Eligible to Work Full Classic Route This Spring.

NO. 4. DERBY CANDIDATES

By Harry McKanna

Backed from 60 to 1 down to 8 to 1 in Tom Kearney's future book on the Kentucky Derby, Liberty Limited, three-year-old son of Sir Galahad III, is held by shrewd racing men as one of the "dark horses" in the Kentucky Classic, May 7.

The heavy wagers on Liberty Limited came from Louisville where the Derby hope of the Three D's Stock Farm Stable, owned by W. T. Waggoner, the Texas breeder, is in training after wintering at New Orleans.

The half-brother of Gallant Fox, the 1930 Derby winner, is being put through his paces at Churchill Downs by Trainer Johnny Schorr, and his good workouts, probably caused the heavy wagering. He is the first Derby candidate at the Downs to go the Derby distance of one and one-quarter miles. He ran the mile in 1:43 3-5, one mile and one-eighth at 1:57 3-5, and eased up, went the full route in 2:13 3-5.

Unplaced Once in Six Starts.

Bought for $29,000 as a yearling at Saratoga by Col. Waggoner, the Sir Galahad colt was started in six races as a two-year-old, and was only out of the money once. He didn't win a stake race, but ran second in the Bashford Manor Stakes, third in the Post and Paddock stake, second in the Hawthorne Juvenile Handicap, and third in the Joliet Handicap. His total winnings as a juvenile were $6400.

In his first start at Churchill Downs in a five and one-half furlong sprint, Liberty Limited ran fifth, finishing four lengths behind Cathop, the winner. The Waggoner colt raced green.

He graduated from the maiden class May 16, Derby Day at the Downs, winning a five-furlong event in :59 4-5 over a fast track. Behind him were Prince Ascot, Indian Runner and Barashkovam, the last two Derby eligibles.

LIBERTY LIMITED

LIBERTY LIMITED

Owner—Three D's Stock Farm Stable (W. T. Waggoner).
Trainer—John F. Schorr.

	Starts	First	Second	Third	Won
1931 Record	6	1	2	2	$6400

In the Bashford Manor stakes at five furlongs at the Downs, May 20, Liberty Limited was beaten a neck by Proteus, another Derby candidate. Barashkova, Prince Hotspur and Adobe Post, other Derby eligibles, trailed him. The Sir Galahad colt was off slowly, gradually worked his way up through the field, was blocked in the stretch, closed with fine speed when clear and was rapidly wearing down the winner.

Liberty Limited was forced to take show money in the Post and Paddock Stakes at Arlington, Aug. 1, finishing three lengths behind Burning Blaze in the six furlong sprint. Morfair beat him a half length for the place. In this race, Liberty Limited again was away slowly, but closed a big gap and was going gamely at the end. Burning Blaze was the outstanding two-year-old of the West, and next to Top Flight, C. V. Whitney's great filley in money winnings.

Hygro, considered next to Burning Blaze as the best juvenile in the West last year, defeated Liberty Limited by five lengths to win the Hawthorne Juvenile Handicap, at six furlong, at Hawthorne, Aug. 22. Although acting badly at the barrier, Liberty Limited began well, and although meeting with early interference, overcame it to outgame the others in the field.

Hygro beat him again in the Joliet Handicap, another six-furlong race on Sept. 7. Liberty Limited finished third behind Hygro and Burning Blaze, the winner's margin being seven lengths over the Waggoner colt. He began slowly, raced sluggishly for a mile, lost ground, but closed well.

THOSE migratory birds, the Flyers, are winging home to Canada; but their return next fall depends on whether the local hockey promoters will be able to say it with greenbacks.

Thus far, there has been a distressing shortage of such conversation. In fact, when it came to saying things in legal tender, the only word in the dictionary the promoters knew was "No." And that was overworked.

In fact, as is now history, the management ran out of noes and for a time it looked like the backers would also run out. Harry Taber put up a valiant fight for his men and finally discovered an angel who found his voice long enough to talk in terms of transportation to Canada.

But for the rest, the players' past due salaries, some extending into last year, are still as nebulous as the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. One Flyer, who has money coming from last year, is said to have $4800 due him.

It will be difficult to bait a trap to snare such birds again.

Flyers Self-Sustaining.

HOWEVER a reorganization is hoped for which will wipe out all past obligations and permit the St. Louis team to start with a clean slate. Financial figures show that the club more than earned its way, this year, in spite of the hangover debts that shackled it. On its record for the season closed, hockey here was self-sustaining.

The serious condition of the entire league, however, seems to demand a reorganization not only of the St. Louis club but of the circuit. A new "loop," with Tulsa and Duluth out and with Milwaukee, Minneapolis and St. Paul or other good towns completing the organization, might keep the good ship Hockey afloat.

RACING promoters who have been suffering from frigiditis of the extremities, since the unexpected death of Phar Lap, shook off the gloom and began to look around today.

The death of Phar Lap had wiped out the big attraction of the year. Officials envisioned highly expensive stake races with little competition and few major drawing cards to lure the crowd.

Then, just as Phar Lap died, Equipoise came to life.

You remember Equipoise—the horse that beat Twenty Grand by coming from behind to pass him, in the Pimlico Futurity? The horse that as a three-year-old was made favorite for both the Preakness and the Kentucky Derby? The horse that was afflicted with a strange malady—some suggested poisoning—a week or so before the Preakness? And finally the horse that had to be retired, just before the Kentucky Derby?

Well, that's the turf king who has come back—and how.

His remarkable display in his first start since early last spring electrified the country yesterday. Not only did he win his effort, but he clipped one and three-fifths seconds off the track record for five furlongs.

This showing seems to mean that the three-cornered struggle for supremacy which was promised last year between Mate, Twenty Grand and Equipoise will feature the handicap races of 1932 and put the current season over big. If Equipoise trains on, he should prove the master of Mate and perhaps of the great Twenty Grand and Equipoise Twenty Grand as well. Better still, he may make promoters forget Phar Lap.

"Cards Great Team, but Giants Are Just as Strong"—Traynor

Pirates' Captain Believes Race in the National Will Be Between New York and St. Louis Clubs.

By James M. Gould.

Harold, better known as "Pie" Traynor, the Pittsburg third baseman, has been battling the Cardinals and six other National League clubs for 11 years. After that explosion by his club in the ninth inning yesterday, "Pie," who is the captain of the club, didn't feel much like talking; but he is, after all, a mild Pirate, and so admitted that he had an idea who would win the 1932 flag and consented to tell about it.

"Understand," he said, "I'm not saying anything about the Pirates for you never can tell what will happen in a season. But, if I were asked to name my favorites, right now. I'd pick the Cardinals and the Giants to make the running. I like the way the Cardinals stand up there at the plate. You know, 'there was pride in Casey's bearing'—that sort of stuff. Apparently, they are quite sure they can hit and the first two games of the series with us, makes it look as though they are quite correct.

TRAYNOR

"But," Traynor continued, "I think the Cardinals are going to miss Hafey. Oh, not right away, perhaps, but when and if the going gets close in the last two months of the season. Hafey never was a fast starter but, in midseason he was in there batting in runs and that's pretty helpful. Also, you have to look at the Cincinnati club and see that it has been greatly strengthened, making it improbable that the Cards will take an overwhelming majority of games from them this season. And, that will make a difference in the race, too."

"Have you seen the Giants, this year?" he was asked.

Giants "Have Everything."

"Yes," he answered. "When we met them on the coast, I thought they were one of the best ball clubs I ever had seen. They had everything and, unless I miss my guess, they are going to make things mighty interesting for Gabby Street and his team. This new outfielder, Koenecke, looks as though he'd hit a million; but he may be in some danger in getting beaned out there in the outfield. A great hitter, apparently, but not so hot as a fielder. He looks to me to hit a lot like the Cardinals' Jimmy Collins. Has a lot of power and should bag a flock of extra bases.

"How about California as a training camp?"

"Well, it has some drawbacks in my opinion. It takes a team that has trained on the coast longer to get started, I believe.

"If you noticed, the three clubs that had trained on the coast were beaten on opening day—the Pirates, Cubs and Giants. A fourth, Detroit, did not play, but was beaten today, I notice. It's great to train on the coast if you are going to play all season out there, but if you have to come back to the Middle West and East to play, it takes some time to get acclimated."

"You haven't said anything about the Chicago Cubs in this race," he was reminded.

Cubs Are Strong, but—

"No," was his reply, "and I'm not going to. There certainly is a lot of real strength on the Chicago club, but whether things are all O K I don't know.

"I think the Cardinals are a great team but I believe that the Giants I saw on the coast are just as strong. These two great clubs should put up a great battle all the way."

Traynor went to Pittsburg from the Birmingham club in 1921 and has been with the Pirates ever since.

BEARS GAIN 5-4 VICTORY OVER SHURTLEFF NINE

Improving greatly in the batting department, the Washington Bears defeated Shurtleff College at Alton, 5—4, yesterday afternoon, in the second game of the season at Liggett Field. Don White's players will play their third contest of the week tomorrow afternoon against Illinois Wesleyan.

Washington made 10 safeties despite the fact that Shurtleff's hurler, Waller, was good enough to strike out 10 men. The score probably would not have been so close as it was, had Lou Jordan pitched in the early innings. As he worked Monday, Coach White started Gordon Graber, who was hit for seven safeties and all of Shurtleff's runs.

When Jordan came to the mound in the sixth inning, it marked the downfall of Shurtleff. Three of the visitors made singles off him and only one reached second base. He fanned six batter.

Washington was first to score in the second inning, but Shurtleff came back in the third to tie the count 2—2. Then, in the fourth, the team from Alton gained a one-run advantage, when Bissinger tripled, scoring Menzie.

Shurtleff repeated the performance in the fifth, but in their turn at bat, the Bears opened up their heavy bombardment which netted three runs. With two out, Machens tripled to score Schaperkotter and Vesper, and crossed a moment later on Stephen's single.

GULDAHL PAIRS WITH MISS PEP IN GOLF MATCH

Ralph Guldahl, St. Louis Country Club professional, one of the top ranking players of the country, has shown what he could do on many tough golf courses and now the St. Louis golfers are wondering what he will do on the comparatively easy Triple A course Sunday afternoon.

Guldahl, paired with Virginia Pep, woman professional of the Forest Park Golf Club, is scheduled to oppose Elliott Whitbread, former district and State champion, and Mrs. Ignatius S. Hynes, former district title holder, in an 18-hole match, starting at 2 o'clock.

Two points will be contested on each hole, the side scoring the low ball being credited with point and the side scoring the low aggregate being credited with one. As the women are not expected to figure too seriously in the low ball, the low total was agreed upon to keep up their interest.

Guldahl turned in a 72 at the Country Club, a 72 at Meadow Brook, and a 74 at Creve Coeur, on his appearances here this season, and as Triple A, with a minimum of trouble and a rather short nine-hole layout, figures several strokes easier than these courses, Guldahl will disappoint if he fails to break 70.

The total length of Triple A's nine holes is 3019 yards, with a par of 35. Twice around would be 6038 yards and 70 par. Ben Richter, southpaw professional of the club, holds the record for nine holes with 31 strokes and for 18 with 63.

St. Louis Country Club has a total length for 18 holes of 6386 yards and Meadow Brook 6244 yards.

Miss Pep, Guldahl's partner, held the St. Louis district several times, as did Mrs. Hynes, who was runner-up to Mrs. Mahlon B. Wallace Jr. in the final of the tournament at Bellerive last fall.

Handicap Meet Tomorrow.

The first of the season's monthly handicap tournaments of the St. Louis District Golf Association is to be held at the St. Louis Country Club tomorrow. All professionals and amateurs of the District are eligible to compete. It will be an 18-hole medal play tournament on a handicap basis.

Burleigh Grimes Out for Week With Mild Flu Attack

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, O., April 14.

BURLEIGH GRIMES is the victim of a mild flu attack, but is expected to start on the firing line for the Cubs within a week.

The veteran pitcher was to have started his campaign with the Cubs yesterday against Cincinnati but was replaced by Pat Malone.

The professional-amateur tournament at Creve Coeur Monday was something of a comedy of errors due to the fact that Ben Richter and Jim Fogarty, who had charge, failed to notify players whether the event was best ball or medal play with the result that many of the players failed to hole out putts and others neglected to turn in their score cards.

Richter developed a headache when he saw the job confronting him of trying to untangle the knot so he put it up to the money winners of which he was one, to call off all bets and permit those who entered the tournament to play in the next one scheduled for Meadow Brook on May 2 without further charge. All of the winners agreed and so those who played at Creve Coeur Monday will be admitted to the next event without paying an entrance fee.

Jim Manion, Normandie, who tied for third in the Midwest amateur tournament at French Lick, Ind., recently, was not the only St. Louis golfer to walk away with a prize. Among the flight winners were: Class A—Low net, Jack Dazey, Normandie; second, Jack Wolf, Meadow Brook. Class B—O. E. J. Coffey, East St. Louis, low gross; second low net, Ray Dubuque, Normandie.

It's Punch in the 9th That Counts

Six Cardinal Base Hits and Five Runs Wipe Out Bitter Thoughts of First Eight Drab Innings.

By J. Roy Stockton.

A five-run, ninth-inning rally will cover a multitude of mistakes, especially when it thwarts a bold band of Buccaneers and quickly changes an impending defeat into a glorious victory. The Cardinals put on a storm like that yesterday, winning 9 to 8, and it would be easy to sing the praises of the brave boys and forget all about their blunders, so suppose we let it go at that.

Nothing will be said about the line drive that Pepper Martin muffed and no suggestion will be made that the Wild Horse of the Osage take a little fielding practice. And nothing will be said about the general inability of the outfield to get the jump on batted balls. Why mention that Ripper Collins and Pepper Martin ran around in circles and waved at a fly ball, like spring song dancers on the greensward, tripping to sprightly tunes?

Better to talk about Frankie Frisch's smashing two-bagger, which sent the tying and winning runs over the plate in that bombastic ninth inning, than to mention the bad base running of Joel Hunt. Of course, Joel was sent in there to run because he can pick up his feet and put them down right rapidly. In a sprint, or circling the bases, Joel probably could hold his own with Pepper Martin. And everybody knows how Pepper runs over Oklahoma hills in the winter, pursuing this jack rabbit and then that one, reaching down and feeling their flanks, as he runs, until he finds one pleasingly plump.

When as Important as Now.

But it is as important to know when to run as it is to know how to run. And if it had not been for all those ninth-inning base hits there would be a nigh-unto irresistible temptation to tell how Joel was sent in to run for Ray Blades and then insisted on trying to go from first to third on a single. The single was to right, but it was a sharp bounder that almost hit Joel going to second. He had to slow up to avoid the ball and he should have realized that he didn't have enough time left to beat Paul Waner's throw to third. But why bring that up, in view of the fact that it was a great and sufficient rally and the Cardinals won?

No need even, to talk about why Bill Hallahan was permitted to go on pitching when it was apparent that he didn't have his usual stuff. For as a matter of fact, Manager Street had a good and sufficient reason for keeping him out there. Bill, you know, always has to find himself in the spring. And history teaches that he can't even suspect where he is if he lingers on the bench. He must stay out there on the hill looking for himself. Then, after he has looked for a few days he finds himself and pitches 15 or 20 winning games. So why talk about his mediocre work against the Pirates.

All About the Rally.

The rally is the thing, and here is how it happened:

Jimmy Collins started with a grounder to Tony Piet and beat it out. The Cardinals had been hitting grounders and liners and pop flies to Piet all afternoon, but this was the first one that netted them any profit. Martin, swinging from Borough Hall, foozled a little roller in front of the plate. It was such a soft, helpless thing that Spencer and Brenzel both tried to pounce on it. Neither would concede that the other had seen it first or had any priority right. The result was a fine collision, with each man taking the other out of the play. Of course, Martin made first on the collision and Collins second.

Wilson then bunted and Spencer heaved a sigh of relief when he saw that Brenzel couldn't take him out of that play. But in his eagerness or something, he fumbled, and Wilson was safe and the bases filled.

Gelbert already had contributed a double and a single, but the Pennsylvania boy made good again and his single to center scored Collins and Martin, and the Cards were only two runs behind. Blades batted for Lindsey and forced Gelbert, but Wilson raced home and the Cards needed only one more run for a tie. Then it was that the fleet-footed Hunt ran for Blades and was thrown out by Paul Waner on Sparky Adams' single.

However, that avoidable accident merely helped to set the stage for the big base hit of the afternoon. Watkins singled past Piet, moving Adams to second, and Frankie Frisch gave a demonstration of what it takes to be the league's most valuable player. The great player is the one who can rise to an occasion. Well, here was one of the best occasions you ever saw, and did Frank Francis rise to it? He did. The rising took the form of a line drive to deep territory in right-center and when Watkins followed Adams over the plate, the Pirates gathered up their chagrin and trudged sadly to the clubhouse and the fans departed, cheering, glad to forget all about all the boob things the world champions had done before that big inning.

ROOSEVELT NINE FAVORED TO WIN OVER M'KINLEY

By Harold Tuthill.

Roosevelt will try for its third City High School League and seventh consecutive baseball victory of the season when the Rough Riders meet McKinley tomorrow afternoon in a single game at the Public Schools Stadium at 3:30 o'clock. In the doubleheader Saturday, Cleveland plays Beaumont in the first and Soldan opposes Central in the second game.

The Rough Riders do not look for a great deal of opposition from McKinley. Coach Lee R. Carlson has two good pitchers, a righthander, Leroy Suchanek and a southpaw, Ollie Steiner, all primed for McKinley. Carlson is fairly well satisfied with his lineup, although he may move Paul Shy up a notch or two in the batting order.

Coach Louis B. Maguolo had planned a surprise for Roosevelt. Louis Gott, lefthanded pitching ace, had been carefully groomed and had received a series of treatments to take the kinks out of his throwing arm, but the development was so slow that Maguolo kept him under wraps for the first two games. The McKinley coach wanted to send Gott against the leaders, but the cold weather during the past week may delay the hurler's debut until next week Pete Chulick, who looks better each game, probably will do the hurling, and Tony De Filio the catching.

76 PCT. OF R. F. C. BANK LOANS IN TOWNS OF LESS THAN 10,000

Eugene Meyer Tells House Committee That 1319 Depositories Have Been Aided.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Eugene Meyer, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, told a House Committee today that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had advanced loans to 1319 banks. Meyer also is chairman of the corporation.

In his testimony, he said 92 per cent of this cash had gone to banks in cities of less than 100,000 population and 76 per cent in towns of less than 10,000. He did not name the amount involved.

Meyer called currency inflation only one of the factors affecting stability of prices. He suggested the committee consider the board's previous recommendations for establishing a new method of computing reserves and the possibility of a unified banking system.

President Hoover earlier had the affairs of the Reconstruction Corporation up with Charles G. Dawes, its president, and Meyer. Secretary of the Treasury Mills was another of his conferees.

The driver, who said he was Robert Mohrman, 43, 4803 Allemania avenue, was examined at City Hospital by physicians, who said he was drunk. He gave bond.

Two women died yesterday of injuries suffered in automobile accidents.

Miss Hortense Starck, 24 years old, of Chesterfield, died at city hospital of a fractured skull suffered April 6, when the automobile she was driving collided with a street car at 5800 Manchester avenue. Miss Mildred James, 6018 Lloyd avenue, riding with Miss Starck, was cut and bruised.

Mrs. Pearl Johnson, 28, Van Buren, Ark., died at Missouri Baptist Hospital of injuries suffered last Sunday in an accident near Cuba, Mo., in which her husband, Ira Johnson, was killed. W. A. Johnson, 58, March Field, Cal., father of Ira, suffered a fractured skull. The accident occurred when the Johnson car brushed against another automobile on Highway 66, and struck a stone post.

An unidentified man, about 50, is unconscious at city hospital with a skull injury suffered last night when he ran against the automobile of George Mason, 4516 Greer avenue, in front of 3041 Easton avenue. The man, who has a crippled arm, is 5 feet 6 inches tall, weighing 140 pounds, and has a red mustache.

Archie Moss, 21, Hancock, Mo., suffered a fractured pelvis yesterday when he slipped in attempting to board a moving truck on a highway near Cedar Hill, Mo., and fell beneath the wheel. He is at St. Anthony's Hospital.

R. A. KING, SONG WRITER, DIES

Composer of "Beautiful Ohio" and "America's Fair Women."

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 14.—Smiling at a broadcast of his latest song, "One Day in May," Robert A. King, a composer, suffered a heart attack yesterday and died within a few minutes. He was 69 years old.

Under the name of Mary Earl, King had been writing songs since he was a youth. "America's Fair Women" was one of his earliest compositions and was chosen by Victor Herbert for his collection of "the world's most famous music." Possibly his greatest success was "Beautiful Ohio Waltz," which he wrote at the age of 56 and of which more than 5,000,000 copies were sold.

BARE-HANDED FIGHT WITH DOG

GOSHEN, N. Y., April 14. — A maddened shepherd dog and Mayor John F. Kane fought a death struggle today which ended when the Mayor, seriously injured, succeeded in killing the animal by choking him.

Kane was treating the dog when it attacked him viciously, tripped him and tore his arm and leg. Physicians administered serum to Kane.

NEW INCOME TAX RATES TOO HIGH, MILLS REPEATS

Secretary Before Senate Group Says General Sales Levy Is Better Than Present Plan.

'I AM HERE TO PLAY BALL,' HE ASSERTS

Reference Is to Harrison's Charges That Treasury Official Was Not Co-Operating.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Treasury Secretary Ogden Mills returned to the attack on the House revenue bill this afternoon. He told the Senate Finance Committee that the proposed tax on large gifts and inheritance is too high, and that he is opposed to a surtax of more than 40 per cent on income after the first $100,000 a year. He said he preferred a general sales tax to higher taxes on wealth.

"Don't you think income taxes are fairer and sounder than a tax on consumption goods?" asked Senator Couzens. "Of course, theoretically, you can't get a fairer tax than the income tax," Mills replied. "If a man hasn't got the income, he doesn't pay the tax."

"The trouble is," Senator Reed (Rep.), interposed, "that wealth escapes into tax-exempt securities." "That is true of some of the very large incomes," Mills agreed.

Ready "to Play Ball."

The Secretary's second appearance before the committee was a result of the heated discussion which ensued yesterday upon receipt of a letter from Mills declining to submit a complete program of taxes for balancing the budget. Senator Harrison, Mississippi Democrat, charged then that the administration was "shirking responsibility."

Taking the stand this afternoon, the Secretary announced that "I am here to play ball," and said he felt there had been "a misunderstanding." Nevertheless, the relations between Mills and Harrison remained strained. On one occasion when Mills declined to say whether he favored a raise in second-class postage rates, Harrison said: "Yes, that is a rather dangerous subject." "That is an uncalled-for remark," Mills replied.

He repeated the statement contained in his letter of yesterday, that the Treasury still recommends the program of excise taxes which it submitted originally to the Ways and Means Committee, including higher sales taxes on automobiles and trucks, a Federal gasoline tax, stamp taxes on bank checks, and a tax on household gas and electric bills.

"The Right Thing to Do."

As Mills took the stand Chairman Smoot said: "Mr. Secretary, you have been brought here to answer any questions the members of the committee may ask."

"Now just a minute." Senator Harrison interrupted. "I didn't ask that the Secretary be brought here, and I don't want to ask any questions. I was simply interested in having him submit a tax program."

Mills said "a distinguished Democrat" had told him he was "a poor politician to go out on a limb and make specific recommendations when you could have rested on a general recommendation," but that it was "a fine and courageous thing to do."

"Whether it was fine and courageous or not," Mills declared, "it was the right thing to do."

In his original program Mills urged a 7 per cent tax on gas and electric bills, to yield $94,000,000 a year. Today he suggested a lower rate, to yield about $60,000,000. He said he would add a tax on malt and wort, "home brew" ingredients, as contained in the House bill, but not in his original proposal.

Against Estate Tax.

If Congress is unwilling to accept the Treasury program, Mills said, then he favored the Ways and Means Committee bill, with a general sales tax. He estimated that a sales tax of 1½ per cent, exempting all food and clothing, would yield about $320,000,000 a year. But he is heartily opposed to the bill as it was revised on the House floor, especially to the estate tax which culminates in a rate of 45 per cent on inherited wealth above $10,000,000, the increased tax on stock sales and the application of normal income rates to dividends.

Senator Hull asked Mills how he felt about the tariffs on coal and oil in the House bill. Mills said he would not indorse or oppose them, but "I am under no illusion about their nature—they are protective duties."

"Well," demurred Senator Shortridge, "we are trying to raise revenue here."

"Yes, revenue—not carfare," the Secretary replied.

"Tariffs should not be obnoxious

The Secretary's second appearance before the committee was a result of the heated discussion which ensued yesterday upon receipt of a letter from Mills declining to submit a complete program of taxes for balancing the budget. Senator Harrison, Mississippi Democrat, charged then that the administration was "shirking responsibility."

Taking the stand this afternoon, the Secretary announced that "I am here to play ball," and said he felt there had been "a misunderstanding." Nevertheless, the relations between Mills and Harrison remained strained. On one occasion when Mills declined to say whether he favored a raise in second-class postage rates, Harrison said: "Yes, that is a rather dangerous subject." In his original program Mills urged a 7 per cent tax on gas and electric bills, to yield $94,000,000 a year. Today he suggested a lower rate, to yield about $60,000,000. He said he would add a tax on malt and wort, "home brew" ingredients, as contained in the House bill, but not in his original proposal.

If Congress is unwilling to accept the Treasury program, Mills said, then he favored the Ways and Means Committee bill, with a general sales tax. He estimated that a sales tax of 1½ per cent, exempting all food and clothing, would yield about $320,000,000 a year. Senator Hull asked Mills how he felt about the tariffs on coal and oil in the House bill. Mills said he would not indorse or oppose them, but "I am under no illusion about their nature—they are protective duties."

"Well," demurred Senator Shortridge, "we are trying to raise revenue here."

"Yes, revenue—not carfare," the Secretary replied.

"Tariffs should not be obnoxious to you," remarked Senator Connally, Texas Democrat. "Oh, no, I am a good protectionist, but these tariffs should wring the hearts of you Democrats," was the sarcastic reply.

The Senate Finance Committee, trying to write a new revenue bill that will eliminate the Treasury deficit, listened today to the old, familiar refrain:

Congress, Congress don't tax me;
Tax the fellow behind the tree!

Witnesses opposing higher rates on letter mail, witnesses opposing increased taxes on corporations, near-beer and matches, followed one another in rapid succession, each with a new variation on the old theme. Some begged, some threatened to take their business elsewhere. All objetced to higher taxes.

Levi Cooke told the committee that illicit commercial beer and "home brew" are rapidly putting the near-beer industry out of business. Consumption of cereal beverages has fallen off more than two-thirds in the last 10 years, he said. He was protesting against the provision in the House bill to impose a tax of 2 cents a gallon on such beverages.

"We simply cannot sell near-beer in competition with illicit real beer," he said. "Illicit commercial beer is being manufactured in tremendous quantities. Naturally I can't give exact figures, but the volume certainly runs into millions of barrels a year. We know that 75,000,000 gallons of brewer's wort was manufactured and sold last year."

Used for Beer Only.

"Can it be used for any purpose except in making beer?" asked Senator Reed (Rep.), Pennsylvania. "Absolutely not," Cooke declared. "Furthermore, this beer is a very heavy, green ale. It is impossible to make a light beer from wort."

"But this beer is not intaxicating, is it?" inquired Senator Shortridge, elongated Californian. "It certainly is—unless other gentlemen have greater powers of resistance than your humble servant," the husky witness replied.

Cooke opened his statement with a protest against the proposed tax of 4 cents a thousand on matches, which, he said, would amount to a sales tax of about 50 per cent. He divided matches into three classes—"pants-leg" or parlor matches; safety matches, and folder or "give-away" matches, and said that the "give-away" match industry could not survive such a tax. He asked that the rate be put at ¼ to ½ cent a thousand.

"Now I would like to speak in behalf of another great invention. Like most inventions, it resulted from necessity. I allude to cereal beverages, sometimes called near beer."

"The inventor was a very poor judge of distance, wasn't he?" asked Reed. "I do not hesitate to say that the name conveys only an approximate definition," Cooke agreed.

"We can stand a tax of 2 cents a

LEAGUE'S COMMITTEE CALLS SHANGHAI PEACE MEETING

Action Follows Japanese Announcement That Geneva Had Rejected Chinese Request for Aid in Negotiations.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, April 14.—The Committee of 19 of the League of Nations Assembly will meet here Saturday to consider the situation at Shanghai.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, April 14.—Sir Eric Drummond, Secretary-General of the League of Nations, has informed W. W. Yen, Chinese spokesman, that China must seek peace with Japan in conferences at Shanghai and not appeal to the League, the Japanese delegation at Geneva telegraphed the Foreign Office today.

The telegram said Sir Eric told Naotake Sato, Japanese representative, last Tuesday that Yen the day before had requested that the League commission of 19 be convened as soon as possible to consider the Shanghai situation. Sir Eric advised Yen, according to Sato, that the Chinese should continue to try to reach an agreement with the Japanese locally instead of appealing to Geneva.

Japan Says Way Is Open to Act as it "Deems Necessary."

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, April 14.—Mamaru Shigemitsu, Japanese Minister, said today the action of the Chinese in referring the peace proposals to the League of Nations, signifies the collapse of the peace parleys here and leaves the way open for Japan to take any action it may deem necessary to protect her interests here.

The way is open for military action, if necessary, he said, and he added that the armistice negotiations must be carried on here or not at all.

"It is impractical to take up the details of the Shanghai situation at Geneva," he said. "Jajan's viewpoint is that the negotiations here have reached an advanced stage and the league should refer the matter back to Shanghai. We are hopeful this will be done."

"Typical Chinese Case."

The Minister described the Chinese action as "a typical case of avoidance of responsibility by Chinese officials." He said no new military steps will be taken "unless there was provocation."

He pointed out, however, that the Chinese-Japanese situation continues to be tense and cited the mobbing of a Japanese citizen in the French concession last Wednesday by Chinese. This, he said, was the second such incident in the last two weeks.

Dispatches from North China and Manchuria today told of growing unrest against the new Manchurian Federated Government of Henry Pu-Yi.

Gen. Mah in Revolt.

The new Government was faced with problems which were steadily growing worse, the dispatches said, and one of the latest of which was the defection of Gen. Mah Chan-shan, who led the Chinese forces in the Nonni River and Tsitsihar battles, at the opening of the Japanese Manchurian campaign last fall.

Gen. Mah later participated in the formation of the new Government and was called a traitor in Chinese circles. Today he was reported to have said he intended to oppose the new ruler and the dispatches said he had established a headquarters at Blagovestchensk from where he planned a military drive against the Japanese in North Manchuria.

Reports from Harbin said Korean and Chinese communists were assisting rebels against the Manchurian Government throughout the Northeast part of Heilungkiang province, of which Gen. Mah has been Governor. Service on the Chinese Eastern Railway east of Harbin was discontinued, they said, when it was discovered that sections of the line were undermined with explosives.

Missionaries to Quit Changchow; Red Armies Advance.

By the Associated Press.

PEIPING, April 14. — Chinese Red armies in Fukien Province were converging on Changchow today and the city was in immediate danger of capture, reports to the United States legation here said. Changchow is on the mainland, directly opposite Amoy. All Americans on the mainland, most of them missionaries, were preparing to proceed to Amoy, the dispatch said. The British Consul requested a gunboat to protect British interests.

Gen. Chang Chun, Chinese Governor of Fukien, was preparing to resist the Red attack and commandeered automobiles and trucks for the use of the provincial troops.

By the Associated Press.

HARBIN, Manchuria, April 14.—The Rengo (Japanese) News Agency correspondent reported today that Chinese rebels opposing the Kirin provincial government, had captured the town of Pogranitchinaya on the Chinese Eastern Railway close to the Siberian border.

HITLER DENOUNCES ORDER DISSOLVING HIS STORM TROOPS

Issues Appeal to Followers to Make April 24 "Retaliation Day"—State Diet Elections Then.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, April 14.—"April 24 is retaliation day!" Adolf Hitler told his National Socialist forces today.

In a formal statement he denounced the Government suppression order against his storm troops as "a last blow of despair."

April 24 is the date of the Diet elections in Prussia and other German states, when the Nazis, defeated in their attempt to make Hitler President, will endeavor to obtain majorities in the local Parliaments.

Hitler thanked his comrades for the "work, discipline and faith" shown during the years his movement has been growing.

"Our answer to this last blow of despair from the present system will not be a parade, but a sweeping finishing stroke," he said.

Protesting against the dissolution decree, which was signed by President von Hindenburf, Hitler invited his followers to increase their effort to agitate the Nazi cause during the Diet election campaign.

"As long as I live," he said, "I belong to you and you belong to me: Long live the National Socialist movement! Long live Germany!"

Scores of National Socialist headquarters were closed last night and hundreds of Nazis were arrested as policemen, carrying out the Government order, seized forbidden uniforms and other materials. Minor disturbances resulted from the search and seizure of canteens at Stettin. The police, armed with clubs, patrolled the streets of Darmstadt to prevent disorders as the search proceeded.

Nazi Headquarters Raided.

Hitler's national headquarters, the "brown house" at Munich, was occupied by the officers, several persons were arrested there and equipment was confiscated. Twelve were arrested when 10 Nazi canteens at Frankfort-am-Main were searched and sealed. Similar raids were made at Mayence, Stuttgart, Cologne and Koenigsberg. Tear gas was used against the police at Hamburg, but no one was injured.

The Hitlerites accused the police of exceeding their authority by searching political offices, as well as storm troop headquarters. They said the officers threatened the headquarters staff at Munich with pistols and that Nazi members of the Reichstag in all parts of Germany had been arrested.

Among those arrested were 20 members of the Hamburg Senate and a member of the Reichstag from Hamburg.

Much Equipment Seized.

At Darmstadt a Nazi airplane, several automobiles and motor cycles, field weapons and equipment, rations, medical supplies, military coats bearing tags of the Sixty-first Artillery Regiment and alleged "incriminatory correspondence" were seized.

When Hitler heard of the decree of dissolution, he said the Government's action had relieved him of the responsibility for the conduct of the storm troops.

"I'm no longer responsible for what these 400,000 men do when they are out of my control," he said, "but the Government cannot prevent my men from being devoted to me so long as they have hearts and heads. The authorities can't chop their heads off, can they?"

Summary of Decree.

The presidential decree dissolved all "quasi-military organizations of the National Socialist Workers' Party, especially the storm troops and police formations, with all staffs and other institution belonging thereto, including observers and reserves; motor, marine and cavalry divisions; aviation, automobile and sanitation corps, training

NEW AND VIOLENT ERUPTION IN ANDES REPORTED BY FLYERS

Great Explosions from Quizapu Crater Accompanied by Dense Smoke and Much Lava.

By the Associated Press.

SANTIAGO, Chile, April 14.—Capt. Ralph H. Wooten, military attache to the United States Embassy, said after a flight over the volcanic zone of the Andes yesterday that he saw a new and violent eruption of the Quizapu Crater, southeast of Talca. He and R. Henry Norweb, counselor to the Embassy, reported great explosions from the volcano every few minutes, shooting out a huge column of smoke and a heavy rain of ashes.

Other volcanoes, Tinguirica, Overo and Peteroa, were inactive after their outbreak of the last few days, but thick rivers of Lava flowed down the sides of Quizapu in several directions. The lava and ashes blocked many streams in the vicinity.

Capt. Wooten said he thought Quizapu was the most violent of the volcanoes this week, as the ashes and lava were thickest on its slopes.

GERARD SWOPE FAVORS BILL TO CHANGE ANTI-TRUST LAW

Testifies at Hearing on Proposal to Bar Prosecution Growing Out of Test Suits.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 14.—Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric Co., and James W. Gerard, former Ambassador to Germany, and other lawyers and business men, yesterday approved the proposed bill drafted by the Commerce Committee of the American Bar Association to end the possibility of criminal prosecution under the anti-trust laws while instituting test cases. They spoke before a hearing held by the committee.

Swope repeated his contentions made before a Senate subcommittee that business generally needed a clarification of the anti-trust laws to give it confidence.

HOOVER CONFERS WITH LEADERS ON ECONOMY PLANS

House Committee Leader Favors 11 Pct. Pay Cut, President Forced Vacations for U. S. Employes.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Business and Governmental economy occupied the President's attention today in two early morning conferences. He talked first for half an hour with Secretary of the Treasury Mills, Charles G. Dawes, president, and Eugene Meyer, chairman of the board of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

A few minutes later, Director Roop of the budget, who has acted as spokesman for the President on the pay cut issue before the special House Economy Committee, was called in. The President and the committee have conferred twice on plans to reduce Governmental expenditures.

The issue of Federal payroll reduction in the Government's $200,000,000 retrenchment program, is still to be disposed of. President Hoover favors furloughs without pay for Federal employes; some members of the House prefer an 11 per cent cut in wages.

The House Economy Committee today delayed attempting to decide on whether to continue to sponsor the McDuffie Federal wage cutting plan, pending further information from President Hoover on his proposal to stagger employment.

The President's plan, it is understood, has been revised to some extent overnight, following the White House conference late yesterday at which no agreement was reached.

McDuffie announced that failure of J. C. Roop, Budget Director, to submit information on President Hoover's employment plan to the committee today, resulted in the decision. He declared, however, that he would still insist on putting the salary cut proposal in the legislative bill when its consideration is resumed.

It was said authoritatively that

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

For An Inquiry Into Education.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

A FEW days ago you suggested that our public school expense might properly be reduced. I think you are wrong in supposing the appalling increase in this expense has been due to any public demand. My surmise would be that the "demand" has come more from the educators and others with axes to grind, a class to whom it is possible we have paid too much heed. Now that excessive taxation has brought us to the verge of ruin, I think a good many people would welcome a fearless inquiry into the whole subject, not only as to the intrinsic value of a lot that passes for education, but how far the State is warranted in taxing A to educate the children of B, C and D.

Our present plight is enough to make us question the traditional value of education. But whatever its value, how far should we go in undertaking to educate everybody at public expense? What field should be left to private enterprise? This is a good time to take stock of our educational notions, pumped into us so early and with so much zeal that it rarely occurs to anyone to doubt their validity, and to see to what extent they are unsound. HARRY ALLARD.

Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Applauds Mr. Neun.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOUR editorial of April 11 criticised Mr. Neun because he repealed the bill for the Fourteenth street widening. If you think that this action has lost Mr. Neun votes, you are very much mistaken. Mr. Neun realized that it was the right thing to do.

Some time ago, Mayor Miller said that the project should go through because a few hundred people should not be allowed to hold back a project which would benefit 800,000 people. Mr. Neun realized that if a project benefited 800,000 people, there was no good reason that a few hundred people should pay for it, and he was big enough to see that his first opinion was wrong. What's more, the people of our city are not going to stand for that sort of thing any more.

Street widening is of no benefit whatever to the business people and, for residence purposes, no one wants to live where there is a lot of traffic. We paid for Chippewa and Gravois widening and what have we for it? Just a lot of noise, and our air is polluted with carbon monoxide from morning to night. And then they will come and raise our taxes because we have a wide street which we paid for ourselves. A VOTER.

Asks Relief From Police Cadgers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

AT the present time, when all of us are finding the going rather tough, it occurs to me that the burden of providing tobacco for the Police Department might be lifted from the shoulders of owners of soft drink places and restaurants.

Whether it is as widespread in other sections as in the Laclede District, I do not know, but an average of 10 packages of cigarettes a day is a low estimate of what is being levied on a number of places.

Now, our profit on a package of cigarettes is 2 cents. The cost is, therefore, 18 cents. With 10 packages given away, it means we must sell five cartons before we even are able to break even across the tobacco counter.

Paying taxes of various kinds, we feel we are doing our share in the upkeep of the Police Department, as well as other city departments. We consider it just as fair that dry goods merchants, for instance, keep the officer's wife in dresses and his children in shoes, as to expect one class of business men to keep him in tobacco. It is difficult to figure out, likewise, just how an officer consumes personally all the tobacco tribute collected.

Of course, many of the victims feel they dare not complain. But it has reached the point where someone has to speak out. We are for the police, but not to the extent of going broke ourselves merely in order to give them the customary rake-off. A VICTIM.

What Thomas Jefferson Said.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IF I were Mr. Hoover, I would prepare a statement prior to the next Republican convention something similar to a letter written by Thomas Jefferson in 1797 when he was being groomed as the next President. He felt he was not capable of filling the highest position on this earth, and he wasn't a bit backward in making the fact known. Mr. Hoover should follow Jefferson's example and write a letter to the Republican chairman, something like this:

> I pray you, and authorize you fully to solicit on my behalf, that another candidate be selected as the Republican nominee for President in my place. Public affairs never wore so gloomy an aspect since the days of Valley Forge. Let someone come to the helm who thinks he can steer the ship clear of difficulties. I have no confidence in myself for the undertaking.

Mr. Hoover had a fair trial; now let someone else try. G. F. H.

UNREGENERATE ILLINOIS.

Despite his malodorous record, Illinois again presents as the Republican candidate for Governor the discredited Len Small. His Democratic opponent is Judge Henry Horner of Chicago.

The political morals of a State which could twice send Frank L. Smith to the United States Senate, notwithstanding the corrupt practices by which he was nominated, could hardly cause surprise with any apostasy to good government, but the emergence of Len Small from Tuesday's primaries as a nominee for re-election to an office which he once disgraced is shocking.

So thoroughly discredited during his two terms as Governor from 1920 to 1928 that his own party turned its back on him in the 1928 primary, Len Small's victory is explainable chiefly by the multiplicity of candidates against him. He was not the choice of the majority of the Republican voters of the State. He was a minority choice. His minority, however, was an unusually active minority, composed in Chicago, for example, of the despicable following of Big Bill Thompson. The danger that such a sector of the Republican party would force a minority nomination was apparent for several months. Illinois Republicans, however, chose to do nothing about it, and now they find their State ticket headed by a man who was ordered by the State Supreme Court to repay to the State Treasury public money which, in the court's opinion, was illegally withheld.

Notable is the fact that the fight against prohibition gained ground on all sides. Judge Horner, who has been a Probate Judge in Cook County for 18 years, said in his campaign addresses that the results of the eighteenth amendment have been economic decline, loss of liberty and decay in the moral strength of the growing generation. Omer N. Custer, who had the support of the Emmerson organization, attempted to take the W. C. T. U. on board, thus destroying his chance to beat out Mr. Small. Congressman-at-Large William H. Dieterich, one of the 145 signers of the petition calling for a House vote on prohibition, was nominated by the Democrats for the seat now held by Senator Glenn. If there is any consolation for the prohibitionists in the results of the election, it is not apparent.

What is chiefly significant about the Illinois primary is not the return of Len Small to the political limelight. That return may well be only temporary. The significant thing is the tremendous increase in the number of persons voting the Democratic ticket. In 1930, when Senator Lewis was nominated, the Democratic poll set a record with 327,000 votes. Tuesday approximately 800,000 voters called for the Democratic primary ballots. On the other hand, the Republican primary vote showed a decline of about 300,000 from the party primary poll in 1928.

These latter figures are what will give political prognosticators chief concern, for they point unmistakably to the direction in which the wind is blowing. Remarkable increases have been shown in Democratic primary voting in North Dakota and Wisconsin, and in Democratic registration in California. Illinois confirms the trend with figures that cannot be ignored.

A TYPICAL PARTISAN PERFORMANCE.

The Republicans of Missouri, in their State convention, gave a typical partisan performance. Every Republican official, with any claim for mention at all, was bombarded with love and kisses.

The prodigies Mr. Hyde, as Secretary of Agriculture, has performed for the farmer were narrated in epic words, and when Mr. Hyde himself, as eloquent a yeoman as ever plowed a furrow, got on the subject of Mr. Hoover—well, he took his audience down paths of asphodel stippled with roses. Gov. Caulfield was also in top-notch partisan form, and all who listened, or read, learned from him that the Republican party, unaided and alone, had surveyed the routes and crushed the rock and mixed and laid the cement on the 7000 miles of our highway system. They even placed the crown of Aristotle on Senator Roscoe Patterson's head, and did it without a snicker, to say nothing of a guffaw. When it was necessary to look in the direction of the Democrats, they did so with as fine a brand of loathing, apprehension and anathema as the market affords. And when the Democrats were assembled here a couple of weeks ago, their exhibition was just as good as that the Republicans have just put on.

So it will go, up and down and across the continent, each party parading itself in a panoply of superlatives and flaying the other with scorn, derision and contumely. Somehow, some time, the curtain will fall on this farcical gesturing and bombast, but, in the meanwhile, be it recorded that the first, middle and last name of partisan politics is buncombe.

TAX-EXEMPTS ARE HELD TAXABLE.

The United States Supreme Court, by a six-to-three division, has sustained the constitutionality of California's corporation franchise tax and held valid a levy on the Pacific Co. Ltd. for 1928 under that law.

The Pacific Co. raised the point that the assessment had been made against income, part of which had been derived from improvement district bonds which were tax-exempt.

The opinion, written by Justice Stone, holds that the California law "operates to measure the tax on the corporate franchise by the entire net income of the corporation, without any discrimination between income which is exempt and that which is not," and that, therefore, "there is no infringement of constitutional immunity."

Justice Sutherland, in a dissenting opinion, in which Justices Vandeventer and Butler joined, characterized the levying of a tax on tax-exempt bonds as "peculiarly indefensible." He recited the fact that California had, "by express constitutional provision," made these bonds "free and exempt from taxation," and the Pacific Co. had bought these securities on that representation. He insisted that however important revenue is, states should keep their promises.

There is apparently a confliction between the California corporation franchise tax law and the special constitutional guaranty under which the bonds in question were issued, and the majority opinion obviously gives precedence to the tax law. The legal distinction is one on which the layman is not competent to pass. It is common knowledge, however, that, under the sixteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution, Congress is given the power "to lay and collect taxes on income, from whatever source derived," yet the Government of the United States issues tax-exempt bonds. And it seems pertinent to ask, in view of the Supreme Court's decision in the California case, whether the Federal Government might not tax income from tax-exempt securities, as well as from taxable securities.

If so, the way to correct an inequality against which Congress seems about to take up arms is opened, if the country wishes to correct it, by the Supreme Court.

AN END TO CLASS ASSISTANCE.

Mr. Hoover can thank himself, in part, for the bonus fight now raging in Washington, under the direction of that able showman, Representative Patman of Texas. What gave the bonus agitation its great impetus was the establishment of the President's Reconstruction Finance Corporation, empowered to lend two billion dollars to private business organizations. The veterans argue that if the Government can ladle out money to banks, railroads, real estate mortgage holders and the like, it can also pay them the face value of the adjusted compensation certificates.

This reasoning possesses a seeming validity. What nullifies it is that the Government had no business rushing to the aid of private corporations with public funds, and to shell out more money to the veterans would only compound its original mistake. Moreover, the Government could only adopt Mr. Patman's plan by debasing the currency, an expedient that would be justified only in an extreme emergency.

Some 750,000 veterans, it is claimed, are out of work and badly in need of money. But the sum total of our unemployed is in the neighborhood of 8,000,000. Once the Government pays off the veterans, it cannot logically refuse to make cash grants to other distressed elements in our population, and that would be the road to ruin.

If Mr. Hoover's administration had not embarked on the policy of class assistance, first with the Farm Board, whose grandiose plan blew up in a disastrous speculative venture, and then with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, it would be easier to deal with the veterans and with any other group seeking public money. However, a halt must be called, and it must be called now.

This depression is bigger than any group, and since the Government cannot be Lady Bountiful to all, it cannot continue to play the role to the few.

BASEBALL ATTENDANCE.

One of our local baseball writers thinks crowds are not larger at the Cardinal-Pittsburg games because the fans are surfeited with pennants and world championships.

They are growing tired, so he thinks, of seeing such a powerful aggregation as the Cardinals drag some little orphan team into the park and cruelly murder it in the sight of all.

We doubt it. The attendance at Cincinnati fell off yesterday to 2000 from 25,000 on the opening day. The fans over there are not surfeited with victory, nor are their more tender sensibilities often outraged by the cruel spectacle of the Reds beating up some visiting orphan.

The real trouble everywhere in the first week of the season was the weather. When it wants to be, it is the biggest holdout of them all.

A MAVERICK DELEGATION.

The United States Supreme Court has upheld Gov. Caulfield's veto of the congressional reapportionment bill by affirming the Missouri Supreme Court's decision in the mandamus suit brought by John J. Carroll of St. Louis to require Secretary of State Becker to accept his declaration of candidacy from a district in the disapproved act. The State will, therefore, elect a congressional delegation at large in November, unless, in the meantime, Gov. Caulfield changes his mind and calls a special session of the Legislature to pass another redistricting measure.

That is extremely improbable. The Governor has formally announced his intention not to do so, for the reason that a special session would, in his judgment, either pass the same bill he has vetoed or one equally objectionable. Avoidance of the inconvenience of a State-wide election, the Governor feels, is a poor equivalent for his official acquiescence in what he has characterized as a political injustice to the people of Missouri.

In two other cases, one from New York, the other from Minnesota, the court rendered the same opinion, namely, that the Governor's signature is necessary to reapportionment legislation. The point is clarified, the law has been construed, and whatever difficulties may mark subsequent redistricting measures, there will be no further discussion of, or resort to, concurrent resolutions as a device by which a legislature may maroon the executive, so to speak, when framing a redistricting bill.

But when Gov. Caulfield dismisses a congressional election at large as a "political inconvenience," he is, we fear, under-estimating the experience. It may be pandemonium, or perhaps we shall witness a demonstration of managerial precision by the bosses of both parties that will be something new for the books. In any event, the Missouri delegation in Congress for the next two years will be something of a maverick and conclusive evidence of the State's political incapacity.

However, we are consistent. Missouri asks to be shown, and she has yet to be shown that she is capable of representative government.

THE CHEERFUL TALE OF TWO CITIES.

Front Royal, Va., is a small town with a population of 2500, while Austin, Tex., the State capital, is a sizable city of 53,000, but the places have certain points in common. Both have city managers, both own and operate their electric light plants, and both are in rather comfortable financial circumstances.

The little Virginia town proposes to refund 40 per cent of its modest 1931 tax levy to citizens who pay their taxes before July 1. It is enabled to make this attractive offer by virtue of the profits of its electric plant. Incidentally, it lowered electric rates 10 per cent last September and cut the sewer tax rate from 70 to 50 cents.

Austin, Tex., ended doleful '31 with a cash balance in its treasury. It, too, reduced electric rates sufficiently to yield its citizen customers the tidy saving of $55,000, and its fire insurance rates have been lowered from 28 to 17 cents.

So each community is operating a public utility successfully, and their people are reaping the benefit substantially, and the basic reason for their comfortable condition in this period of distress, it may fairly be inferred, is the fact that they have thrown off the costly coils of partisan politics and are conducting their affairs on business principles.

Municipal ownership of public utilities may win or may lose. It has done both. But partisan politics as a system of municipal management loses always. It can't win. As a consummate failure it will have to go, and it is on its way.

Cheaper Money and Bonus

By Walter Lippmann.

THE most powerful force behind the bonus agitation is the desire for cheaper money. The matter was put very clearly by Father Coughlin of Detroit, when he appeared before the Ways and Means Committee:

"The payment of the bonus would place two billion dollars in circulation. The money thus released would go to the grocers and those who have been rendering credit to the jobless veterans. It would go into channels of trade and commerce and help revive business.

"But I am in hopes that the payment of this vast sum will produce a more far-reaching effect, that is, that it will compel us to revaluate the dollar to the approximate level it attained in 1929."

The problem posed by Father Coughlin is the central problem of the whole crisis. Money has become too dear. A dollar will buy too many goods. Prices have fallen too far. On this point there is virtually unanimous agreement by experts and practical men throughout the world. Thus, for example, the Financial Committee of the League, on which sit financial authorities from all the principal countries, has just issued its report, in which it points out that the crux of the crisis is the fact that whereas in 1928 it took 100 units of commodities to pay a debt of 100 gold units, today it requires 170 units of commodities. It is obvious that this is an impossible burden upon producers and debtors, and that there must either be extensive default or the value of gold currencies must be reduced.

That being the situation, what is the objection to printing two billions of currency and handing it to the veterans, thus at one fell swoop doing something to please the veterans and to reduce the value of the dollar? The fundamental objection is that this is a disastrous and self-defeating way of doing a thing which can be done with much less risk and with far greater prospects of success in another way.

Father Coughlin and Senator Thomas are in the position of men who have correctly diagnosed what is wrong with the patient. They see that he needs to have his appendix removed. But instead of calling in the best surgeon available to perform the operation, they are proposing to call in a somewhat intoxicated butcher.

This proposal is to depreciate the currency by printing money and paying it to a great bloc of voters. If this proposal were adopted by Congress, it would signify two things to the world: the first, that Congress felt itself free at any time to change the value of American money; the second, that Congress would change the value of American money whenever the political pressure made it expedient. This would mean that notice had been served upon everyone that the value of American money was to be fixed henceforth by vote of Congress and that the vote of Congress would be determined by lobbyists and log-rolling. It would mean that whenever a group of voters was strong enough to move Congress, the money of the American people—their wages, their savings accounts, their life insurance policies, their mortgages and bonds—would be tampered with by the politicians.

This is no theoretical speculation. The history of currencies shows conclusively that once the sovereign, be it a king or a popular legislature, assumes the right to change the value of money to pay its bills or to endow its favorites or to accomplish any other purpose, that currency is headed to destruction. For when a people gives its government the right to manipulate the value of its money, it has given to the government an unlimited series of blank checks. Invariably those checks are drawn.

France and Italy are the only two important countries which have stopped the depreciation of their money short of its absolute destruction, and in both instances it was necessary to resort to a dictatorship to do it. An ordinary government cannot stop the printing presses once it starts them, because the pressure to continue is irresistible.

This is the fundamental reason for the great alarm produced throughout the world by the Thomas bonus bill. It is a plan to turn over the management of American money to fluctuating congressional majorities. Now no one in his senses is willing to have the value of money altered whenever it pleases Congress to alter it. This is a power so despotic that it is intolerable. The proposal strikes, therefore, at the heart of confidence by putting every man's money at the mercy of congressional lobbyists.

Because it strikes at the heart of confidence, the bill would defeat the very purpose which Father Coughlin and Senator Thomas have in mind. For as fast as the Government could dish out printed dollars to veterans, other people would hasten to change these dollars into gold or into some currency which was not subject to manipulation by blocs of voters.

Such a flight from the dollar would produce runs on banks to call loans, which in turn would depress prices. Thus, instead of helping "to revive business", the measure would prostrate it.

Perhaps the most important lesson which mankind has learned in its painful experience with money is that the power to manage money must be confided to kings, ministers or legislatures. For governments, because they have to spend money, cannot be trusted with the power to manufacture it. That is the reason why in all advanced countries the central banks of issue, that is, the institutions which control the volume of money, are kept independent of the government. There is no other way in which an honest currency can be maintained.

For, although central banks, like the Bank of England or our Federal Reserve banks, are human and fallible, they have no bills to pay and therefore they have no interest in manufacturing money for themselves. That is why they can be trusted, not necessarily to be wise but at least to be honest, in managing the volume of money in the hands of the people.

Under the Glass-Steagall bill which Congress enacted in February, the Federal Reserve banks now have the power to expand the credit facilities of the country. But just as a good surgeon will, if he can, choose a time for his operation when the patient's system is most ready for it, so the Federal Reserve banks have to time their operations in accordance with their best judgment as to the conditions of the country. They could not hope to expand credit with hope of success while it was uncertain whether Congress would balance the budget. They could not hope to do it while the country was threatened with the adoption of the bonus. Even with these dangers averted, it is probable that they cannot hope to do much more than to arrest the precipitous deflation now in progress until there are signs of returning sanity on the part of governments in respect to reparations and debts, the obstructions to trade and political peace, and with these a restoration among the American people of their national morale.

But this much is certain. In so far as it is possible by monetary policy to deal with the situation, the only agency in which the American people can afford to put their trust is the Federal Reserve System. What can be done to relieve the pressure of exorbitantly dear money the Federal Reserve System alone can do with any safety and with any effectiveness. There is no reason to doubt that it will do it if and when it can. But as long as Congress or the country shows evidence of being tempted by schemes which would take the management of money out of the hands of the Federal Reserve System and entrust it to congressional lobbyists, the whole world will remain frightened and the deflation will continue.

Thumbs Down on Franchise

From the Columbia (Mo.) Tribune.

WITH the shibboleth, "Opposition to any franchise for anybody," Moberly voters last week elected three out of four Councilmen to serve the ensuing two years. The Moberly City Council now stands five to three against voting franchises to any public utility privately owned. Moberly, along with other cities in Missouri of the third class, noting the splendid results of municipal ownership in Columbia, Hannibal, Chillicothe, Fulton and other places, and the 6-cent rate per kilowatt hour for current in Fulton, Hannibal and Columbia and the almost as low rates in other places, together with the splendid street lighting systems enjoyed in these towns, all furnished by the municipal plant; also the fine water furnished at cost, are hoping for these fine attributes of municipal ownership and desirous of throwing off the strangle-hold of the Power Trust, to escape the high rates of the privately owned public utilities, and want to obtain some of the blessings for themselves.

Mexico and Cape Girardeau likewise have turned down the franchise grabbers, and likewise want municipal ownership. We wish them luck. Like Fulton and Columbia and Chillicothe and other towns, there will be no dearth of funds in their exchequer when they oust the subsidiaries of the Power Trust. All the money from their water and light funds can be corralled at home for public improvements and betterments.

FOR DIVIDED WORK.

From the Monroe County (Mo.) Appeal.

DISCUSSING and denouncing Communism over the radio recently, Father Coughlin said: "Communists are not born; they are made." And nothing is making them quite so fast as the heartlessness of our pampered and protected industries. Instead of having a conscience and a policy for their workmen during the depression, they have turned six or eight millions of them out to starve. This total destruction of buying power for so many families has in turn affected every line of business and brought unnecessary woe into every community.

The matter of putting the entire force on half time instead of keeping half the force for full time seems not to have occurred to them. This would have maintained a 50 per cent buying power all along the line. As the matter has been managed, half the earners have 100 per cent buying power and the other half none at all, with consequent injury to retail merchants, farmers and others who depend upon a consuming public.

SYMPHONY CAMPAIGN TO START TOMORROW

Women to Seek Funds—Rachmaninoff and Elman Among 1932-33 Soloists.

The Women's Symphony Committee campaign to complete the subscription lists for the next St. Louis Symphony Orchestra season—for which a stimulating list of soloists was announced today—will be formally launched in a meeting of 490 woman volunteers in 49 teams of 10 at 3 p. m. tomorrow at the Women's Club, 4600 Lindell boulevard.

More than 5000 St. Louisans active in musical, social and club life will be visited by volunteers in the next week. The women are headed by Mrs. Edward Worcester Jr. as chairman and Mrs. Dudley French as co-chairman. Ten vice chairmen each head five teams, and each team has a captain and co-captain. Prizes are offered for those who obtain most subscriptions.

Mrs. Worcester will preside at the meeting, where speakers will include Mrs. H. Blaksley Collins, president of the Women's Symphony Committee; George C. Smith of the M. K. T. Railroad, former secretary of the Industrial Club; Edgar Taylor, headmaster of the Taylor School, and Arthur J. Gaines, manager of the orchestra.

Sergei Rachmaninoff and Alexandre Tansman, whose "Triptych" was played by the St. Louis Orchestra last November for the first time anywhere, were among the soloists announced by Manager Gaines. Three other pianists are included—Jose Iturbe, Spanish virtuoso; Mischa Levitski, brilliant young American, and Edgar Shelton, St. Louisan, whose recent performances in this country and abroad have placed him among the outstanding younger men. Illness, it will be recalled, prevented Shelton's appearance with the orchestra last season.

Violinists to appear with the orchestra under Conductor Vladimir Golschmann include Mischa Elman, Nathan Milstein and Scipione Guidi, concertmaster of the orchestra. Two singers were included—Marion Telva, former St. Louisan, who has been leading contralto of the Metropolitan for 10 years, and Goeta Ljungberg, young Swedish soprano, who was a sensation of the last season at the Metropolitan Opera House.

From the Columbia (Mo.) Tribune.

WITH the shibboleth, "Opposition to any franchise for anybody," Moberly voters last week elected three out of four ouncilmen to serve the ensuing two years. he Moberly City Council now stands five three against voting franchises to any ublic utility privately owned. Moberly, ong with other cities in Missouri of the ird class, noting the splendid results of unicipal ownership in Columbia, Hannibal, hillicothe, Fulton and other places, and the cent rate per kilowatt hour for curnt in Fulton, Hannibal and Columbia and e almost as low rates in other places, tother with the splendid street lighting sysms enjoyed in these towns, all furnished the municipal plant; also the fine water rnished at cost, are hoping for these fine tributes of municipal ownership and derous of throwing off the strangle-hold of e Power Trust, to escape the high rates the privately owned public utilities, and nt to obtain some of the blessings for emselves.

Mexico and Cape Girardeau likewise have rned down the franchise grabbers, and ewise want municipal ownership. We sh them luck. Like Fulton and Colum- and Chillicothe and other towns, there ll be no dearth of funds in their exchequer en they oust the subsidiaries of the Pow- Trust. All the money from their water d light funds can be corralled at home for blic improvements and betterments.

But this much is certain. In so far as it possible by monetary policy to deal with situation, the only agency in which the erican people can afford to put their st is the Federal Reserve System. A. E. STEIN WINS CITY BRIDGE CHAMPIONSHIP

Individual Score for Winter Tournament 8000 Ahead of Nearest Competitor.

A. E. Stein, member of the mixed-pair and team-of-four championship bridge combinations of St. Louis, topped off a season of outstanding tournament play last night by winning the individual championship of the city.

He took the title by amassing highest cumulative score for the 26 weekly sessions of the Missouri Athletic Association's winter tournament. His score was 31,602 points, almost 8000 ahead of his nearest competitor in a field which included the best players among the city's amateurs and professionals.

Stein, an accountant residing at 6127 McPherson avenue, plays the official system of contract bridge by preference, but uses the Culbertson system of bidding when his partner prefers to play it.

His nearest competitor in cumulative score was Mrs. J. B. Suttles. Richard E. Bockenkamp, former Missouri amateur golf champion, was third with 22,798. Stein's victory makes him possessor of the Carl Schwartz trophy.

Winner of the "par hands" competition, one of the features of the tournament, was Wilbur E. Brownback, who is accounted one of the best "money players" in the city. He bid and played seven of 10 selected hands at "par," which means he bid and played them for all they were worth under the most precise handling.

Millard P. Kaiser, who directed the winter tournament, announced plans for a similar event beginning next October. In the tournament just closed approximately 6800 paid admissions at $1 were recorded for the 26 sessions, so that attendance at each session average approximately 260 persons.

REPAIR BILLS!

That's the Price You Pay For Using "Bootleg" Oil!

Leading Dealers of Greater St. Louis Push Fight Against Oil Substitution—Act with Pennzoil Company to Safeguard Motorists!

Don't take chances with oil substitution! Repair men say over 60% of all motor troubles are caused by thin, inferior oils. Cheap "bootleg" oils give the dealer a wide margin of profit. Unscrupulous dealers substitute these treacherous oils for the oil you ask for.

Now—leading dealers throughout the city guarantee you absolute protection against oil substitution. These men have signed a written guarantee that when you ask for Pennzoil you will get Pennzoil—not a substitute. And each of them has posted a $1,000 bond to back that guarantee!

You can identify these dealers by the "Bonded Pennzoil Dealer" sign. This sign is displayed only by dealers pledged to give you what you ask for. Make it your guide to safe lubrication and dependable service.

The city's best dealers handle Pennzoil because it is the finest oil they can offer you. It is made from the choicest Pennsylvania crude by the special Pennzoil process. This process refines the crude not once but twice! It leaves only the part richest in lubricating value, toughest in resistance to heat and friction. That's why tough-film Pennzoil lasts hundreds of miles longer than ordinary oils, gives better motor performance, and saves you money both on oil and on repairs.

Whenever you buy oil or gas look for the "Bonded Pennzoil Dealer" sign. It identifies the best dealers, men who have demonstrated their good faith by posting a $1,000 bond against oil substitution. They are dealers you know will always give you what you pay for!

Only reliable dealers display the black and yellow "Bonded Pennzoil Dealer" sign . . . Look for it when buying oil or gas

Every dealer who displays this sign has posted a $1,000 bond against Oil Substitution. This bond is your protection against inferior, "bootleg" oils. It assures your getting the oil you pay for.

ORDER SOUGHT AGAINST CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE

Farmers' Corporation Asks Hyde to Revoke Exchange's Designation as Contract Market.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 14.—The Farmers' National Grain Corporation has called upon the Secretary of Agriculture to revoke designation of the Chicago Board of Trade as an authorized contract market.

Complaint was made that the grain corporation's application for membership in the Board of Trade Clearing Corporation has been rejected.

Charges made yesterday included a statement that attempts of the Chicago Board of Trade and the Board of Trade Clearing Corporation to deny trading privileges to the Farmers' National Grain Corporation and its subsidiary, the Updike Grain Co., constituted violation of the grain futures act.

"If necessary, recourse will be had to the courts to stop discrimination against co-operatives," C. E. Huff, president of the Farmers' National Grain Corporation, said.

The complaint was supplemental to one filed earlier in the week, and followed alleged attempts by the Board of Trade to disqualify the Updike Grain Co. of Chicago, a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Grain Corporation, from further operations on the board. The Updike company was purchased by the National Co-operative more than a year ago. A Board of Trade hearing on the Updike purchase had been set for Tuesday, but at the request of the Updike Grain Co. the hearing was postponed until April 19, so that important witnesses might be present.

Basis of Complaint.

The complaint contended that the rule of the Chicago Board of Trade, barring corporations from becoming members of the Clearing Corporation after April 2, 1929, was in violation of the grain futures act, if applied to co-operatives. It was also alleged that to deny to the Updike company clearing privileges, thus compelling the Farmers' National Corporation to transfer its open accounts, even for a short period, to a private commission trader, would be of "irreparable injury to agricultural producers who market their grain co-operatively."

"Purchase of the Updike grain company was in every way a legitimate and legal transaction," Huff said. "Trading privileges in the Chicago market were necessary to the successful operation of the Farmers' National Corporation, and it was not organized until Oct. 29, 1929. It obviously could not comply with the Board of Trade rule that only corporations organized prior to April 2, 1929, could become members of the Clearing Corporation. Rather than invoke the great futures act, with the possibility of considerable delay at a time when delay would have been costly it purchased the Updike Grain Co. of Chicago, a going concern, already a member of the Clearing Corporation.

May Appeal to Congress.

"Application for direct membership in the Clearing Corporation is in line with Farmers' National Grain Corporation's plan eventually to conduct all its operations in its own name. It is prepared to adopt any measures found necessary to see to it that co-operative operations, for the benefit of grain producers, are not hampered or restricted by unfair discriminatory tactics."

Huff said further that if need be "the matter will undoubtedly be brought by the co-operatives directly to the attention of Congress, with a request that corrective measures be incorporated into law."

Reply of Board Head.

President Carey of the Board of Trade, denounced the Grain Corporation's action as an example of "beaurocratic insincerity" and said he did not think the Farmers' National Grain Corporation was a co-operative.

"A co-operative, as I understand the legal definition of the term," Carey said, "is a body which conducts at least 51 per cent of its business with producers. The gross and reckless speculation carried on by the Grain Corporation for many months past in all the exchanges of the country—trades carried on with other speculators and not with producers—is sufficient evidence in my judgment to refute the Grain Corporation's claim of being a co-operative."

Carey said the corporation was barred from membership under rule 313 of the exchange, adopted in April, 1929, to refuse memberships to all corporations on the theory that in case of failure the liability of officers and stockholders would be limited, whereas in a partnership all members of a concern were liable for the company's debts.

Carey said if the requested revocation were granted it would close the Board of Trade with serious effect on banks in the grain belt.

Australia's Deficit $79,380,000.

MELBOURNE, April 14.—Australia's budget deficit for 1932-33 probably will reach £21,000,000 ($79,380,000), Prime Minister Lyons told the conference of Premiers today. BABY FRETFUL, RESTLESS?

Look to this cause—

Does your baby have nights when he fusses, tosses and seems unable to go quickly, quietly to sleep? Look for one common cause, doctors say. A constipated condition.

To get rid quickly of accumulated wastes which cause restlessness and discomfort, nothing is better than genuine time-proven Castoria.

Castoria, you know, is made specially for children's delicate needs. It is a pure vegetable preparation; contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics of any kind.

It is mild and gentle enough to relieve a young infant's colic pains, yet is an effective regulator for children of school age.

When your baby is upset and unable to sleep, or has a little cold or fever, it is a wise precaution to give him the gentle but sure regulative help of Castoria. With regulation come relaxed comfort and restful sleep.

Keep a bottle always on hand. Children like the taste of real Castoria—which always has the name, Chas. H. Fletcher, on the package.

RECEIVER APPOINTED FOR KOPLAR BUILDINGS

William C. Fordyce to Have Charge of Congress, Senate Embassy and Branscombe.

William C. Fordyce, formerly a partner in the defunct brokerage firm of Lorenzo E. Anderson & Co., was appointed receiver yesterday for the Congress Hotel, Senate, Embassy and Branscombe apartments.

Federal Judge Faris, sitting at Cape Girardeau, made the appointment, acting on receivership and foreclosure suits filed two weeks ago in behalf of holders of $2,831,500 in mortgage bonds against the properties, alleged to be in default.

The suits were brought in the name of M. E. Greenebaum of Chicago, trustee for the bondholders and a member of Greenebaum Sons Investment Co. which sold the bonds to the public. Sam Koplar, president of the Koplar Co., described the action as a friendly step looking toward refinancing.

The Koplar Co. holds title to the Congress Hotel and Senate Apartments, at Union boulevard and Pershing avenue, and to the Embassy Apartments at 530 Union boulevard. Koplar and his wife have the equity in the Branscombe Apartments, 5370 Pershing avenue.

The refinancing plan to be proposed to bondholders is that they accept, in exchange for their present holdings, income bonds which would bear interest, if earned, up to 5 per cent, and that whatever might be earned above 5 per cent be used to retire bonds.

140,000 ACRES FOR FOX HUNT

By the Associated Press.

ARCHER CITY, Tex. — The Texas Fox and Wolf Hunters' Association will have a hunt and convention in Archer County May 9 to 13. Thirteen ranches containing 140,000 acres will be the hunting ground. The tract extends from the West Fork of the Trinity River 14 miles south of Archer City to the Baylor County line on the Little Wichita River south of Dundee.

Jesse Carter of Fort Worth, president of the association, picked the Ikard ranch as headquarters. Frank Smith is chairman of the local committee on arrangements. Members will bring about 500 hounds.

DAUGHTER OF VICTIM CATCHES SWINDLER AFTER 10 YEARS

By the Associated Press.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 14.—Miss Betty Robinson, New Castle, Pa., today saw Frank Max Shanklin, alleged to have swindled her father out of $14,000, placed in jail accused of fraud. Miss Robinson, it was revealed, acted as Shanklin's secretary to get evidence against him in revenge for a swindle in Mercer County, Pa., 10 years ago.

Shanklin, who served a term in the Western Penitentiary in Pittsburg for Mercer County oil and gas stock swindles in 1922, was arrested at a hotel here yesterday, after Miss Robinson had applied for a warrant charging him with converting her property to his own use. Police found that Shanklin had opened negotiations with an attorney to incorporate companies in five cities to handle a building material.

Shanklin was convicted in 1924 of fraudulent conversion in the Mercer County swindles. He was fined $500 and sentenced to two years' imprisonment. Records show he jumped his bond, but was recaptured and served his term. Many Mercer County residents testified they had lost thousands of dollars through his oil and gas stock schemes.

gallon if you will enforce the prohibition law," he continued, "but we can't pay it and compete with real beer, and that's all there is to it."

Harry S. Joseph made an oratorical appeal for protection against "the slave-produced, duty-free copper of darkest Africa." Chairman Smoot (Rep.), and Senator King (Dem.), Utah, listened attentively as the witness in quivering accents told of the closing of Utah copper mines.

"I am backing up the congressional delegation from my State, headed by Senator Smoot, in demanding a measure of protection for copper," he declared.

"Do you mean to suggest," asked Senator Watson jocosely, "that Senator Smoot is in favor of a protective tariff?" "Do you expect an answer to that question?" countered Joseph.

"No, I just wanted to see the expression on Senator Smoot's face," replied Watson. "It's a sort of protective smile," interjected Smoot, mildly.

Richard H. Lee, representing an organization of business mail users, appeared to protest against the proposed increase of 1 cent on letter mail. He said that class of mail already is self-sustaining.

"Service Should Come First."

"Don't you think the Postoffice Department should be self-sustaining?" asked King. "I think service should come first," Lee replied.

"But those who get the service should pay for it," King declared

Lee estimated that 25 per cent of retail sales consists of mail order business. Like most witnesses who have appeared to oppose particular taxes, Lee said the postage increase would delay business recovery. He argued that postage was "not a proper source of new revenue," and he contended that the increase might result in an actual loss of business revenue by driving mail users to the telegraph and telephone.

This argument was supported by James S. Wiley, envelope manufacturer, who said one New York corporation which buys $2000 worth of stamps a day is prepared to deliver its correspondence by hand if the increase takes effect. He figured the envelope business would fall off one-third if Congress votes the raise.

Pointing to the loss sustained on second-class mail, Wiley said the Government is "subsidizing" magazines and newspapers. He suggested that the deficit on this class be made up by taxing printed advertisements.

"I assure you," remarked Senator Reed (Rep.), Pennsylvania, "that not a newspaper in the United States will print your suggestion." "I suppose not, except by mistake," Wiley replied.

John F. Noffsinger, representing 37 correspondence schools, added his protest against a postage increase. Their stamp bill last year was $1,100,000 a year, he said. Only five of the 37 made a profit, and four of the five would have lost money if stamps had cost 3 cents instead of 2, he declared.

There was a chuckle in the room when he suggested abolition of the frank, and inclusion of postage costs in the annual statements of Government departments.

R. W. Hicks, appearing for the National Greeting Card Association, told the committee that the increase would put the "Cheerio industry" out of business.

The greeting card man was sandwiched between the head of a mail order fish house and a spokesman for the railway executives. The latter, E. G. Buckland, opposed the penalty of 1½ per cent on corporations making consolidated income tax returns. In the present bill the regular corporation rate is 13¾, while the rate on consolidated returns is 15 per cent. Buckland said the difference would not produce more revenue, but would merely cause the abandonment of consolidated returns, under which a profit-making corporation is allowed to deduct for the losses of an affiliate.

O. M. Kile announced that he spoke for the baby chicken association, and was opposed to any increase in letter postage. He never got around to explaining the baby chick interest in the subject. Chairman Smoot was chuting witnesses through the mill at the rate of one every three minutes.

the real point at issue between the President and the Economy Committee is over the proposal that legislation designed to effect major economies be embodied in an omnibus bill. The conference yesterday centered almost entirely upon this point.

Showdown Is Postponed.

Members of the House were warned today by Chairman McDuffie of the Economy Committee that unless a salary reduction bill is passed "there will be some new faces in this branch in the next Congress."

Meanwhile, a showdown on moves to cut the salary of Government employes was postponed until Monday pending receipt of further information concerning President Hoover's proposal to stagger employment.

The information had been expected today from Roop but he was unable to have it ready until Monday. As a result the House deferred consideration of the appropriation bill for the legislative department which was due to come up today.

McDuffie, who advocates an 11 per cent salary cut, with a $1000 a year exemption, told the House that "the taxpayers of this country are demanding a slash in Federal salaries."

"We are putting a $1,000,000,000 tax bill on them," he added, "and we've got to save something from this end."

Garner Likes Pay Cut Best.

Speaker Garner, who originally advocated an economy program in one big omnibus bill, told newspaper men:

"It does not matter how you make the reduction, whether in one bill or three or four. What I want is reduction in Government costs and we are going to get it.

"I said long ago that if we could get the co-operation of the President we could save from $200,000,000 to $250,000,000."

Garner said he liked the principle "of the pay cut best" when asked whether he preferred the McDuffie plan or the Hoover proposal.

Representative La Guardia (Rep.), New York, told the House that "selfish interests" are carrying on a campaign to have the Government reduce salaries in order that they may have an excuse to cut wages "and lower the standard of living in this country."

"If I understand the temper of this House, if the salary cut rider had been presented today it would have been overwhelmingly defeated," he added. La Guardia indorsed President Hoover's plan for a five day work week in the Federal Government.

Unqualified opposition to a reduction in Government salaries of less than $3000 was expressed today in the Senate by Senator Johnson (Rep.) California.

"I think," Johnson shouted during debate on the proposal by Senator McKellar (Dem.) Tennessee, to reduce the Treasury-Postoffice supply bill 10 per cent, "that to cut the salaries of men making $1500, $2000, $3000 and the like would be the cruelest and sickest and meanest thing we could do."

SMOOT ASKS PUBLIC NOT TO LIQUIDATE STOCK HOLDINGS

Says All Shares Are Worth More Than Prices Now Quoted.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—An appeal for holders of stocks to keep them rather than liquidating at present prices was voiced in the Senate today by Chairman Smoot of the Finance Committee.

Smoot said he wanted to say to the American people that "if there is any way you can hold onto your stocks, hold them, because there is more intrinsic value back of all of them than is shown on the market today."

He cited an unnamed stock which he said is selling on the New York Stock Exchange for $4.50, although "actually in cash and goods the stock is worth $40."

He said he called attention to this "to show just where pessimism is leading the American people."

HEARING ON BILLS TO CHANGE DRY LAW

Senate Committee Room Packed With Woman Delegates to Convention.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Hearings on a number of bills to change the prohibition laws began today before an audience, mostly women, which packed one of the largest committee rooms in the Senate Office Building.

Most of them were delegates attending the meeting here of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

Chairman Blaine of the Judiciary Subcommittee said there were so many bills and resolutions to be considered that the general subject of prohibition would be discussed. Those favoring a prohibition change, he added, would be heard first and those favoring prohibition next.

The first witness was Senator Bingham (Rep.), Connecticut, who has introduced measures to legalize beer and for a state liquor control constitutional amendment.

He said prohibitionists argued during the war the liquor issue was "not the temperance issue" but was needed as a war measure.

"It is not the temperance issue now," he said. "It is an economic issue to fight the depresison."

Bingham said the prohibition law had increased intoxication and that the amount of drinking in "the smaller places" was alarming.

He cited the number of arrests in Medford, Mass., for drunkenness as an example. In 1914, he said there were only 105 arrests for drunkenness, while in 1930 there were 419.

Other cities he mentioned included Vicksburg, Miss., Little Rock, Ark., Oak Park, Ill., Davenport, Ia., Minot, N. D., Denver, Idaho Falls, Idaho, Albuquerque, N. M., Ogden Falls, Utah, and Seattle.

More Drinking in St. Louis.

In St. Louis and other cities with great brewing interests, Bingham contended, prohibition had vastly increased drinking. "Nothing that I say, however," he added, "nothing I can say will change the ardent drys—but the making of alcohol in any kitchen is easy."

He urged turning the "whole question back to the states" and added that financial experts estimated that if the tax on liquor had increased in proportion to tobacco taxes it would yield $1,280,000,000 a year.

Former Senator Wadsworth of New York, representing the association against the prohibition amendment, said his organization had come to believe that prohibition's "evils" could not be cured "until the error of 1918 is corrected by the repeal of the amendment."

"Having regard for developments of last few years," he said, "we believe our objective is in sight."

Question of Government.

"The great question involved in the eighteenth amendment," he added, "is one of government and not of drink."

He said if the liquor taxes of 1919 "had been undisturbed and had the rate of consumption per capita remained exactly the same the Federal Government would have received slightly over $1,000,000,000 of revenue in 1931."

The bootlegger, he added, has picked that huge sum up and "put it in his pocket."

Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, chairman of the women's organization for national prohibition reform, said the Eighteenth Amendment "has financed crime." "The prohibition amendment is poisoning our national life, and it must be repealed," Mrs. Sabin said. "It has made our Government authorities, Federal, state and local, powerless to control the liquor traffic by license and regulation.

"It has deprived the Federal Government of hundreds of millions of dollars of needed revenue, and diverted these funds into illegal channels, through which crime of all kinds has been enabled to organize and finance itself on a scale hitherto unknown in the history of the world."

She said the "prohibition amendment, however noble in purpose, has failed." "Those churches and the temperance organizations which still support it," she added, "have become, all unconsciously, the chief allies and friends of the outlaw classes, and the time has come to end this unholy alliance."

URGES THAT R. F. C. FINANCE SALE OF FARM BOARD WHEAT

McNary Sponsoring Plan for Extending $100,000,000 Credit to Foreign Purchasers.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—A resolution to permit use of $100,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for financing sale of Farm Board wheat and cotton was introduced in the Senate today by Chairman McNary of the Agriculture Committee.

McNary said his proposal had been discussed with the officials of the Reconstruction Corporation, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde and other Government executives.

"It is the general belief that this sum, if made available, will permit the Farm Board to dispose of a considerable portion of its holdings in countries which need wheat and cotton but require credit," McNary told newspaper men.

"It is thought that if a substantial portion of the board's holdings can be removed, it would raise the price levels of these commodities and of course enhance the buying power of the farmers," he added.

PLANS FOR RECONSTRUCTION OF OLD MILL CREEK SEWER

Fund of $10,000 to Be Sought for Preliminary Work; Project Would Cost $200,000.

Plans are being made by Assistant Sewer Commissioner Paffrath to reconstruct the 55-year-old Mill Creek Sewer with bond funds, at a cost of about $200,000. As a preliminary, an appropriation bill for $10,000 has been prepared, to pay for additional manholes in the sewer and a survey of the requirements. There is only one manhole a mile now but there should be one every 500 feet for safety.

The sewer runs 30 feet or more underground in the old Mill Creek valley, from Vandeventer and Duncan avenues to the river at Chouteau avenue, a distance of 20,000 feet. Built of masonry, it is 20 feet wide and 15 feet high. Concrete will be forced into chinks of the walls under pressure and the floor will be reshaped to increase the flow. Four crews of 15 ment each will be used for the reconstruction work. Sewage will be diverted near the West End to the Mill Creek relief sewer.

Out of $2,855,000 of bond funds provided for reconstruction of old sewers, Paffrath's department has spent $1,103,324. Plans are being made to spend about $250,000 in rebuilding downtown sewers and about $50,000 on sewers elsewhere. A large balance will remain for future work.

TAGGED FISH TRAVELS FAR

Released Near Dayton and Caught Below Louisville.

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — A fish liberated Nov. 6, 1931, by the Ohio conservation department in a creek near Dayton, O., was caught recently by John Walker at Sugar Grove, about 20 miles below Louisville in the Ohio River.

A small-mouthed black bass weighing 12 ounces and more than a foot long, the fish was identified by a metal tag in its gill cover numbered 6159 and addressed to the Ohio conservation department. The Ohio department placed the fish with a number of other bass in Stillwater Creek above Dayton, O., last November. It is believed it moved down the Miami River into the Ohio.

"GET THIS RIGHT, CASEY— 103,500 MILES"

An Interview by
ROBERT J. CASEY
Chicago Daily News Reporter

Carrol Edgren, insurance man of 230 Earl St., St. Paul, talks about transportation—tells Casey how to drive 103,500 miles with minor repair bills

CARROL EDGREN, insurance man, stood beside his Pontiac parked in front of his St. Paul home, to add 40,500 and 63,000 and note that they totaled 103,500.

"That's not the census of the Twin Cities," he said as he displayed the result to the inquiring reporter. "It's my mileage on Iso-Vis Motor Oil. . . . And I'll bet the cars in last year's road tests never came anywhere near that figure."

"It's all Iso-Vis mileage?" demanded the reporter.

Mr. Edgren nodded.

"All of it," he stated with some emphasis. "The 40,500 miles is on the speedometer of the Pontiac right here. The other 63,000 was the total on my other Pontiac when I turned it in. I figure I've covered the entire 103,500 miles in a little more than four years."

"And what was the performance of the cars in all that driving?"

"I'd tell you in a minute if it wasn't A-1. I know how to kick about things that go wrong. But my upkeep bills have been so low that I'm almost ashamed to sell insurance to an automobile mechanic.

"I'm the lad who gives the automobile designers bad dreams. A car to me isn't just a sort of perambulator that you use to give the kiddies the air. It's nothing but transportation to me. And I make it work."

"And you think oil is an important factor in mileage and operating economy?"

"It may be heresy for me to say so but I think that the difference between one car and another isn't a difference in cost but a difference between the kinds of stuff that people put into crankcases.

"I started to use Iso-Vis the first day it was put on the market in St. Paul. My friend at the filling station gave me a sales talk on it and I took it for what it was worth. Then my repair bills—or lack of them—began to give me a sales talk and I've stuck to it ever since. You can quote me on that if you want to. And get the total right: 103,500 miles."

Mr. Edgren's 103,500 trouble-free miles prove again what Iso-Vis has demonstrated in laboratory tests and in A. A. A. tests on the Indianapolis Speedway—Positive Lubrication Protection. Iso-Vis (a Standard Oil product) will not thin out from dilution. See the Ball and Bottle Test at Standard Oil service stations and dealers.

HAY QUOTES G. O. P. 'MENTAL RESOLUTIONS'

Declares Party Is Trying to Divert Attention of Voters From Facts.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 14.—The Republican followers of Hamilton have led the people "into the valley of destitution and millions to despair," said Charles M. Hay, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, in an address at the Jefferson day luncheon here yesterday.

Hay asserted that the big question which progressives should ask of men who offer themselves for leadership is: "In this fight between aggregated wealth and the plain masses of the people, on which side are you?"

The speaker read a list of resolution which he said were in the back of the minds of the Missouri Republicans at their convention in St. Louis yesterday. The mental resolutions attributed to the Republicans were:

"Be it resolved, that we cannot afford to let the people think of the failures and blunders of the Hoover administration; of our tariff of abominations; of the failures and crimes of the Farm Board; of our maladministration of the Federal Reserve Bank act and the Sherman anti-trust act; of our deliberate encouragement of speculation and stock gambling; of our abject surrender to the forces of privilege and aggregated wealth.

Pictures Economic Contrasts.

"Be it further resolved, that we cannot afford to let the people hear the piteous appeals of 8,000,000 unemployed and of 7,000,000 more employed only part time; of the farmers who have lost their farms; of the bankers who have lost their capital; of the laboring men who have lost their jobs, while they know that, under our leadership, the number of those whose incomes exceed a million dollars a year has increased from 30 in 1920, to 149 in the depression year of 1930.

"Be it further resolved, That since we are not let the people think on these things, we will confuse them and render them powerless to hurt us by injecting an issue on which the progressive forces are divided and then confidently rely on the Democrats once more 'acting a d—m fool' at the right time. Let our slogan be, 'United we stand; divided they fall'."

Hay then quoted his own resolve as follows:

"I solemnly resolve that so far as in my power lies, the party now in power shall not escape an accounting for its failures and blunders; for its base surrender to the forces of aggregated wealth and special privilege by injecting any issue designed to divide our forces. It shall be my further resolve to assist the progressive forces of this country in their effort to take charge of the Government in the name and on behalf of the masses of the people."

No Mocking Triumph.

Hay said it behooves us to reexamine and rededicate our party and ourselves. The people can afford to have no empty victory; they will not stand for a mocking triumph. They cannot afford to change a party label without changing the kind and quality of their leadership. Hamiltonians have been in the saddle, and they have ridden to a terrible fall. With them they have led the people into the valley of destitution and millions to despair. About them blow breezes hot from the realms of discontent and revolution.

"Hamiltonians must lead no farther either openly or secretly under a false flag and a hypocritical party label."

INTERIOR DEPARTMENT BILL CUT $5,000,000 BY SENATE

Measure Sent to Conference Is First to Be Put Below House Figures.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—First of the supply bills it has cut below House approved figures, the Senate yesterday passed and sent to conference the $45,000,000 Interior Department appropriations bill.

The measure, as it came from the House, carried $50,000,000, which the Senate increased to $57,000,000 before sending it back to committee with instructions to cut it 10 per cent below the House figure.

Although attempts were made by various Senators to restore amounts cut from projects in their states, the Senate supported throughout the committee reduction. The only change made in the bill was an addition of $135,000 for relief among Indians in the Southwest, asked by Senator Hayden (Dem). Ariz. This fund will be distributed largely among the Navajos, Zunis and Apaches of Arizona and New Mexico and was indorsed by the Indian Bureau. The Senate rejected an attempt by Senator King (Dem.), Utah, to limit to $10,000,000 Indian Bureau's expenditures for salaries for which about $12,000,000 now is provided.

300 ILL IN CALIFORNIA TOWN WITH UNEXPLAINED MALADY

Half the Patients in Santa Paulo, Cal., Are Children; Poison Spray on Vegetables Suspected.

By the Associated Press.

SANTA PAULA, Cal., April 14.—Health authorities were making exhaustive tests of food and water here today in an effort to discover the source of the unexplained illness of 300 Santa Paula residents, more than half of them children.

Those taken ill have symptoms similar to those of ptomaine poisoning.

Dr. John Crawford, city health officer, said it was not likely that milk could have caused the widespread illness.

Dr. J. A. King, Ventura County health officer, is aiding Dr. Crawford in chemical tests on the theory that vegetables sprayed with poison to kill insects, may have caused the sickness.

schools and barracks, and supply departments."

It provides minimum punishment of a month's imprisonment, to which may be added a fine, for any participation in the dissolved organizations or for any support accorded to them.

Formed along the lines of the old Prussia arm storm troops, the Hitlerite army was led by many former imperial officers, who became divisional chiefs under a general staff replete with military titles.

The outlawing of this "state within the state" came a month after a series of raids on Nazi headquarters in Prussia in which officials declared they obtained documents proving that the organization was treasonable.

The Government recently has been gathering material against radical elements in the movement in connection with terrorism practiced in Nazi communities against non-Nazi tradesmen.

The dissolution was a heavy blow to the storm troops, at least 80 per cent of whom are jobless. They have been drawing subsistence and four marks daily from the Hitlerites, and the Government dole at the same time.

INQUIRY IN JAPANESE TROOP TRAIN WRECK NEAR HARBIN

Tokio Newspapers Hint at Soviet Responsibility for the Crash.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, April 14.—An investigation into the causes of the wrecking of a Japanese troop train yesterday near Harbin, Manchuria, were begun there today, and, in the meantime, dispatches to several Japanese newspapers here hinted of Soviet Russian responsibility.

A dispatch to the Rengo News Agency from Harbin said the importance attached to the matter by Gen. Honjo, Japanese military commander, was shown by the fact that he sent Col. Itagaki, one of his most trusted staff officers, from Mukden to conduct the inquiry. Col. Itagaki went to Harbin by plane.

The newspaper Asahi, reporting the arrest of one Chinese in connection with the wreck, described "notable activity of Red terrorists" in the Harbin district recently. The Hji Shimpo blamed the wreck and recent attempts to dynamite the Chinese Eastern Railway "partisans," which is the term usually applied in Siberia and Manchuria to Bolshevik irregulars.

Other reports described the bitterness of the Japanese army in Manchuria against a "certain country."

WOMAN, 7 CHILDREN ARE BURNED TO DEATH

Neighbor and Two Infants Spending Night at Home Among Victims.

By the Associated Press.

ALTOONA, Pa., April 14.—Seven children and a woman were killed in a fire last night that destroyed the home of Michael Dillon at Hensheytown, near here.

The flames broke out while Mrs. Dillon, with her baby, was visiting in Bellwood, a nearby community. A neighbor, Mrs. Goldie Krutner, 29 years old, with her two infants, was spending the night in the house with the five Dillon children. No one in the house was saved.

The dead children are Roy Charles Krutner, 2 weeks old; Levi Krutner, 3 years old; Anna Dillon, 10; Lillian Pearl Dillon, 8; Edna Grace Dillon, 6; John Lawrence Dillon, 5 and Minnie Dillon, 3.

The flames were discovered by a motorist. Other motorists joined in efforts to enter the house but the flames prevented rescue.

The Altoona and Tyrone Fire Departments arrived but were unable to extinguish the fire. They saved the neighboring home of Ephraim Shaner by pumping water from a nearby stream.

Mrs. Dillon reached home about half an hour after the fire was discovered. She collapsed. Dillon, an employe of the Pennsylvania Railroad in Altoona was at work.

Mother and Five Children Perish in New York Tenement Fire.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 14.—A mother and five children perished yesterday as fire destroyed the upper floors of a tenement in Lewis Street, in the heart of the congested East Side.

The six victims, the oldest child 15, were found huddled together in a charred bedroom.

They were: Mrs. Cecilia Sanders, 42 years old, the mother; Fannie, 15; Bessie, 13; Sylvia, 11; Sarah, 7, and Irving, 4. The father, Abraham Sanders, and another small daughter, Esther, who was Sylvia's twin, were away from home at the time.

Mrs. Ida Kessler, 60, a tenant on the third floor, was burned seriously. Firemen carried her down a ladder to the street. Many other rescues were made.

Police said the fire apparently occurred in the second floor apartment of Mrs. Esther Skolky. Her son, William, 10, lighted a match, police said, in a room where an inflammable fluid was in use. Almost instantly the room was enveloped in flames which spread quickly up the wooden stairs to the roof, trapping the Sanders family on the top floor.

ROBBERS TIE TWO OFFICERS, 18 OTHERS IN BANK HOLDUP

Telephone Operator Seized and Wires to Exchange Cut by Pair at Medford, Ok.

By the Associated Press.

MEDFORD, Ok., April 14.—While one of two robbers held 20 persons, including a policeman and a Deputy Sheriff, at pistol point in the lobby of the First National Bank, his companion looted the bank of $2500 in currency early today.

The robbers at 1 a. m. seized the town's telephone operator and forced her to call the citizens and officers to the bank, after which they severed the wires running from the telephone exchange. As the various persons arrived at the bank, the robbers seized them, bound their hands with rope and herded them into the lobby. Then, while one man took charge of the captives, the second worked with an acetylene torch for three hours to open the currency safe.

The night policeman, Ed Hieland, was one of the first prisoners of the robbers. Frank Hamilton, Deputy Sheriff, was lured by one of the fake telephone calls.

The robbers escaped in an automobile.

Signs Highway Bond Bill So Legislature Can Adjourn.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 14.—Gov. Parnell signed a measure involving $47,000,000 refunding bonds for district highways. It had been the bone of contention through most of the four weeks' special session of the Legislature. House members ignored the Governor's orders to adjourn in order to give further consideration to the bill.

As the House was debating whether to recall the measure from the enrolling clerks and use it as a whip over the Governor, he and Secretary of State McDonald went to the Enrolling Committee room this morning and signed it.

LOVE AFFAIR, OF WIFE ON TRIAL FOR KILLING HUSBAND, AIRED

Witnesses Tell of Secret Meeting Between Mrs. C. M. Carran and Man.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 14. — A chain of circumstantial evidence, based on charges of an illicit love affair and greed, has been advanced by the State here in an effort to convict Mrs. C. M. Carran, Jacksonville (Fla.) widow, of killing her husband.

Carran's body was found by a roadside in a lonely rural section near Atlanta last fall. Beside him lay his widow, bound and gagged. She said Negroes had robbed and beaten him to death as they motored through the country on a vacation trip. Carran was an accountant in Jacksonville. He formerly lived in Detroit.

Mrs. Carran was indicted after she admitted visiting the vicinity of the slaying with a man other than her husband before Carran's death. Her companion was never identified, but J. Earl Smith, a Florida salesman, was indicted with the widow in the slaying. He has not been apprehended.

Witnesses were introduced by the prosecution at the widow's trial here yesterday to tell of a long association between Mrs. Carran and Smith, clandestine meetings and compromising situations in which the two were discovered. Carran's 16-year-old son, Jack, said his father and stepmother quarreled often, and that Smith visited the home in Carran's absence. Mrs. Carran, he said, once tried to get her husband to increase his insurance.

ELECTION OF SENATOR SCHALL CHALLENGED BY HOIDALE

Petition of Defeated Minnesota Democrat Alleges Violation of Corrupt Practices Act.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Einar Hoidale of Minneapolis today challenged the election of Senator Thomas D. Schall (Rep.), Minnesota, in a petition submitted to the Senate for him by Senator Walsh (Dem.), Montana, charging violation of State and Federal corrupt practices acts.

Hoidale was the Democratic candidate for Senator in 1930, and his petition cited that Schall received 293,626 votes against his 282,018, and alleged that there were irregularities in some precincts, with the vote for Schall larger than the total cast.

The specific charges were that Schall did not report all of his campaign contributions and expenditures, received contributions from "bootleggers and other law-breaking persons," used patronage or influence to "enhance his own personal and political ends and for financial support in his campaign," soliciting postal employes for contributions, and sent campaign material and attacks upon Hoidale through the mails under senatorial frank.

GET RID OF INDIGESTION IN A FEW MINUTES, OR Get Your Money Back

"Bi-carb" and milk of magnesia only make your indigestion worse in most cases, for they weaken the digestive acid in your stomach, so it cannot digest your food properly.

Pepto-Bismol does not upset your stomach. It relieves indigestion gently in a few minutes by stopping the souring of food in your stomach and the decay of food in your bowels. The medicines in Pepto-Bismol which stop souring and decay, are four of the finest medicines known to physicians. Read them on the bottle.

Also, Pepto-Bismol is not a patent medicine. It is a prescription by The Norwich Pharmacal Company, whose Unguentine and other fine medicines have held the respect of physicians, surgeons, hospitals, nurses and druggists for nearly 50 years.

If Pepto-Bismol does not get rid of your indigestion, distress after eating, heartburn and sour, acid stomach, in a few minutes, get your money back from your druggist. Delicious Pepto-Bismol is harmless. Price 50c.

But don't be absent-minded and merely ask your druggist for "something for indigestion". Ask him for Pepto-Bismol by name. Look for the name Pepto-Bismol on the bottle. Refuse the unfair offer of "something just as good" which may hinder, instead of help your digestion. Ask for Pepto-Bismol by name and get what you ask for.

STOCKS ARE UP AT CLOSE AFTER SLUMP EARLY IN DAY

Prices Work Steadily Higher After Pressure Abates and Numerous Net Gains of 1 to 4 Points Are Shown.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 14. — The stock market finally managed to poke its head up today without attracting a fresh barrage of selling. After an early slump of 1 to 4 points in several prominent issues, pressure abated, and the list worked almost steadily higher, registering numerous net advances of 1 to 4 points over the previous close. The closing tone was strong. Transfers approximated 1,600,000 shares.

A brisk rally in some of the Insull issues, coincident with a statement issued at Chicago, was helpful. Indications of a drying up of necessitious selling in isolated issues was also important factor in the turn.

People's Gas, one of the Insull issues, shot up nearly 12 points, coincident with a similar jump in Commonwealth Edison on the Curb, then lost about a third of its gain. U. S. Steel ended 2 points from the bottom, after declining 1⅜ to a new low, and American Telephone canceled a 4-point drop to 103, the lowest in 10 years. Union Pacific converted an early decline of 3 into a net gain of 4. Standard of N. J., under heavy pressure yesterday, recovered 2 points. Other issues closing 1 to 2 higher included General Motors, Lambert, Drug, Allied Chemical, American Can, Bethlehem Steel, North American, Consolidated Gas, Standard of California, Southern Pacific and others.

French Franc Shade Higher.

Principal commodities were firm. Wheat advanced more than a cent, while corn was up fractionally, and cotton pushed up 50 to 60 cents a bale.

Foreign exchanges were marked by some further firmness of the continental gold currencies. The French franc was a shade higher, still above the outgoing gold point from New York. Sterling declined a cent.

There was little further change in the money market, but there was considerable expectation that the New York Federal Reserve Bank might reduce its rediscount rate of 3 per cent either this week or next. The Bank of England made no further change in its 3½ per cent rate, but its weekly statement showed improvement in its reserve ratio.

Efforts of the oil industry to establish a higher price level for gasoline attracted attention of bankers and brokers who have been watching closely for any evidence of improvement in prices. Two of the larger companies operating in the Middle Western states marked up their retail gasoline prices.

There was widespread interest also in the announcement that the Federal Reserve Bank had embarked even more strongly on a policy of buying Government bonds to release more bank credit.

No Change in Rate.

NEW YORK, April 14.—The New York Federal Reserve Bank made no announcement today regarding any change in its rediscount rate of 3 per cent.

There was a rather wide expectation in banking and financial quarters that the bank might reduce the rediscount rate this week. This opinion was fostered by the recent sharp cut in bid and asked rates on bankers' acceptances and the open market operations of the Federal Reserve System looking to easier bank credit conditions.

Colombia Gas & Elec Dividend

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 14.—A dividend of 25c in convertible 5 per cent preferred stock on the common stock of the Columbia Gas & Electric Co. was declared today, payable May 15 to stock of record April 25.

Three months ago the company paid common stock holders 37½c a share in the convertible preferred.

Columbia adopted a policy of paying common dividends in convertible 5 per cent preferred stock instead of cash early this year.

The company paid cash dividends on the common stock at the annual rate of $2 from the time of the 2½ splitup in April, 1929 to November, 1931, when the rate was reduced to $1.50.

In a statement the company reported that cash on hand exceeds $12,500,000 and that bank loans have been reduced by $6,500,000 since Jan. 1 and now amount to $37,000,000.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, April 14.—Raw sugar was firmer early today and prices advanced 1-32c to the basis of 2.63c for spots on a continued good inquiry from refiners, while later shipment showed even more upturn. The only sale reported today was 28,700 bags of Porto Rican for prompt shipment at 2.63c, although it was revealed that late yesterday the same refiner paid 2.61c for 28,700 bags of Porto Rican for prompt shipment and that operators took 22,500 bags of Philippines for April-May shipment at 2.68c and 11,700 bags for May-June shipment at 2.70c.

Futures opened 2 to 3 points higher and later showed net gains of 3 to 4 points with May contracts selling up to .63 and September to .77. Firmness of the spot market and better cables contributed to the early buying, which appeared to come from trade and commission houses. There was some realizing or liquidation on the advance, but the offerings were readily absorbed and the market at midday held at or within a point of the best prices of the forenoon.

Refined was unchanged at 3.90c for fine granulated with a little better inquiry reported, although still confined to nearby requirements only.

Futures closed firm 5 to 6 higher. Approximated sales, 34,000 tons. May, 65@66; July, 73; September, 79; October, 82; December, 86; January, 88@89; March, 93.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES 10 TO 12 POINTS HIGHER

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 14.—An opening advance in cotton today was followed by reactions but prices steadied up again later on some further trade buying and covering which appeared to be inspired by the advance in grain and the development of a steadier tone in the afternoon stock market.

May contracts after selling off from 6.25c to 6.16c rallied to 6.22c with the mid-afternoon market quiet and steady at net advances of 4 to 6 points.

Futures closed steady, 10@12c higher. May, 6.29-30; July, 6.48; October, 6.73; December, 6.88; January, 6.96@97; March 7.12-13. Spot steady; middling, 6.40.

Cotton opened steady today at an advance of three to seven points on covering and scattered buying. May sold up to 6.25.

The English market following earlier declines rallied quite sharply before the local opening and houses with Liverpool connections were moderate buyers here while there was also some trade demand and covering.

Buyers were supplied by Southern selling and liquidation however, and offerings increased right after the call as if influenced by the action of the stock market. May sold off to 6.17, while October reacted from 6.67 to 6.60 with active months ruling within a point or two either way of yesterday's closing before session had gone far.

The census report showing 488,655 bales consumed in this country during March against 490,509 last year was without apparent effect on the market.

Liverpool cables reported local and continental selling in the early trading there and said sales of cloths and yarns were below production.

The early decline extended to 6.16c for May and 6.58c for October, or about 1 to 3 points below yesterday's closing quotations on the active positions. Volume then tapered off and the market later was quiet and fairly steady on some further trade buying and covering. At midday prices showed rallies of 2 or 3 points from the lowest.

FOREIGN MARKETS AT A GLANCE

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 14.—Due to better Wall street reports, German news and easy money, a cheerful tone was maintained on the Stock Exchange which helped a general improvement in prices. The absence of a change in the bank rate had no effect on prices and the close was quieter. Trans-Atlantic and Argentine shares closed under their best quotations.

PARIS, April 14.—The opening tone of the Bourse was weak but prices later stiffened and the closing was well maintained.

BERLIN, April 14.—The Government's anti-Nazi measures pleased the Boerse, as it tended to quiet the political situation. Prices improved three to four points and closed firm.

ANACONDA COPPER REPORT

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 14.—Anaconda Copper Mining Co., one of the world's leading producers and fabricators of copper, reported a net loss of $3,151,726 for 1931, after charges for depreciation and obsolescence, in contrast to a net profit of $18,782,968 reported for 1930.

In addition, the statement showed an inventory writedown of $7,449,459, reflecting the reducing of all unsold metals to market values, and dividends paid of $6,765,656. These and other minor deductions resulted in an aggregate deficit for the year of $17,829,338, charged to surplus.

The corporation curtailed its gross production of copper to 561,171,473 pounds from 647,411,665 in 1930, and 990,569,463 in 1929. The combined output of the American Brass Co., and the Anaconda Wire and Cable Co., subsidiaries, was 515,210,183 pounds.

These two companies had unfilled orders at the end of the year amounting to 199,671,316 pounds of copper, and 28,625,652 pounds of zinc.

The comparatively brief report which contained also statement of current assets and liabilities pointed out that efforts to bring production into line with consumption were only partially successful, resulting in a further accumulation of stocks.

WHEAT PRICES AGAIN HIGHER IN LOCAL TRADE

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, April 14.—Wheat scored another substantial upturn today and closed ⅜c to 1⅜c higher, but down from day's best. The market still was under influence of Southwest comment. Corn closed ½c to 1c higher.

Winnipeg closed 1@1⅜c higher. Liverpool in one cable was ¼@⅝d better. The close was unchanged to ¼d higher.

Rain expected in Southwest was said not to have materialized. Rumors that Italy would raise import quota of wheat also was included in day's news.

Local wheat receipts which were 49,000 bushels compared with 70,000 a week ago and 28,000 a year ago, included 25 cars local and 10 through. WHEAT CLOSES HIGHER BUT DOWN FROM TOP

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Active general buying late today hoisted wheat prices to the topmost point touched since November last.

Bullish crop reports continued. Rainless skies prevailed, it was said.

After a maximum jump of almost 3 cents, wheat closed unsettled, 1¼@1⅜ over yesterday's finish, corn ¼@½c up, oats unchanged to ⅛c higher and provisions unchanged to 2 cents down.

Wheat prices rose early today, influenced by failure of expected rains and by further comment on the condition of domestic winter wheat crops southwest.

Further stimulus to buyers resulted from rumor that Italy would raise her wheat import quota 10 to 25 per cent beginning April 26. Opening unchanged to ½ higher, wheat afterward scored an all-around advance. Corn started unchanged to ¼ off and subsequently tended upward.

Reactions from early top prices for wheat were ascribed to selling due to weakness of securities. On the dips, however, wheat buying picked up at times, and appeared to be based not only on bullish wheat crop advices, but also on delays to seeding of spring wheat.

Provisions lacked support despite upturns in hog values.

WHEAT PRICES AGAIN HIGHER IN LOCAL TRADE

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, April 14.—Wheat scored another substantial upturn today and closed ⅜c to 1⅜c higher, but down from day's best. The market still was under influence of Southwest comment. Corn closed ½c to 1c higher.

Winnipeg closed 1@1⅜c higher. Liverpool in one cable was ¼@⅝d better. The close was unchanged to ¼d higher.

Rain expected in Southwest was said not to have materialized. Rumors that Italy would raise import quota of wheat also was included in day's news.

Local wheat receipts which were 49,000 bushels compared with 70,000 a week ago and 28,000 a year ago, included 25 cars local and 10 through. WHEAT CLOSES HIGHER BUT DOWN FROM TOP

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Active general buying late today hoisted wheat prices to the topmost point touched since November last.

Bullish crop reports continued. Rainless skies prevailed, it was said.

After a maximum jump of almost 3 cents, wheat closed unsettled, 1¼@1⅜ over yesterday's finish, corn ¼@½c up, oats unchanged to ⅛c higher and provisions unchanged to 2 cents down.

Wheat prices rose early today, influenced by failure of expected rains and by further comment on the condition of domestic winter wheat crops southwest.

Further stimulus to buyers resulted from rumor that Italy would raise her wheat import quota 10 to 25 per cent beginning April 26. Opening unchanged to ½ higher, wheat afterward scored an all-around advance. Corn started unchanged to ¼ off and subsequently tended upward.

Reactions from early top prices for wheat were ascribed to selling due to weakness of securities. On the dips, however, wheat buying picked up at times, and appeared to be based not only on bullish wheat crop advices, but also on delays to seeding of spring wheat.

Corn and oats dragged owing to slowness of cash demand.

GOVERNMENT BONDS FEATURE OF TRADING

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 14.—The United States Government list ran away with the bond market today, all of the Liberties and Treasuries reaching new highs for the year with gains ranging from ⅛ to more than 2 points.

Corporate securities, on the other hand, were generally irregular, although the railway section improved substantially and some spots were discernible among the utilities and industrials.

Announcement that the Federal Reserve banks expected to increase their buying of the Federals brought a rush of traders and investors into this department. While the Liberties were strong, the greatest demand was for the Treasuries.

Gainers among the carriers included some liens of Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Chicago & Northwestern, St. Paul, Erie, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Nickel Plate, Frisco and Southern Pacific. Issues of Pennsylvania, Southern, Alleghany and Chesapeake & Ohio were under pressure.

Consolidated Gas bonds firmed, as did those of International Telephone and Postal Telegraph. Western Unions were weak as were Texas Corp 5s. Loans of Kreuger & Toll and International Match again declined along with those of Dodge Bros. Phillips Petroleum and Shell Union. Those of Armour & Co. rallied after early losses.

Obligations of Poland, Austria, Belgium and Colombia declined sharply. Gains were recorded by some bonds in Australia, Brazil, Japan and Sao Paulo. The Germans were barely steady.

VIGOROUS RECOVERY IN SOME UTILITIES ON CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 14.—Utility stocks staged a vigorous recovery on the curb market today.

Commonwealth Edison, after declining 4 points to 50, jumped back to 68, a net gain of 14 points, although the close was under the high. Electric Bond & Share had an extreme advance of 2 points, while that company's preferred issues soared about 5 each. American Gas rallied 2.

Commonwealth Edison finished at 62, up 8 points, and Electric Bond & Share at 14⅜, up 1¾. American Gas showed a net gain of 1¾.

Early weakness in the oils disappeared when the market turned strong. A loss of 1½ points in Standard of Ohio was mostly recovered while Indiana and Gulf converted small declines into fractional advances.

Aluminum of America advanced 3¼ to 28, falling back a point from the best. Electric Bond & Share 5 per cent preferred jumped 50 points to 36 and the 6 per cent issue nearly as much, touching 50 on the rebound.

RICHMOND HEIGHTS BOARD AVOIDS ROW BY ADJOURNING

Crowd Gathers Expecting Excitement Over Temporary Appointments Made by Mayor.

More than 300 persons went to the Richmond Heights City Hall last night to attend the first meeting of the new Board of Aldermen, expecting to see some excitement. The new Mayor, John J. Flanagan, had made temporary appointments in seven offices ordered vacated by the retiring board at its meeting Saturday night and the question of permanent appointments was to be taken up.

After waiting nearly an hour after the appointed time, the board met, decided that the meeting was illegal because the day was a legal holiday, Jefferson's birthday, and adjourned. There was a three-minute discussion in which the five board members opposed to Flanagan attempted to overrule the City Attorney's decision concerning the legality of the meeting. The Mayor's vote was necessary in the ballot on adjournment.

As a result of the adjournment, Flanagan's temporary appointments will stand until a later meeting, when he will propose permament appointments.

At University City three new Aldermen, who were elected over administration candidates after one of the hottest campaigns in years, were installed at a meeting attended by about 600 citizens. After the ceremonies, Mayor Ruth, in a brief speech, appealed for harmony in working out the city's problems, adding that he had been assured by the Aldermen-elect that they would co-operate. The new Aldermen are Dr. Arthur O. Ozment, First Ward; Dr. Leo P. Fitzgerald, Second Ward, and Mathew C. Fogarty, Third Ward.

LIMA, PERU, PAPER COMMENTS ON U. S. LOANS MEETING

Says Effort Is Being Made to Safeguard Investors Without Regard to Debtors.

By the Associated Press.

LIMA, Peru, April 14.—Commenting on a meeting to be held at Washington tomorrow to discuss loans by United States investors to Latin-America Governments, the newspaper El Comercio said today "the State Department is trying to safeguard American investments, but it offers no facilities to the debtor nations to restore their economic activity."

The editorial referred to the protective tariff on cotton, sugar and fuel oil, asserting that "notwithstanding the debtors' good intentions to meet their obligations, if they lack means they cannot pay. If the United States closes its market to foreign products the effort to safeguard American investments will be illusory. The United States itself is to blame if its debtors lack the money to pay their debts."

MISSOURI RECEIVER SOUGHT FOR MAIL ORDER PLANT

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 14.—Four former employes and a stockholder of the National-Bellas-Hess, Inc., a mail order plant here, applied in Circuit Court here today for a receiver for the Missouri property of the company.

Nathan Kraft, the stockholder, alleges the plant virtually is shut down and that supplies and machinery constituting the assets are being scattered over other states.

The former employes, Mrs. Retha White, Miss Florence Snoderly, David Salvay and Miss Mary Masterson, allege they are creditors of the company in the amount of $100 each because of wage reductions given them without notice in violation of the Missouri law.

Boy Crazy

by Grace Perkins

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

IN spite of her continual activities, Hope was increasingly lonely, unable to readjust herself, unable, no matter how hard she tried, to forget Dickey. Even hating him, she remembered. If only she could forget! And somehow, the more she remembered, the less she hated him. The more she brooded over him, wondering how she had ever so totally misjudged him. Most of all, was she unable to find anyone to take his place.

> SYNOPSIS
> The marriage of Hope Ross and Dickey Dale has been annulled by Hope's father, but Hope is determined to see Dickey, who is in college at Harmouth. Mr. Ross has told Hope that Dickey has not tried to see her, knowing he prevented the meeting. Hope wants to get even.

A great shock was when Judy was firmly forced into announcing her engagement to Frisky Hall—the greatest catch of all Westchester. It brought Hope and Judy closer together, for with Hope, Judy could sit and gulp highballs that stopped the tears, while she vowed viciously that she'd never marry Frisky, that she'd keep postponing the engagement forever, that she was still seeing, almost as much as ever, Tom Post, her saxophone player, who understood and would wait for her—nay, kidnap her if necessary. . . . If only Tom would become successful as a lyric writer. . . .

Then Betty Preston, whom Hope had never liked too well, appeared at the Country Club celebration with a new, magnificent male in tow—a 21-year-old sophomore at Harmouth. A boy who earned the name of "Twosome" Hubbard because of his astonishing propensities for heartbreaking.

Long and often did Hope dance with this Twosome, asking subtle and flip questions about Harmouth, asking him if he had ever met her "annulled husband," Dickey Dale.

"No," said Twosome, with a broad grin, "but I've heard enough about him to fill a library."

"Well," Hope leaned back in his arms and almost lost step with the fox trot. "Go in some time and introduce yourself to him. And tell him I hope he graduates with honors!"

She hated herself the moment she had spoken the words. Hated herself a million times more when Betty came over to her house one afternoon three weeks after New Year's, carrying a letter from Twosome Hubbard, in which he reported that he had carried out Hope's suggestion with Dickey Dale, and had nearly been thrown downstairs for his trouble. Dickey had said, and said ferociously, that he never wanted to hear Hope's name again!

AN IDEA, in those days, was an accomplished feat with Hope. Quite subtly she favored Betty Preston, cultivating her closest friendship. Until finally she confided, with beautiful finesse, and a secrecy that flattered Betty into ecstasies, that she wanted to go to the prom at Harmouth.

Delighted with having a hand in an adventure, Betty wrote to Twosome. And Twosome, after considerable bribing and counter-bribing, dug up a "blind date" for Hope for the prom. A boy, wrote Twosome, named Tuck Hall, who was a sophomore like himslef.

After accepting the invitation from her blind date, Hope sought Judy's confidence. Hope explained she was going somewhere for a week-end. And her family mustn't dream of her whereabouts or question her absence.

Judy planned to go visit her Aunt Meg in Boston—so Hope decided to accompany her. They'd fix it with Judy's and Hope's families, and fix it with Aunt Meg, who remembered her handkerchief flirtatious youth, and adored to help Judy in any adventure that smacked of romance.

Meanwhile, in February—because Charlie had an opportunity to go to Europe—Goody and Charlie Rand were married. And many's the ship that has been launched with far less excitement and cost than the wedding of the elder daughter of John Howard Ross. Hope was present, and Goody's happiness increased her own cup of bitterness.

But Hope, up in Harmouth, hadn't a chance to give Dickey Dale a razzle-dazzle. Not a chance!

Twosome Hubbard and Tuck Hall (a big, strapping moron, with a wart on his chin, rubbery lips, and a grudge against the world) had met Hope and Betty at the station, and conducted them to the fraternity house, where they were both inmates. While they were dressing, Betty poured out her heart. She knew Hope had seen quite obviously that her beloved Twosome was ill—pale, nervous and jumpy. The truth was that Twosome was the bootlegger of Harmouth. The boy had to work his way through college, and inasmuch as his only asset was a speedy foreign car, plus the fact that Harmouth was near the Canadian border, Twosome made a run at least once a month.

But now he was terrified; not only because he had been chased more than once in the last winter; but also because the boys talked—boasted of Twosome's brave adventures when he raced up to Canada and back again with no headlights.

Hope sighed as the tragedy trickled through her preoccupied mind, and turned to comfort Betty, and offer impulsively, whatever money Twosome needed to finish his education. He could pay her back any time. . . .

BUT the shock came during the second dance at the big hall. When Twosome Hubbard, guiding Hope carefully through the crowded floor, opined that hers must have been a painful and thunderous marriage.

"Why?" Hope frowned whimsically up into his face.

"Well, Dale heard yesterday afternoon that you were coming and he beat it like a shot!"

"Beat it?"

"Back to town. He's gone down to New York to see his father."

"But"—Hope managed to seem amused, and in spite of the dizzy chill that had suddenly struck her—"what out the girl—the girl he was having up to the prom?"

"How do I know?" grinned Twosome. "Maybe there wasn't any such critter. Dale's been sour as five-day milk all this year. I found out a lot about him. He hasn't had a girl or gone to a hop."

"Oh—really?"

"Yes," Twosome nodded glibly, and began whirling her round in idiotic circles. "You must have given him what for, all right.

"Dale flunked all his midyears this winter, and has been trying to buckle down and make up so he can graduate. Drinking like a fish, he is. So the fellers told me. They say he's about as easy to live with as a rattlesnake with a sore tummy" . . .

Only vaguely did she realize that Betty and Tuck were joining them, down into the lockers, through the gym, and out to the swimming pool where they squatted on long, hard benches, and Twosome wrangled with the corks of high-sounding bottles. Tuck disappeared. After a while Hope departed.

With remarkable dignity, but quite minus a wrap which seemed too difficult to trace, Hope made her way across the well-known and memory-laden campus toward the fraternity house. Two doors down from Dickey's fraternity—only two doors away. . . .

Groping, unheeding to any sound or word, she pushed through the door and made for Tuck's room, to which she and Betty had been assigned, entered—and found Tuck himself!

TUCK was seated squat on the floor, a flat trunk pulled from under his cot, contents strewn all over the floor. He looked up, aghast, well aware of the rule that kept boys out of the fraternity houses when girls visited.

With a most unladylike, unRossly whoop of laughter, Hope slammed the door and threw herself headlong across the cot, her face dangling down toward Tuck as he knelt on the floor.

'Whatcha lookin' for, li'l boy?" gurgled Hope in high amusement.

Tuck grinned in appreciation. It suddenly dawned on him.

"You're plastered," he wagged an admonishing finger at her.

"Nobly," admitted Hope with a proud toss of her head. "Here! Don't put the things back into your trunk. What you looking for?"

"I got to get out of here. I'm not supposed to be in the house where the girls are," breathed Tuck anxiously, as he worked to repack his trunk hastily.

"Aw, shucks! Balderdash and poppy seed!" protested Hope amiably. "No harm will come to you, li'l feller. I don't bite. Look—I'll help you search!"

With one energetic scramble Hope got to her feet and snapped off the lights.

"There, it'll be lots simpler to find it in the dark," she giggled, teasingly.

"Hey, you," shouted Tuck. "Put that light on! You darned little fool!"

In the darkness he made toward the electric switch, and bumped squarely into Hope. Their heads hit with a resounding crack.

Tuck heard one firm meaningful knock on the door, and before he could reach for the light, he saw the door swing open and a figure appear silhouetted against the hall lamps.

Tuck's hand found the switch, and the sudden glow of light in the room made him blink, the stern and pained face of the chaperon standing, shocked and angry, at the threshold.

The light jerked Hope into action.

Tears were in her eyes, streaming down her face, as she turned to the white-haired chaperon in the doorway.

"He wouldn't have acted that way if he didn't care, would he?" she cried hysterically, one hand outward in urgent appeal. "He wouldn't be drinking like a rattlesnake, and beat it like a shot just because I was coming, would he?"

One short, quick word from the chaperon. One arm whitely on Tuck's arm. And Hope, staring and uncomprehending in her heavy half-sodden sobs, saw both leave the room, and stared around her with thick, unhappy puzzlement.

The LITTLE BOY With the BIG SALARY

Jackie Cooper, Now One of Our Highest Paid Cinema Actors, Discusses Horses, Guns, Dogs and Love in the Order of Their Importance.

—By MARGUERITE MARTYN

"OK" said Jackie Cooper, emerging from the bathroom, where he had been seeing his two pet turtles installed. "As soon as we get through with this and some lessons, I'm going outdoors." He did not say this ungraciously as if to hurry the interviewer, for he is a very polite little boy, bowing from the waist over a lady's hand and springing to his feet when a lady enters the room, but he did say it rather pointedly. "I'm going out to see the Zoo." Thoughtfully, after he had wriggled and flung and twisted himself into a momentarily static position at the other end of the sofa, he added, "How much does it cost to go all through it?"

For a movie actor who, next to Jolson, is said to be receiving the highest salary ever paid a performer for a single turn in the picture theaters, and that at 8 years of age, and for one who hails from Hollywood, source of tales of extravagance, Jackie showed a good deal of concern over the cost of things.

"I don't like traveling this way and living in hotels. It costs too much," he said. "Where I like to be is on a ranch with horses and cows and dogs and things. But," he sighed wistfully, "that costs too much, too. Down in San Diego, when we were making 'The Champ,' they offered me a worn out race-horse for 200 bucks and my mother said it cost too much."

"It isn't the cost, but the upkeep, as I told you, Jackie," said his mother.

"Aw, all you need for a horse is a block of hay, so high." He measured from the floor. "A square of hay like that costs five bucks. I could keep him at the riding academy like that boy Roger does his horse. Washing him and brushing him, I could do that myself. Aw, please, mother, dearest." Whereupon, he threw himself headlong into his mother's lap wrapping his arms tight around her neck. Rough and tumble, all boy that he is, this was rather a surprising gesture.

HE is not what anybody would call as handsome a child as Jackie Coogan, which makes his success and popularity all the more remarkable. He has tow-colored very straight hair with a cowlick which causes a lock to be always dropping down over one eye, eyes that almost disappear when he grins. His complexion is ruddy and had a newly scrubbed, shiny look though his mother, attempting to smooth the unruly hair, also peeped suspiciously behind his ears. He is stockily built and was wearing a white woolen polo shirt tucked in brown flannel shorts, with socks.

His tastes are distinctly masculine, but he is being reared by women, his mother, grandmother and a woman tutor, his father having died when he was 2½. His women folk are all traveling with him and, man like, he was objecting to so much bustling about incident to unpacking.

"We're only going to be here a week and they are putting things in the bureau drawers," he complained. "I'd just leave them in the trunks and be all ready to start."

But he is not at all self-conscious at being discovered in a petting scene. "I love my mother the best," he confided to me between hearty kisses on her cheeks. "And I tell him," said his youthful mother, who was a vaudeville actress with her husband as her partner, "that some day he'll meet a more beautiful lady and forget all about his old mother."

"No," said Jackie emphatically, "my mother will always be first. The kids will come second. My grandmother will be third and the missus, if there IS any, will have to be fourth.'

"He always sticks to that order," explained the mother, "and never can understand when I tell him I love him best. 'What about grandmother? She's your mother,' he says."

WHICH was his favorite role in all the pictures he has acted, Skippy, Sooky, Donovan's Kid, the Champ?

"Oh, I don't know. I never had a part I really liked all through. They always put crying scenes in 'em. I'd like to act in a picture that didn't have any cryin' in it, just fighting and shooting and going up in airplanes and riding bronchos. I'd like to act in a real Western. Or a comedy with all laughing and no crying."

"Is it hard to cry in pictures?"

"Not when they bawl you out," he responded promptly, but with a belligerent rather than any self-pitying note. "Of course, I know they're just kidding. They are not really mad at me, but," he grasped his chest, "it tears you down inside, and," clutching his throat graphically, "it makes you all choke up."

"Do you always do just what the director tells you to, Jackie?"

"Well, of course they know their jobs and I always do what they tell me to if it feels right, but sometimes they tell me to do something like stamping my foot or doubling up my fist or something I don't think exactly goes with the lines I am saying, and so I do my way, like I think I would do if I was that boy and they let it stay in the picture that way."

"Do you always repeat the lines just as they are written?"

"I always memorize them, but then sometimes I change the words, as they are more natural. Pooh, memorizing isn't anything. I can remember lots in picture I did a long time ago. Sometimes in the night I say them over to myself."

I noticed he carried a pistol in his belt and remarked upon it.

"Always have to have my gun with me," he said, strutting about pompously and assuming several bad-man poses. Slipping up on me stealthily, he whipped out the weapon and leveled it at my chin. "You're covered!" he said quietly but fiercely.

"It's a real gun, not a pop pistol." And sure enough it was, with cartridge clip and everything. "It cost me five bucks and the man let me have a special price on it."

"You don't shoot real bullets, do you?"

"Oh, no, that wouldn't do," he replied gravely. "I have shot blanks in it, though. Once a policeman on the rifle range let me shoot a real thirty-eight." Followed then a discussion with the photographer of a record of targets hit and missed, one in the middle out of 18 shots, a couple of fours and a couple of fives; also a technical discussion of cameras from which mere women were excluded.

"You can buy those flash lights and use them in your own home. Yes, you can. I priced some at the drug store."

"About these lessons, what do you study?" he was asked.

"Oh, we have 'rithmatic, spelling, language, Spanish, history and geography," he responded rather wearily. "I only like spelling and history and geography, and I'm best in spelling. I don't say I am a champion speller or anything like that," he added modestly, "but in spell-downs I hardly ever miss a word that's in the sixth grade."

"How about 'olives'?" his mother queried, teasingly. Then, much to Jackie's evident discomfiture, she told how the night before on the diner he had misspelled "olives" on his order and had excused it by saying it was "a seventh grade word."

This was his first long journey and he had had a grand time on the train. He had watched his time table closely and knew the names of all the states and cities and the time he had passed through them. "I saw the desert and the big farms in Kansas. Mother said it would be lonesome to live there, but I said that was just where I would like to live."

THE twitting about the misspelled word still rankled. Lying with his back on the floor and his heels kicking the sofa cushions, he peered back at his mother mischievously. "Now, I'm going to tell something on you. 'Member that assistant director of The Champ?" His mother hastily left the room.

"She knows I won't tell if she is not here," he explained. "His name was"— then louder, "his name was —Aw, Mother, come on back, dearest. I won't tell. I'll give you one more chance, but the next time you tell anything on me"—

Apparently, there was something Mrs. Cooper would rather not have told. Returning to the room, she remarked, "With so much attention, he gets a little fresh."

"Aw, no, mother," said Jackie coaxingly, climbing into her lap again.

"I won't really tell anything you don't want me to. You see," he said, addressing me sagely—now he wasn't the least babyish, but quite the indulgent man of the house, "You can't always get your own way in the family. And you have to have a family to tell you what's wrong, to correct you. I know mothers are always right—but, there always has to be that little but, too."

"I got an airplane from Ned Golden when we left Los Angeles," he remarked appropos of nothing at all. "And mother got a diamond wrist watch for a going-away present."

"Now, Jackie," warned his mother.

"Well," he said, kicking the carpet as he walked about, meditatively, assuming an air of baffled memory. Then, roguishly, "I would tell who gave it to you but I can't remember his dumb name."

Jackie Cooper, I thought, really ought to have some straight comedy to act in.

HEALTH

Brief articles prepared by experts. Edited by Dr. Iago Galdston, for the New York Academy of Medicine.

Skin-Breathing

THAT certain animals, notably the frog, can and do breathe through their skins has been common knowledge for many years.

But that the human skin permits the passage of the two essential respiratory gases, carbon dioxide and oxygen, is a comparatively recent observation.

In 1851 Gerlach, a German scientist, demonstrated that the surface of the skin not only eliminates carbon dioxide but also absorbs oxygen from the surrounding air.

Recently it has been found that carbon dioxide, a waste product incidental to the vital activities of all the body cells, is excreted by the skin as well as the lungs, and that the rate of excretion through the skin depends upon the temperature and the humidity of the air in contact with the skin.

Drs. Shaw, Messer and Weiss showed that there was a 46 per cent increase in the rate of the carbon dioxide excretion with the onset of cold weather and a diminution of 30 per cent at the onset of warm weather.

The skin also allows the inward passage of oxygen, but, according to the experimenters, does not allow oxygen inside the body to pass outward through the skin.

When the surrounding air contains 8½ per cent carbon dioxide a stage of equilibrium is reached where the gas neither passes in nor out through the skin.

Should the concentration of carbon dioxide in the surrounding air reach a higher percentage carbon dioxide passes through the skin from the air into the body.

When the percentage is less than 8½ carbon dioxide passes out from the body through the skin.

These experiments demonstrate that the skin does breathe and may give us a physiological argument against dirty skin.

Also they may explain the tonic effect on the skin and the body of exposure to the air, of exercise and of massage.

If you ask My Opinion

by Martha Carr

MY DEAR MRS. CARR: I need advice and you seem to be the one person who might tell me what to do. Last night my boy friend was acting queerly and when I asked him the reason, he said someone had told him something about me that happened a long time ago. He refused to tell me what it was or who said it. Until now, I believed this fellow loved me, but something crashed last night when he said that. If he really loved me he would come to me and not listen to lies. For that is what it is. I have never done anything wrong or anything, knowingly, that would hurt him. Must I refuse to see him unless he consents to explain? Oh, Gee! Mrs. Carr, if he would only try to understand. He is being terribly unfair. SO BLUE.

If I did not refuse to see him, I would, certainly give him a dose of coolness and indifference. He has no right to insinuate that you are not to be trusted and should be called to account for it. If he is making that an excuse to get away from you, it is a pretty cowardly excuse. Some men think they must test a girl and break her spirit in order to be sure of her love. But no man of honor will do that.

MY DEAR MRS. CARR: I have been reading your letters and have gained a lot. Please answer these: 1—When you have won honors at school and it is announced before a crowd and they all clap hands, should you clap? 2—I expect to go to St. Louis over the week end, what shall I take to wear? 3—How would you introduce two boy friends if they were strangers and came to your house the same time, without making them angry? 4—Mrs. Carr, are my vocabulary and handwriting all right? JUST A FRESHIE.

You wouldn't like to applaud yourself, would you? 2—If you are coming soon, you probably could do very well with one wool (or sports dress) one silk for afternoon, semi-long, which you could wear in the evening for informal things and a silk (shorter, about 12 inches from the floor) a fairly warm coat, and if you are going to a formal dance, an evening gown and wrap. 3—Introduce them the same as you would any one else. If you know both boys well, "John, this is Edward." If you must be more formal, "Mr. Wright, Mr. Smith." 4—Your vocabulary does not show any precocity and your handwriting, for your age, is unusually nice and clear—even has some distinction.

MY DEAR MRS. CARR: I have been going with a boy for about a year. Then he asked me to change my religion. I think he is very unreasonable and I will not change and give up the church my dead mother chose. I do not see any reason why we couldn't go out together and still love each other without fighting over religion. My older sister says he really doesn't love me if he won't go with me because I am not a member of his church. BLUE-EYED SUZANNA.

It does seem a little narrow and "hidebound." Probably when the boy grows older he will learn that converts made by force are rather unsatisfactory members. Does he suggest which door of his church you must enter? And whether you start in first with the left foot or the right foot?

I agree with you that right now there is no reason why this question should be settled between you or interfere with your friendship. Those things are much more easily adjusted when you have grown older.

DEAR MRS. CARR: How could I obtain work as an illustrator of stories or that type of drawing? I have had little training, but draw very well and need money to finish high school. Would artists pay for minor help? WAITING.

Take some of your work with you and go to see the registrar out at the St. Louis School of Fine Arts. Ask the name of artists in town who have studios of their own and go to see them. Most of the illustrators for magazines work in New York. Read a story on some magazine, make what you think might be good illustrations for it and send it on to the editor, just to show him what you might do. Also go to the offices of the advertising companies here and show your work.

DEAR MRS. CARR: Will you please let me know where I can obtain information about the raising of white mice and guinea pigs for experimental purposes?

Would you suggest some books that would help a person of limited education? LENORE.

Does anybody among my correspondents know anything about raising such pets (if you want to call them that) for any purpose? I imagine you could find out at any of the "Pet Shops."

Send : a self-addressed and stamped envelope for suggestions about books. But be sure to say whether you want them for improvement of English, vocabulary, a knowledge of travel, mystery yarns, sports, romance or what? A request at the information bureau at the Public Library might even bring better results.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for a personal reply.

DEAR MARTHA CARR: I go to the Country Day School and am in love with a girl that lives on the other side of the county. I am not old enough to drive a car and have not a large allowance, so I can't even go to see her on the street car—just can go when my friends take me in their cars to call on her. How can I prove I love her? I never get her when she's alone. INCOG.

When you can't even get street car fare to go see a girl, it is pathetic. But summer is coming on and why not get up a picnic? Other people's cars are handy for that, and the "eats" can be shared and there are lots of nice, shady, ferny spots.

DEAR MRS. CARR: I am in need of your advice. I am much in love with a boy and he with me. But I will not acknowledge it to him, because he is the kind that would think he owned me (if you know what I mean) and would then go get another girl and play around with her, thinking he could come back to me any time. Do you think I am treating him right.

A BLUE-EYED DOLL.

Exactly. I congratulate you upon having discovered the true system. At the same time, give him just a little peep at your heart, once in a while, then run right away.

DEAR MRS. CARR: I used to go with a boy whose friendship I valued very highly. We had a misunderstanding about another girl and now he refuses to speak. I pass him many times a day, but he turns away, while I would gladly renew the friendship. What shall I do? JAY.

Keep your mind on your lessons and forget about him. He will probably get over the pouts if you do; whereas, if you show you are worried he may enjoy keeping it up just to worry you.

Flower Placing On Spring Chapeaux

Flowers bloom in unexpected places on this spring's hats. Some chapeaux have a cluster of tiny brilliant blossoms perched in the center of the crown; others have a mass of blooms across the back, while still others have bright sprigs poised on the edge of a turned-up brim.

A Good Brushing

When you remove your cloth or velvet hat and again before donning it, brush it well. A clean hat is far less apt to spot disastrously from rain than a dusty one, as plain water marks will steam out easily without leaving a stain, while if mixed with dust they are very difficult to remove.

Navy Blue Topcoat

The Princess Ruspoli appeared at a recent smart tea in Paris wearing a navy blue broadcloth topcoat made of the same material as that used in England for the Guards' uniforms. The coat was designed with a belted waistline and a stitched tailored collar, rising in the back to make a frame for the face.

Paris Younger Set Favors Suede Berets

The suede beret is the Paris younger set's jauntiest street chapeau. Made of very fine black skin, which molds easily to the head, it is generally trimmed with a curled black eagle feather perched Indian fashion at the back. The beret is generally worn at an exaggerated angle on one side of the head.

Yellow Slickers

Frequently these slickers become unsightly and yet are far from worn out. The soil may be removed by washing in lukewarm suds, using a brush on the bad spots. Rinse in the same temperature water and hang on a hanger to drip dry. When thoroughly dry apply a thin coat of shellac.

Berets Still in Vogue

Sailors are the preferred type of hat for street and sports wear. These, of either felt or straw, feature brims of many widths and shapes. Mostly, the crowns are shallow. Beret shapes are still in vogue, however.

Mrs. Hoover Wears Plain Black Suit

Mrs. Herbert Hoover wore at the society circus at Fort Myer a plain black suit trimmed with a black and white fur collar. Her hat was of black straw and felt. At the same event Mrs. Patrick Hurley, wife of the Secretary of War, wore a navy blue suit with matching straw hat and a sable scarf.

Obstinate Windows

If you find the weather stripping causes your windows to stick and prove difficult to open and close, dip a cloth in hot paraffin and rub along the stripping. It will make nice smooth tracks for the window sash.

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN

By Mary Graham Bonner

More African Animals

JOHN AND PEGGY had fallen asleep and they had not known whether the chimpanzees had continued talking throughout their sleep or whether they had started in again the minute they were awake!

At any rate the chimpanzees were talking and chattering and doing tricks and telling all about themselves and their lives and famous chimpanzee happenings.

In fact it was like hearing chimpanzee history, only the chimpanzees never bothered about any dates.

Then they talked some more about Africa and told John and Pegg about many of the animals the children wouldn't have time to see.

They realized they would not be able to see all of Africa's animals, but they were certainly doing pretty well.

Now their pilot came for them, so they left the chimpanzees to fly over Africa in the plane which had John's name on it.

As they flew along the pilot told them more stories of Africa's animals, of stories the natives told about them, and of secrets, they told themselves of their own ways.

Now, all of a sudden, they arrived far down in South Africa and the pilot told them that they were going to see the members of the ostrich family.

"They're birds, of course," the pilot said, "but they are so large they should be included on this trip.

"There are some who live up north, and they are members of the oldest family of ostriches known, but there are not so many of them these days."

"Oh, look!" shouted Peggy. "Do you see the way that ostrich is dancing about! Isn't he funny?"

NISLEY GALLERY OF BEAUTIES

Mrs. Sheridan

At eighteen married the most brilliant man of his day, Richard Brinsley Sheridan. Possessed of so beautiful a voice that when she sang in one of Handels oratorios, in Convent Gardens, Lent 1773, King George publicly expressed his admiration.

blue is the sweetest color that's worn"

Empress Tie of blue kid with just the right height of Louis heel. Also substantially same pattern with boulevard heel

To complete our quotation—"Blue, darkly, deeply, beautifully blue."

Southey must have had in mind the precise shade of blue we provide in pumps, straps and ties. And likewise only a Southey could do justice to the graceful lines and beauty of pattern of the shoes themselves. You, however are the only one who can discover the perfection of their fitting in sizes 2½ to 9, widths AAAA to D
